CHICAGO FACES CRISIS IN ITS JUDICIAL FIGHT

Circuit Bench Picked Next Monday.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The judicial election of June 5, next Monday, now emerges as the next step that Chicago must take in its social development.

This issue is of great importance, deciding the quality of the courts of justice for the next six years, reconstructing particularly the Circuit bench, which is close to the people in common law disputes and in chancery matters affecting property and receiverships.

THE TRIBUNE realizes the importance of the decisions to be made by the voters, and in this and succeeding articles will attempt to clarify a situation which has become confused through the jockeyings and manipulations of political parties, the long debate over coalition, mixed party tickets, and the campaign of the Chicago Bar association to make the election conform to its own organization vote.

Custom of The Tribune.

THE TRIBUNE has always leaned to the judgment of the bar association in the selection of judges. It has also been its custom to support sitting judges as opposed to newcomers, unless the records made on the bench were unsatisfactory and the good points of the aspirants outweighed these records.

In the present election the bar association has failed to indorse seven of the sitting judges of the Circuit court, some of whom have given long and devoted public service on the bench and performed notable achievements in the public welfare. It is in this field that a reëxamination is considered necessary, so that the voters may know exactly what they are called upon to decide.

Feinberg and Klarkowski.

The bar association campaign centers on Judge Michael Feinberg and Stanley H. Klarkowski, who have received its most sweeping condemnation as a result of receivership scandals. The thumbs down of this organization of lawyers also extends to Judge Harry M. Fisher, although no charges are made against him and he is regarded by them as "the smartest man on the bench." The other four who failed to qualify in the bar primaries are Judges David M. Brothers, George Fred Rush, John R. Caverly, and Denis J. Normoyle.

There are distinctions made even in the bar association viewpoint toward these seven. No such distinctions, however, can be made in the decisions, for the sample ballots of the bar association reflect equally against them all. It becomes a simple matter of marking a cross, and the failure to do so, the blank space, becomes the burden under which these judges are staggering. They have tried hard to win this coveted indorsement. Some of them now defy it. Others are secretly heartstricken. There is a human situation here to be considered.

Three Tickets in Field.

There are three tickets in the field, Democratic, Republican and People's Judiciary, the latter of which is considered negligible by the lawyers. Twelve of the candidates on the Democratic ticket and eight on the Republican ticket are supported by the bar association The Democratic ticket, which might be expected to win in such a year as this, contains the names of the Republican judges, Feinberg and Klarkowski.

The Republican ticket contains much excellent material for the bench, according to men who are acquainted with the candidates. The Bar association ticket cuts across party lines, making Municipal Judges Edgar A Jonas, Theodore F. Ehler, and John J. Lupe, and City Judge Craig A Hood of Chicago Heights, an acting Circuit judge, the favorites over the old sitting judges, and adding Freeman Le Roy Fairbank, Guy Guernsey, Samuel Heller and Harry S. Ditchburne to their ticket.

12 Sitting Judges Indorsed.

Sitting judges indorsed by the bar are Hugo M. Friend, Francis S. Wilson, Joseph Burke, William V. Brothers, Kickham Scanlan, David F. Matchett, Daniel P. Trude, Philip L. Sullivan, John Prystalski, Philip J. Finnegan, Frank H. Bicek, and Thomas J. Lynch.

The officers of the Bar association, which thus seeks to guide this election through the political maze, are Charles P. Megan, president; Walter H. Eckert, first vice president; John D. Black, second vice president;

FAIR WILL HONOR HEROIC DEAD IN SERVICES TODAY

Thousands Expected at Exposition.

Memorial Day

The chief event in Chicago's observance of Memorial day will be the annual parade in Michigan avenue from Chestnut street to Roosevelt road. Details on page 2.

BY EARL MULLIN.

In special Memorial day services this afternoon A Century of Progress will pay tribute to the memory of the nation's war dead. With these services and other events on the program for the day, officials of the Fair were preparing last night for a holiday crowd larger than any that has so far attended.

Minor difficulties in the operation of the Fair have been smoothed out and yesterday the thousands of visitors were handled at the gates with ease and directed about the grounds without difficulty. On the basis of the three day total attendance of 300,000 since the exposition opened on Saturday the managers said they were confident of the success of the Fair.

Yesterday's attendance of approximately 40,000, though not as great as Sunday's, was gratifying to the exposition managers. There was no expectation, it was said, that paid admissions on any weekday would equal those of Saturdays, Sundays or other holidays.

4,000,000 Advance Sales.

No accurate figures are available of the visitors presenting tickets purchased in advance, but four million such tickets have been sold. Within three days tabulators will be working on all the gates and a record of the attendance will be compiled every two hours.

Official figures for Sunday's attendance showed that 54,921 persons passed through the turnstiles from 9:30 o'clock in the morning until the gates closed at night. This figure does not include persons who entered on tickets purchased in advance. Paid admissions totaled $21,506, while a total of $140,411 was taken in over the week-end by all the concessions on the grounds. Of the concession money, $53,977 was collected on Sunday.

Tribute Today to War Dead.

Today's program in memory of the nation's war heroes will start at 5 p. m. in the Court of the Hall of Science with seats provided for several thousand guests. Music, trooping of the colors and other features will be on the program under the direction of Mrs. Anne Faulkner Oberndorfer, representing the Chicago Friends of Music. Max Oberndorfer will be at the piano.

Among the events on the program will be a group of civil war songs to be sung by two choruses led by Frank Bennett, director of the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Glee club. Other groups that will contribute to the musical part of the program are the choruses of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, the Rotary club, and the American Legion.

Preceding the formal Memorial day program a band concert will be given. The final number on the program is to be the national anthem, with Helen Prothero singing the solo and R. C. Hurd leading the audience.

Crowds Stroll Through Grounds.

With the tension of the opening days relieved, the great majority of yesterday's visitors strolled slowly through the grounds. They were found in every exhibit and most of the Midway attractions seemed to be doing a rushing business.

The day and its events were regarded as an average of what may be expected at the Fair. The early morning hours were taken up primarily by scientific lectures and shows and entertainment for children on Enchanted island. It was noted by gatekeepers that most of the morning visitors were either children or older adults. Young men and young women were but slightly represented, apparently waiting for the attractions in the late afternoon and evening.

Almost All Exhibits Ready.

Practically all the exhibits in the great buildings of the Fair and all of the Midway attractions were in running order yesterday. In a few the final cleaning is to be done, but all are giving shows of one kind or another.

A few of the major displays are yet to be dedicated. Dedication of the Italian building, tentatively scheduled for yesterday, was postponed to Thursday. Almost all of these final

THE BACKGROUND OF A MIGHTY NATION

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

PARIS, May 29.—Excessive taxation is developing a sort of Fascism in France. This was illustrated today when tens of thousands of middle class Frenchmen throughout the country joined in a picturesque but businesslike protest against the fiscal extravagances of the third republic.

While shopkeepers in the capital and many provincial towns carried out an effective "strike," the American boxing promoter, Jeff Dickson, assembled some 25,000 voters in the Sport palace here for a thunderous though purely verbal, rebellion against the socialistically minded parliament.

Refuse to Pay More Taxes.

The climax of the meeting came when each of the 25,000 present pledged himself to refuse to pay any more taxes this year than he paid last year and to send his tax bills for 1933 to deputies in the chamber for payment. The audience blamed the whole parliamentary system for oppressive taxation.

"The impotence of parliamentary demogogues" and "incapacity to balance the nation's budget" were among the most applauded lines. In fact, they were written into the resolution adopted at the close of the meeting. Other slogans of unmistakable Fascist flavor were "fiscal equality," "a parliament deaf to our appeals," and "inflation and ruin are at our doors."

Shop Doors Barred.

The lockout by merchants was effective throughout the country. The Champs-Elysees opera district and especially the Rue de la Paix, where the luxury trade is centered, wore a Sunday aspect. Shop doors were barred and iron shutters clamped over show windows. Where cafes were open, thirsty strollers found it impossible to get a drink. The garcons were all deaf and the tables bore cards explaining that the establishment was closed in protest against excessive taxation.

Shop windows bore signs protesting against taxation. Each sign carried a 9 cent tax stamp, which the government charges for all window advertising. Fiscal authorities have ruled in previous cases that protests against taxation count as window advertisements. Thus the demonstra- brought into t[illegible] state an unexpected income for the day estimated at about $40,000.

Politicians Spurn Economy.

Ironically, while the crowd at the Sport palace was yelling a denunciation of government spendthrifts, the senate was looking over the budget bill which had just come back from the chamber minus the 5 per cent reduction in all state expenses which had been voted and plus new taxes and a scheme for a government oil monopoly.

With the Socialists ready to overthrow the government if it votes for salary cuts and state employés ready to overthrow the state rather than accept any reduction, there is little chance that the senate will be able to force the economies down the parliamentary throat. It appears most probable the crisis will be averted by the senate giving up the salary cuts it is sponsoring and the Socialists in the chamber temporarily shelving their dream of putting the government into the oil business. This will leave every one happy but the taxpayers and the budget $160,000,000 short of balance.

ROOSEVELT ASKS COUZENS TO GO TO LONDON PARLEY

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] was asked today by President Roosevelt to serve as the fifth American delegate to the London economic conference. He may be the only Republican in the group which now numbers Secretary of State Hull, Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], senate foreign relations chairman; Representative Sam D. McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.], house foreign affairs chairman, and James M. Cox of Ohio.

If he accepts the Michigan senator will not sail with the delegation on the S. S. President Roosevelt next Wednesday but will follow later.

Vote Evanston Police Chief Clear Record

Police Chief William O. Freeman of Evanston was given a clean bill of health last night in a report drawn up by a citizens' committee which made an exhaustive investigation of charges against him developing out of the April mayoralty campaign in the suburb.

Immediately after reading the exonerating report to the city council, Mayor Charles H. Bartlett, who was reëlected in the April voting, reappointed Freeman as police chief. The council unanimously approved. Freeman's reappointment had been held up pending completion of the report.

Inquiry Ordered by Mayor.

The charges against Chief Freeman originated in campaign circulars said to have been distributed by supporters of Henry Penfield, opponent of Mayor Bartlett in the April election. After the balloting Mayor Bartlett appointed a committee of twelve citizens, headed by William A. Dyche, business manager of Northwestern university, to inquire into the accusations. This the committee did, and in its report said that many of the charges were admittedly made to embarrass the mayor and not to harm Freeman.

Specifically, the committee investigated charges of booze selling, gambling, graft, selling of confiscated liquor, affiliation with labor racketeers, third degree methods, financial interest in roadhouses, and political activities.

The committee gave Chief Freeman a blanket exoneration on charges of graft, selling confiscated liquor, affiliation with racketeers, interests in roadhouses, and third degree methods. As to the existence of speakeasies and handbooks in Evanston, the committee found that none operated under police protection and, that Freeman has warred on them continuously.

Police Department Praised.

"The committee feels that the police department of Evanston has a high degree of efficiency, and that the chief himself is a capable officer worthy of the confidence of the public," the committee said.

Only on the charge of political activity did the committee censure Chief Freeman. However, it pointed out as palliative circumstance the fact that he is a political appointee, and as such could hardly keep free from political activities. The committee urged that a citizens' group join with the mayor and city council in the management of the police department, so that no chief might be hired or fired without joint concurrence.

Mayor Bartlett agreed to this recommendation, and limited Chief Freeman's appointment to Dec. 31, 1933. Beginning in 1934 a new chief, probably Freeman, will be selected by a citizens-mayor-council group.

Ask 40 Million Bonds to Clear City's Finances

A whole new financial setup for the governing bodies of Cook county, with the ultimate aim of getting them all—and particularly the schools—on a "pay as you go" basis was discussed yesterday in the city hall. Attending the meeting were Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Gov. Henry Horner, Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, leaders of the Illinois legislature and representatives of the school board.

The first step in the program, agreed on by the conferees, will be the presentation of a bill at Springfield authorizing the city to issue bonds for $40,000,000 without a referendum, the proceeds to be used in taking up school tax anticipation warrants. These bonds, it is believed, would be acceptable security for a federal loan. With cash from Washington the warrants outstanding would be taken up.

Seek Cash Basis for City.

Such an arrangement, it was pointed out by the mayor, would enable the school board to pay its arrears in salaries to teachers and other employés and would enable them to go into the next year with taxes coming in with a financial setup that would permit the use of current revenues for current expenses. The city would be on a cash basis.

At present the tax money coming in is eaten up by the payment of old tax warrants. Under the new plan the bonds would be retired by reductions in expenses.

Part of the inferred agreement, if this is done, is that the school board will pare its spending to a point where the anticipated revenues will more than cover the annual expenses and arrangements to amortize the bonds over a long period of years may be made.

Pledged to Carry Out Economy.

The city, as represented by the mayor, is pledged to see that the economies are carried out, not only for the schools but for the other municipal bodies as well. The schools were taken up first because their plight has been somewhat more spectacular and somewhat more desperate than any other local government.

Specifically, the money raised on such bonds would be allocated to the working cash fund of the board of education. A previous attempt to start such a fund was made in 1930, when $25,000,000 of bonds were sold. But with the drying up of the stream of tax money this was all expended and the delay in putting in a real economy program has ruined its possibilities so far.

Must Cut $5,800,000 More.

President James P. McCahey of the school board and Howard P. Savage, business manager, reported that under the present budget plan approximately 41 million dollars for salaries and $4,800,000 for supplies and other expense are needed this year. To get the spending down to the 40 million dollars of the proposed bond issue there must be a further slash of $5,800,000.

There is already pending in Springfield a bill to permit the issuance of 10 million dollars in bonds to redeem school tax warrants issued prior to 1931. The two bond issues together, it is figured, would put the board on its financial feet and leave it with no outstanding obligations but the bonds themselves.

Would Alter Appeal Board.

In regard to the general tax situation, the conferees agreed that the present board of tax appeals, composed of two members, should be changed to a board of three, with the county assessor as an ex-officio member. This would make a much more smoothly geared organization, it is believed.

The future of the sales tax in Illinois is also to have an important bearing on Mayor Kelly's plan to place all the governments on a cash basis, without tax warrant sales to furnish current expenditure funds. A new sales tax bill, it is known, is to be introduced to take the place of the one declared unconstitutional early this month.

It is intended that this sales tax shall be applicable, in the law, to relief purposes only. Later, the leaders plan, a new session of the legislature, if it finds that the relief funds are not needed in such quantity, may arrange to leave the tax intact and let the proceeds be used to relieve property of general taxation.

"Everything we are planning," the mayor said, "is based on the pledge for economy in government, and it will be carried out. We want to get out of this muddle."

Switch on Town's Lights; Business Men to Pay Bills

Rhinelander, Wis., May 29.—[Special.]—Crandon, county seat of Forest county, which has been in darkness since early last January when the Wisconsin Valley Electric company switched off all street lights for nonpayment of service, again is illuminated. Forty business men have agreed to pay for street lighting until such time as the city is financially able to do so.

HOUSE PASSES ADMINISTRATION ACT, 283 TO 57

Senate Expected to O. K. Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.—The house of representatives today gave overwhelming assent to the administration's abrogation of the gold clause in all present and future obligations of the government and private persons in the United States.

By a vote of 283 to 57, the house adopted a joint resolution sent to congress on Friday by the treasury department, under which the obligation to pay in gold is declared no longer to exist. The senate is expected to pass the measure early next week.

Joining with the administration forces in the house in approving the measure today were 28 Republicans and all five of the Farmer-Laborite members. Nine Democrats bolted to vote with 48 Republicans against the resolution.

Luce Leads Opposition.

The scant opposition was led by Representative Robert Luce [Rep., Mass.], ranking minority member of the banking and currency committee, who before the final vote offered a motion to recommit under which the measure would have applied to future obligations, but not to those already outstanding. Mr. Luce's motion was defeated, 78 to 263.

It was Mr. Luce who likewise drafted a signed minority report in which he condemned the measure as a breach of faith on the part of the government. Throughout the day's debate he reiterated this position, insisting that the government could ill afford to nullify its contracts.

Assails Abrogating Contracts.

"This proposal has two elements," said Mr. Luce. "First, it renounces obligations of the United States. Secondly, it prohibits future obligations of the same sort. The second of these elements calls for no protest here. If in the judgment of the treasury future borrowings or issuance of currency would better not be subject to payment or redemption in gold, very well. Questioning of such judgment need not distract attention from the far more important issue, that of public faith.

"Millions of our people bought government bonds on the strength of the government's pledge to pay in gold. This pledge has been a vital consideration not alone with public securities, but also with a great number of corporate borrowings. The good faith of a nation is its greatest asset. The sanctity of contracts is the corner stone of civilization. To violate that sanctity is to invite ruin."

But in answer to Mr. Luce's plea for an adherence to the existing contract to pay in gold came Democratic assurances that abrogation of that contract would in no wise impair the ability of this government to borrow.

The legislation, said Charman Henry B. Steagall [Dem., Ala.] of the banking and currency committee, is "complementary to the steps already taken under the emergency banking act to protect the monetary system and is essential for the accomplishment of national recovery."

Lists Effect of Law.

The measure, he pointed out, in no wise affects the gold content of the dollar, in no manner alters the national currency backing. It does three things, he said, and he listed them as follows:

1. Declares that the clauses in public and private obligations stating that they are payable in gold or a specific coin or currency are contrary to public policy.

2. Provides that obligations, public or private, expressed to be payable in gold or a specific coin or currency, may be discharged dollar for dollar in legal tender, and provides that no future obligations, public or private, shall be expressed as payable in any specific coin or currency.

3. Makes certain technical amendments to the Thomas inflation amendment which are necessary to carry out the intention of that legislation regarding what shall be legal tender in the United States.

Cites Experiences in Emergency.

"The occasion for the declaration in the resolution that the gold clauses are contrary to public policy arises," said Mr. Steagall in his majority report, "out of the experiences of the present emergency. These gold clauses render ineffective the power of the government to create a currency and determine the value thereof.

"Two phenomena have developed in the present emergency to make the enforcement of the gold clauses incompatible with the public interest. The first is the tendency which has developed internally to hoard gold; the second is the tendency for capital to leave the country.

"Under these circumstances no currency system, whether based on gold or upon any other foundation, can meet the requirements of a situation in which many billions of dollars of securities are expressed in a particular form of the circulating medium, particularly when it is the medium upon which the entire credit and currency structure rests."

Calls Move Constitutional.

As to the constitutionality of the step now being taken by the government Mr. Steagall declared there was no question.

"The government," he said, "cannot by contract or otherwise divest itself of its sovereign power. All contracts of the government are made in the light of inalienable power to legislate as the public may demand.

"It is too well settled to admit of controversy that contracts or provisions of contracts, even though not inconsistent with public policy when made, may subsequently become contrary to public policy as authoritatively announced by the legislative branch of the government and that in such event they become invalid and unenforceable."

SPEED WORKS BILL

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—The swift moves of the administration along the double paths to business and employment aids brought senate approval today of the Wagner bill to create a federal-state employment system and sent the industry control-public works measure moving ahead.

Hugh S. Johnson, who will head the industry control-public works activities, was working at the innumerable details necessary to send the work ahead promptly after congressional approval.

The senate finance committee heard friend and foe on the administration's twofold measure to bring industry into a closer relationship with the government through trade associations and to stimulate purchasing power with a 3 billion 300 million construction program.

Testimony on Oil Dictatorship.

Through a long day of testimony the committee heard some oil industry representatives oppose a "federal dictatorship" over their business and others urge the legislation.

It heard James A. Emery, counsel for the National Association of Manufacturers, voice general approval, but recommend import regulation and deletion of provisions for licensing business if necessary to produce stabilization. He urged a gross manufacturers' sales tax instead of the proposed income tax increases.

The committee hopes to complete the hearings Wednesday night and report the bill to the senate by Friday or Saturday for early consideration.

Leaders Press Legislation.

As Democratic leaders pushed this legislation at the capitol, it became known that Gen. Johnson was not only President Roosevelt's selection to administer the industrial regulation sections of the legislation, but that he also is in line to direct expenditures under the public works program.

Moving into offices in the new commerce department building, Gen. Johnson has begun tentatively and unofficially creating the staff with which he expects to administer the measure.

While his office will not be created formally until enactment of the bill already passed by the house, Johnson is carrying on in compliance with President Roosevelt's demand for speed. The chief executive desires the bill to become actively effective almost concurrently with the attachment of his signature.

Johnson is understood to have selected Donald Richberg, counsel for the Association of Railway Labor Executives, to represent labor in development of the industry-public works program.

Richberg an Assistant.

Richberg, who was one of the principal drafters of the bill, is to be an assistant administrator charged with viewing each trade agreement that is presented with the intention of assuring protection for labor. Richberg is a Chicago lawyer who for years was in charge of the gas rate case for the city.

It was said authoritatively that Felix Frankfurther of the Harvard Law school was offered a place in the new administration but declined after conferring with Johnson.

Under the setup being worked out the federal trade commission, which in the past has held trade practice conferences, will be largely an investigative agency working with the administrator. In addition, the labor department is to have an appointee working directly with Gen. Johnson.

UNION AUDITOR IS ARRESTED ON PERJURY CHARGE

Sydney Robinson, an auditor for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, was arrested on a charge of perjury yesterday after he had repudiated a former identification of two men on trial for robbery. Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court issued a bench warrant charging Robinson with perjury after the testimony resulted in acquittal of the defendants.

The defendants, Sam Colton, 19 years old, and Ben Popilski, 20 years old, were held for trial on another charge of attempted robbery and kidnaping. Robinson, according to the state, had identified the men at a police showup, before the grand jury, and in the Felony court as the gun men who took $345 on Feb. 22 in a robbery of the union headquarters at 2901 West Monroe street.

Yesterday Robinson took the stand and said that he was "not sure" the defendants were the robbers. Assistant State's Attorney Emmet Moynihan told the court that Robinson had announced last Friday that he would "identity the defendants with his last breath."

CHICAGO TO PAY ALL DAY TRIBUTE TO WAR HEROES

Flowers Assured for All Veterans' Graves Today.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With flowers and song and speech and silent prayer, this city today will salute its wartime heroes, the dead and the living, in a great Memorial program beginning in early morning and continuing until sunset.

Before the dew has dried this morning fresh flowers will bloom upon the sod where marks the last resting place of the thousands of veterans in the cemeteries in and surrounding Chicago. This duty of the living to the dead has been carried out faithfully ever since Gen. John A. Logan issued an order on May 5, 1868, commanding the strewing of flowers on the graves of the dead comrades through the years.

Every Grave Decorated.

In 1884 the posts formed the G. A. R. Memorial association to make certain that every veteran's grave would be decorated, allocating a post to each cemetery. Time and wars have increased this membership until today ten major bodies are affiliated.

So it will be that the American Legion, the Dames of the Loyal Legion, Daughters of Union Veterans, Disabled American Veterans, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Loyal Legion, Sons of Union Veterans, United Spanish-American War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Woman's Relief corps, attended by Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and others will visit the cemeteries early today to lay flowers on the graves.

The most spectacular event on the Memorial day program will be the annual parade in Michigan avenue, which will begin at 2 o'clock. Thousands will march in the colorful procession from Chestnut street and Michigan avenue south to Roosevelt. Gov. Horner, army and navy officers, and civic dignitaries will act as reviewing officials.

G. A. R. Veterans Lead March.

The parade will be headed by between 55 and 60 members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the only veterans of the 134 members of Cook county posts who will attend the annual event they founded years ago. They will have an escort of police and the Black Horse troop.

Next will follow officials and guests of honor, who will review the parade from a stand in front of the Stevens hotel, followed by the grand marshal and his staff, the colors with their honorary escort and color guard.

The marshal this year will be Capt. William P. Wright, who is national commander of the G. A. R. Yesterday Capt. Wright received at Memorial hall a representative of the confederate forces who will participate today in the parade. He was Maj. Gen. James Luckie Driver, commander of the Georgia division of the United Confederate Veterans.

Veterans to Ride This Year.

The G. A. R. veterans will ride in open automobiles escorted by veterans of more recent wars. Most of them are on the border line of 90 years or over and for this reason they have agreed to ride.

The remaining members of the Grand Army of the Republic in Chicago and Cook county will spend the day quietly at home in reminiscent contemplation of the stirring days of the '60s.

The parade will disband after reaching Roosevelt road and Wabash avenue.

Besides the 134 veterans listed in the latest survey of the twenty remaining G. A. R. posts in the county, it is known that the are some other civil war veterans who, while not hailing from the Chicago area, have come here to live since the war and are not affiliated with any local G. A. R. posts.

Some Veterans Unregistered.

Some of these nonaffiliates are James Cranston, James Duncan, R. W. John, Steven Rhinehart, the Rev. S. M. Wallace, and F. M. Watkins. Additional names of civil war veterans who are not members of Cook county posts may be telephoned to THE TRIBUNE so that the list may be kept complete from year to year.

Throughout the suburbs memorial services, and in many of them parades, will be held. In Blue Island J. S. Kauffman, the one surviving member of the Blue Island post, will march. In Glencoe the Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts will parade to the Glencoe Union church, where Dr. Samuel Harkness will speak.

In Winnetka there will be a parade from the Community house to the village green. Kenilworth's services were deferred until Sunday, June 4, when Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius will speak. Wilmette will open its ceremonies with a cannon salute at 6:30 a. m.

Suburbs Unite in Ceremony.

Niles township, including Niles, Niles Center and Morton Grove, will unite in a ceremony at Memorial park in Morton Grove.

Evanston's observance will be headed by William P. Turner, commander of the Gen. John A. Logan post of the G. A. R., as honorary marshal. For the first time the Daughters of the American Revolution will take an active part in the parade. Mayor Charles H. Bartlett and President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university will be in the reviewing stand.

One of the largest memorial services to be held in the 107 cemeteries in the county will be in Oakwoods cemetery, Greenwood avenue and East 67th street, at the graves of 60 civil war veterans. Twenty-one Legion posts will hold services in the same cemetery. At Rosehill cemetery 19 posts of the Legion will participate with a parade.

Memorial day was observed yesterday in all the schools.

FRENCH ALARMED BY ROOSEVELT'S MONETARY MOVE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 29.—With the dollar closing at 21.44 francs, 50 centimes below the last official closing on Friday, and with French opinion convinced that President Roosevelt will push it down still further, pessimism regarding the world economic conference is becoming more pronounced here.

In financial quarters there is no hope of the return of the dollar to its old level while President Roosevelt's bill nullifying the gold clause is looked upon here as making stabilization impossible before the economic conference. French financial experts believe the latest monetary move of the United States carries a far wider meaning than the White House has been giving it. They contend the United States has embraced a nationalistic policy in monetary matters.

Pierre-Etienne Flandin, former finance minister, writing in the Revue de Paris about President Roosevelt's intention to try to raise prices by inflation, says: "If that is his object, it seems he will finally fail in his attempt, for monetary manipulation in itself does not suffice to create prosperity."

L'Information says, "Washington's decision seems less an act of collaboration than an act of monetary hostility. More than ever struggles open between the pound and the dollar. The monetary policy which the United States in adopting seems a new element of international trouble."

GILDAY REFUSED A NEW HEARING OF DAMAGE SUIT

Judge Joseph H. Fitch yesterday denied Daniel Gilday, dry reformer, a new trial in the case in which a Superior court jury assessed damages of $12,000 against Gilday for shooting Herman Knol, 19 years old.

Gilday, proprietor of a one man reform organization, which he styled the Englewood Law and Order league, shot young Knol in the abdomen on Nov. 29, 1931. The reformer was staggering along a south side street, with a bottle of liquor in his pocket, when Knol, on his way to church with another boy, thought that he was ill and went to offer him aid. Gilday's defense was that he thought the youths were robbers. He admitted that he had been drinking.

Judge Fitch set an appeal bond of $13,500 when Gilday signified his intention of taking an appeal. The verdict against him included a count which found that his assault on young Knol was made with malice. This lays him open to six months' imprisonment if he fails to pay the damages. Attorney Richard Finn, representing Knol, said that if Gilday does not file the appeal bond by tomorrow he would seek a capias on which Gilday would be committed to jail.

SABATH BILL PLANS MAIL AIRPORT FOR CHICAGO POSTOFFICE

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Representative Sabath said today that he plans to introduce a bill to establish an air mail airport at Chicago in connection with the new postoffice, to expedite handling of mail in that city, the "world's greatest mail center."

The site proposed is between Loomis street, on the south branch of the Chicago river, on the west, 22d street on the north, and the south branch of the Chicago river on the south.

The site is about two miles southwest of the new postoffice, so situated as to utilize the tube service formerly used.

Sabath estimates this will save from 35 to 40 minutes now lost between the present airport and the postoffice and relieve crowded thoroughfares of mail trucks.

In case the tube should not be feasible, Sabath said, mail could be sent from the postoffice to the proposed airport in five minutes by speed boats which would not require opening of bridges.

POWERS MAY SIGN MUSSOLINI PEACE CLUB PACT TODAY

Reach Agreement on Wording of Plan.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—The last hurdles in the way of Mussolini's proposed four power peace pact were overcome today. After a morning of cabling and phoning between London and Paris, an agreement was reached on the wording of the French and English versions of the pact. It is expected that the treaty will be initialed in Rome tomorrow and that it will be formally signed within a week or two.

The only possibility of a hitch foreseen now is that the debate in the French chamber of deputies tonight might cause some further delay. That, however, is not expected.

Provides for Consultation.

The pact does little more than pledge the four powers, Great Britain, Italy, Germany, and France, to consult together and pursue a common policy in European affairs for 10 years and is taken as a guarantee against war for that period.

It specifies that all action must be taken within the framework of the league of nations. This securies continuance of full power to the little nations, owing to the league's requirement that action must be decided unanimously.

This also soothes the French fears of revision of frontiers, which Germany and Italy both favor, as any such revision must be by league machinery.

Hope to Satisfy France.

This feature is considered favorable in connection with the disarmament conference, which is now having one of its bad periods owing to the French insistence on real security. The four power pact's stress on league machinery, it is hoped, will go a long way to satisfy France on this point.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, is considering returning to Geneva this week, but has not decided definitely yet. If he does go, it will be in a last great effort to secure some agreement before the meeting of the world economic conference on June 12.

PRESBYTERIANS LIST NEW SINS; NAME ROAD HOGS

Inferiority Complex Also Included.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Columbus, Ohio, May 29.—[Special.]—Road hogs are to be classified as sinners by Presbyterians hereafter. A new list of sins which not only covers this offense against safe automobile travel but also many other modernistic offenses against both the Deity and man has been prepared for the division of evangelism of the Presbyterian church by the former vice moderator, Dr. L. D. Young of Dallas, Tex.

Sins listed by Dr. Young, numbering more than 80, while including the time honored ones cited in the Ten Commandments, together with some that Moses did not think of, were circulated yesterday throughout the membership of the 145th general assembly of the Presbyterian church, which closes its sessions here today.

Accepted by Evangelism Official.

The new list has been accepted by Dr. William F. Klein of New York, secretary of the evangelism division of the church, to be used in a new method for "recovering this generation's lost sense of sin."

Among the sins of moderns which scarcely could have been current in Moses' day, but included in the Presbyterian list, is an "inferiority complex." Others equally modern are class distinction, formality, provincialism, worry, criticism, dispositional temper, superstition, snobbishness, littleness, and others.

Dr. Klein and Dr. Young plan to use the list of sins throughout the church as means of self-examination. The list is printed on what the evangelistic leaders call a "sin chart." Each individual is to study the list and check those sins that afflict him. In this way the penitent may ask forgiveness without danger of overlooking any of his sins.

New Defeat for Fundamentalists.

The Machen fundamentalists again suffered defeat this morning when their nominees for membership on the board of foreign missions were almost unanimously disregarded when the foreign missions committee's majority report nominees were elected. Commissioners and officials complain that the announcement of the creation of the fundamentalist board of foreign missions was not made before the assembly "deadline" for new business. They assert that if Prof. J. Gresham Machen, leader of the fundamentalists, had officially announced the formation of the board before Saturday noon "disciplinary action" against the members of the new board would have been taken.

According to Dr. Mark Matthews of Seattle, expert on the constitution of Presbyterianism, disciplinary action now rests in the several presbyteries in the event that any of their constituent churches should give financial support to the fundamentalist board.

"Troublemakers" Isolated.

Leaders assert that outstanding in the work of this assembly is the isolation of "an insignificant minority of troublemakers who through access to the public press have received far more notice than their importance deserves."

The overture from the presbytery of Hudson, asking that the general assembly sever relations with the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, was withdrawn by the commissioners of that presbytery.

BUILD CHICAGO SEWAGE WORKS, APPEAL TO U. S.

Sabath Leads Move for Federal Funds.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], it was learned today, has set afoot a movement to induce the Roosevelt administration to undertake the construction of the remainder of the Chicago sewage treatment system at federal expense.

Mr. Sabath and other members of the Illinois delegation in congress are preparing to ask the government to place this project on the program of public works construction upon which 3 billion, 300 million dollars of federal funds are to be expended with the object of increasing employment.

The Chicago project is to be put forward in a different category from the others on which this huge fund is to be laid out. The federal government is to be petitioned to take over the whole undertaking and complete it without requiring reimbursement of the treasury by the state of Illinois or the Chicago sanitary district.

Complete at Federal Expense.

The petition for completion of the system at federal expense is to be based upon the consideration that Chicago, through construction of the sanitary district canal, and the state of Illinois, through construction of the Illinois waterway, have provided a national waterway of incalculable value connecting the great lakes with the gulf of Mexico. More than 150 millions already have been expended by the state and city upon this undertaking—130 millions on the sanitary district channel, and 20 millions on the canalization of the Illinois river.

The contention is that if this waterway which is to be opened to commercial navigation next month were not in existence today the federal government would be constructing it as one of the major links in its inland waterway system and at an expense equalling if not exceeding its cost up to date to the state and city. It is submitted that the federal government may justifiably undertake to bear part of the expense of creating this national waterway, particularly in view of the fact that the United States Supreme court has decreed that the Chicago sewage treatment system shall be constructed in order to reduce an amount of diversion of lake water that was held detrimental to national navigation interests on the great lakes.

State Exhausts Funds.

The federal government has already participated to a slight extent in the construction of the waterway. The state having exhausted its fund for the construction of the link between Lockport and Utica, congress provided for the completion of the project at the expense of the national government. About 5 millions have been expended by the federal government on this work.

Under the terms of the Supreme court decree the immediate need is approximately 36 millions for the construction of two sewage filtration plants. Of this amount about 18 millions will be needed for the work that can be done in the next twelve months, Mr. Sabath calculates.

The petition that the federal government undertake the construction of the sewage treatment system is to be submitted as soon as the pending public works bill is passed and the administrative agency organized.

Eligible to Advance of Cash.

"I think there is not the slightest doubt that federal aid in some shape will be forthcoming for the construction of the filtration plants," said Congressman Sabbath. "This undertaking is clearly eligible to an advance of funds from the 3 billions 300 millions provided for public works construction.

"When the bill was before the ways and means committee I submitted an amendment specifically authorizing the use of federal funds for the construction of such works as the Chicago sewage treatment system. I framed the amendment with that particular object. The chairman of the ways and means committee informed me that the amendment was not necessary.

"Then when the bill reached the floor of the house I again brought the matter up in order that there might be no misunderstanding. I asked the chairman of the committee whether the phraseology of the bill was intended to make eligible such undertakings as the Chicago sewage system. He replied that it was.

U. S. to Lend 70 Pct. of Money.

"There is no doubt that the Chicago construction comes within the terms of the provision whereby 70 per cent of the amount required is to be loaned by the federal government and 30 per cent granted outright. This may be expected in any event.

"I have discussed the matter with administration officials and have every reason to believe that one of the earliest disbursements of the 3 billion, 300 million dollar fund will be for the Chicago project for the reason that they are ready to proceed at once with work that will give employment to 2,500 men."

FENCING MASTER AWARDED $2,500 IN SLANDER SUIT

Edmond J. Clermont, society fencing master, was awarded $2,500 damages yesterday in the slander suit against William C. Hollister, 538 Roscoe street, a wealthy publisher. The sealed verdict, eached on Saturday by the jury which heard the case, was opened yesterday before Circuit Judge George Fred Rush.

Clermont charged that Hollister had called him a white slaver and that the publisher's charges had caused him the loss of his positions as fencing master for several clubs as well as the loss of a number of wealthy pupils. He aked $25,000 damages. Mrs. Richard S. Folsom, wife of an attorney, testified for Clermont that Hollister had made such a charge to her.

"It wasn't the money I wanted," said Clermont after the verdict was returned. "It was vindication. Now my name is cleared."

Hollister refused to comment. Judge Rush set June 17 for arguments for a new trial.

VOLIVA'S ZION INDUSTRIES PUT IN RECEIVERSHIP

Bankrupt Suit Is Filed Against Overseer.

The Zion Institutions and Industries, Inc., headed by Wilbur Glenn Voliva at Zion City, was placed in receivership yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Fred E. Hummel and Ralph R. Pihl, general manager of the concern, were named temporary receivers, with a joint bond of $10,000.

The action was taken after a petition for an equity receivership had been filed by the law firm of Glenn, Schwartz, Real & Browning in behalf of the Lanzip Corrugated Box company, 2435 South Rockwell street, which has a claim of $3,110.

Although the petition estimated the assets of the corporation at $2,000,000 in comparison to liabilities of $800,000, it points out that Voliva had failed to pay the $3,110 owed the box company and had not met other obligations, due to frozen assets.

Suit Filed Against Voliva.

At the same time an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in the United States District court against the corporation and a second bankruptcy suit was filed against Voliva himself. The suit against Voliva, brought in behalf of three employés, asserted that the Zion overseer has been insolvent for six months and said that he owes approximately $500,000.

Voliva has committed acts of bankruptcy, the petition charged, in payments to preferred creditors. The petition said that $150 had been paid a Chicago bank and $100 to E. K. Cook, attorney for Annie Winn of Waukegan. Voliva also has transferred property to persons and corporations to an unknown extent, according to the suit. The employés bringing the suit and their claims are: Albert W. Tarbotte, $300; S. B. Leech, $154, and R. E. Stone, $222.

Business Concerns Sue.

The law firm of Moses, Kennedy, Stein & Bachrach filed the action in behalf of the employés and also brought a second involuntary bankruptcy petition in behalf of three business concerns. The complainants and their claims are the M. H. Hussey company of Waukegan, $401; the Keystone Printing Service of Waukegan, $406, and the Zion Agencies, Inc., $2,000. This petition estimated that the liabilities of the corporation total $350,000 and made no mention of the assets.

Voliva, who is said to receive $100,000 a year as president of the corporation, obtained the property for $950,000 from the estate of John Alexander Dowie, who established the religious community in Zion.

He is said to have obtained the majority of the purchase price from his followers, who number 3,500 in the community of 6,000 people.

MAY RAINS BLESS MINNESOTA AND NORTH DAKOTA

St. Paul, Minn., May 29.—(AP)—Rain which brought May precipitation here to a total exceeded only once in the 96 years of weather bureau records was general throughout Minnesota today.

Much of North Dakota received moisture, too, and crop specialists in both states said fields were benefited greatly by the good soaking of the sub-soil.

This afternoon 3.8 inches had fallen here since late Sunday, bringing the month's total to 7.57 inches compared with the May average of 3.27.

One observer, M. R. Hovd, however, looked up army books for the years before the government bureau was established, and found that in May, 1906, the total was 10.40 inches.

VICTIMS CHASE ROBBER UNTIL POLICE ARRIVE

A lone robber fleeing with $100 after he had held up the Allen Loan company offices at 2345 North Halsted street was pursued by his victims for several blocks last night and captured at Garfield avenue and Burling street by a police squad headed by Sergt. Frank O'Neill.

The bandit had forced the manager of the loan office, Matthew Friedman, to hand over the money. As the robber ran out Friedman called the police. Five patrons who were in the place, however, ran after the fugitive.

Frank O'Malley, 34 years old, 1244 North Dearborn street, is the man under arrest.

DIXIE GIRL IS KILLED, ESCORT SHOT AND LEFT FOR DEAD BY 2 NEGROES

Spartanburg, S. C., May 29.—(AP)—Miss Thelma Martin was killed and Madison Stone, her escort, was seriously wounded today, Stone told police, by two Negroes who attacked them in a country lane eight miles from here.

Stone said two Negroes passed his car, in which he and Miss Martin were sitting a short time before the attack, and then returned, one of them with a gun. He said they forced him and the girl to leave the car and enter the woods, where they ordered him to undress. As he was doing so, he said, one of the Negroes shot him through the abdomen and the two then beat him on the head with sticks. Stone said he lost consciousness but believed he regained it within 15 minutes, to find himself buried beneath dirt and leaves as though he had been left for dead. Miss Martin was not in sight.

Making his way back to his car, Stone drove down the highway and met a farmer who brought him to Spartanburg, where he informed police and went to a hospital. Attachés there were not optimistic regarding his chances for recovery. Officers hurried to the spot and found the girl's body in a clump of bushes. Hundreds then joined a man hunt.

Both Stone and Miss Martin were students at a business college here.

TOO MANY TAXIS CURTAIL DRIVERS' PAY, JUDGE SAYS

Too many taxicabs on the streets bring about a condition in which drivers cannot make a decent living, Judge Thomas A. Green of the Traffic court declared yesterday after questioning two cab drivers who appeared before him. He said he would recommend to the city council, which is considering a reduction in taxicab rates, that a minimum wage be fixed for cab drivers.

Iver Swedberg, 1845 Greenleaf avenue, pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident without identifying himself. He was driving a Checker cab which struck Nicholas Ballis, 32 years old, 6712 Winthrop avenue, who remained in a hospital for several months. Swedberg said he did not make more than $5 a week working on commission. He was sentenced to 90 days in the House of Correction.

Walter Gabonski, 4740 South Avers avenue, another cab driver, was charged with a parking violation. He said he made $3.75 last week. He was freed.

Methods of taxicab regulation will be the principal subject of discussion today when 100 executives of taxicab companies from all over the country open a convention at the Hotel Sherman.

Bandits Rob Two Women of Cash and Automobile

Miss Bessie Marovitz, sister of former Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marovitz, and Miss Anna Kartman, 3602 Flournoy street, were held up last night by five bandits in front of the Marovitz home at 723 South Karlov avenue. The young women were sitting in Attorney Marovitz's car waiting for him at the time. The robbers took $6 from Miss Marovitz and $10 and a wrist watch from Miss Kartman and then drove away in the lawyer's car.

Rookie Policeman Shot by Accident with Own Gun

Walter Klinghoefer, 29 years old, 5301 Barry avenue, a probationary policeman, received a minor wound in the left side when his service revolver was accidentally discharged while being examined by Mrs. Charles Erb, 5206 Schubert avenue, last night. Klinghoefer and his wife were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Erb in the Erb home at the time.

Fay Webb Vallee Injured in Automobile Collision

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—Fay Webb Vallee, 24 year old estranged wife of Rudy Vallee, sustained injuries in an auto collision today between her automobile and one driven by Noel J. Lacayo, 24, who was identified in a police report as a nephew of the president of Nicaragua.

BRITAIN MAY PUT U. S. WAR DEBT UP TO COMMONS

Report House to Vote on Repudiation.

LONDON, May 30 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—A report that the government may take the unusual course of putting before the house of commons the question of paying or withholding the $75,950,000 installment of the war debt owed the United States which is due on June 15 was current in political quarters last night and published in several newspapers today.

According to this unconfirmable version of the situation, the cabinet is irreconcilably divided on the question of paying or defaulting and is inclined to pass the buck to the house of commons, asking it to vote for or against. Heretofore the government has paid without consulting parliament.

Chamberlain for Repudiation.

The rumor credits Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, with leading the section of the cabinet favoring default. Stanley Baldwin, president of the council; J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, and others are said to be urging payment at all costs.

The present prediction is that if the decision is left to a free vote of commons a majority will favor payment so as to avoid complication for the world economic conference.

Chamberlain will be asked in parliament soon for a statement of the debt situation, and if the answer is negative or indefinite the Laborites will demand a clear declaration of the government's debt policy.

Reparations Pact Periled.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 29.—Former Premier Herriot, in the course of a report to the chamber of deputies today on his recent conversations with President Roosevelt, specifically threatened rejection by France of the Lausanne agreement, under which the German reparations were reduced to $714,000,000, unless the United States agreed to reduce the war debts. He referred to the "gentlemen's agreement" among the American debtors, in which they agreed not to ratify the reparations pact until the United States has agreed to a general debt revision.

"Europe accomplished a great act of wisdom at Lausanne," Herriot said, "which will not be consecrated unless the United States enters the same path and consents to some sort of supplementary action. If it refuses an accord on debts it will destroy the edifice for the construction of which we have done our part.

"The settlement of the French credit due from Germany is therefore in suspense. The question won't be settled until after an agreement is reached with the Americans. Otherwise we shall return to the preceding state of affairs."

State Closes Its Case Against Banker Binga

The state yesterday closed its case against Jesse Binga, colored banker, on trial before Judge James F. Fardy in the Criminal court on a charge of embezzlement of $52,500 from the defunct Binga State bank, 35th and State streets. Defense Attorney Joseph Paschen announced that he would move for a directed verdict of not guilty when the trial is resumed on Wednesday.

CULVER TRAINS GUNS ON BANK BANDITS; GETS 6

Vigilantes Pursue Them; Recover $16,000.

Culver, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—A group of 500 vigilantes, commanded by Capt. A. A. Obenhauf of the Culver Military academy, captured six bank bandits today and recovered approximately $16,000 in loot taken from the State Exchange bank of Culver.

The last three members of the gang were driven from a wooded area near Ober, ten miles west of Culver, by tear gas bombs in the hands of the vigilantes. One of the bandits, who identified himself as T. C. Teske, South Chicago, was shot and fatally wounded as he fled from the bank. Five other members of the gang gave their names as Eddie Murphy of New York City; Jack Gray, 23 years old, New York City, and Joe Cohen, 20 years old, of Chicago; John Gorman, 27, of Detroit, and James Davis, 27, of Tampa, Fla.

Warning Phoned Academy.

The bandits had entered the bank this morning carrying shotguns, forced four employés to lie on the floor, and scooped $16,000 from the cages. Miss Irene Bogardus, an assistant teller, saw the men enter the bank from a concealed office and in accordance with plans previously made, telephoned the Culver academy.

The vigilantes were sent into action by the call and before the bandits left the bank they had seized guns and sought points of vantage. The gunmen seized Assistant Cashier Carl Adams and Glen Mattix, a customer who had entered, and used them as shields as they fled to their car. Oliver Schilling, son of the bank president and a vigilante, had mounted to the top of a building near the bank.

Shoots Driver.

As the bandit car gained speed, Shilling opened fire with a rifle. The driver slumped in his seat and the car overturned on the edge of town. The bandits deserted the car and stole another car. Near Ober the stolen car crashed into a tree and the bandits took cover in the woods.

Members of the vigilantes in pursuit marked the point at which the gunmen had entered the wooded spot and waited until reinforcements arrived. Commanded by Capt. Obenauf, the vigilantes then surrounded the woods, which is four miles square, and began to close in. Cohen walked out of the woods and surrendered. He insisted he had no hand in the robbery, saying he was only hitch hiking. Three calls were sent back to the military academy for ammunition and firearms before the other gang members were captured.

Bank Robbed in 1920.

The capture of the bandits today climaxed a preparedness drive that was launched in Culver with the robbery of the same bank in 1920. A citizens' committee decided at that time to prepare for the next visit of bandits. A dozen residents of the community were named as officers and have been receiving instructions in handling of firearms and military maneuvers from the officers of the Culver academy. The vigilantes' force was augmented today by ten officers, members of the staff at the academy.

Identify Floyd in New York Job.

Rensselaer, N. Y., May 29.—[Special.]—Frederick Rabe, city detective, this afternoon tentatively identified a picture of Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, notorious Oklahoma bandit, as that of one of six bandits who shot their way out of the Rensselaer County bank after taking $7,000 just before noon. Rabe was wounded and a fellow detective, James Stevens, was shot to death in the gun battle with the gang.

The robbers, the leader waving a sawed off shotgun, marched into the bank, lined a dozen employés and customers against the wall, and scooped up the money. Nicholas Walters, a bank employé, pressed an alarm button that brought detectives. The man with the machine gun opened fire and the bandits fled to their car.

Two Wounded in Arkansas.

Paris, Ark., May 29.—[Special.]—Andy Connaughton, city marshal, and Dolph Guthrie, bank teller, were shot and seriously wounded in a battle with gunmen who took an unknown amount of money from the First National bank here today. One of the bandits was captured by a customer and a second suspect, who was arrested later.

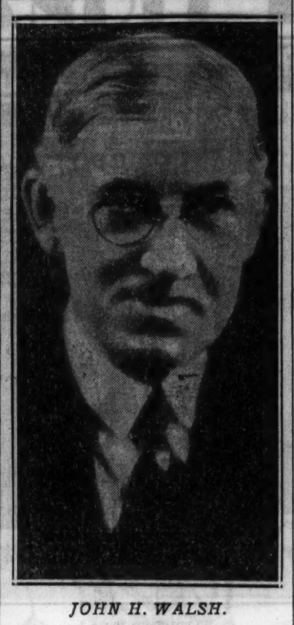
The bill, drawn by Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr., alleges that Roehler struck his wife on Oct. 1, 1927, and twisted her arm on July 4, 1932. The Roehlers were married July 7, 1923.

Killed in Crash



JOHN H. WALSH.

VANDALS STEAL TRAFFIC SIGNAL; CRASH KILLS TWO

Undertaker and Youth Die; Six Injured.

Two deaths and serious injuries to six persons were caused by a collision of automobiles yesterday afternoon at 67th street and Crawford avenue. The police laid part of the blame for the crash on the fact that traffic signals had been removed from the intersection by vandals.

Riding in one of the cars was John H. Walsh, 55 years old, undertaker at 2433 West 63d street, and two women, sisters who were on their way to a cemetery to select a grave for their father, whose funeral was set for tomorrow. Walsh was killed.

Woman's Skull Fractured.

One of the sisters, Miss Catherine O'Malley, 21 years old, suffered a fractured skull. The other, Mrs. Mary Reilly, 25 years old, was also injured. Both reside at 6237 South Campbell avenue.

John Swartz, 19 years old, 2424 West 69th street, a passenger in the second car, was the other victim who was killed. Harold Collard, 3310 South Oakley avenue, the driver, and Edward Kanarsky, 7001 South Artesian avenue, suffered fractured skulls. The injuries of the others with them, John Hyre, 6928 South Artesian avenue, and Henry Loesch, 6926 South Artesian, were serious but not critical. All Collard's passengers were from 19 to 24 years old.

Shortly before the accident Walsh and the sisters had purchased flowers for the funeral of Michael O'Malley. He died Sunday, supposedly of injuries suffered when he was struck on Dec. 19 by a surface car at 63d street and Artesian avenue.

Wilmette Victim Dies.

Jacob Marcuson, 62 years old, 914 Central avenue, Wilmette, died yesterday at the county hospital of injuries sustained May 14, when he was struck at Ogden avenue and Lake street by a car driven by Frank Szcerba, 630 North May street.

The deaths yesterday increased the Cook county toll of automobile accidents since Jan. 1 to 386.

In DuPage county, on route 64, two miles west of Elmhurst, Mrs. Mary Lebrun, 60 years old, 709 North St. Louis avenue, was killed early yesterday, when a car in which she was riding struck another at high speed. A. D. Brown, driving with Mrs. Lebrun as his passenger, was hurt, as were three persons in the other car. They are K. W. Hoffman, 5011 West End avenue; Miss Sue Westbrook, of the same address, and Rudolph Mulac, 1633 48th court, Cicero.

Rail Veteran, 80, Says He Will Work Ten Years More

W. E. Tyler, head of the pass bureau of the Milwaukee road, celebrated his 80th birthday yesterday as guest of fellow employés at a luncheon in the Union station. Mr. Tyler, who lives at 550 Surf street, declares his is "good for another 10 or 20 years on the job."

Stand, you civilians, at attention. The living legions march. The Flag passes. The muffled drums beat. Down each listening street there's a burst of war's old music; and airplanes drone the benediction of a nation. Roses fall.

It's Decoration day. Our soldier dead are memories' guests. Stand straight; salute!

For us, they faced the drumming guns that have no doubts. They fought where death rode whistling on every wind, where "the very mists were charged with awful torment."

HEAD OF LOYOLA ASSAILS SCHOOL SEDITION BILLS

Legislative Group Gets Pro and Con Views.

The Baker bills pending in the state legislature, which would deny tax exemption and state subsidies to educational institutions that permit the teaching of sedition, were termed "superficial and dangerous" yesterday by the Rev. Robert M. Kelly, president of Loyola university. He appeared at a public hearing on the bills, conducted in the city hall by a legislative subcommittee headed by Representative Roland V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago].

"Remember," said Father Kelly, "I represent an institution which is against communism, and would dismiss a professor teaching it. Haven't we federal and state laws against such practices? Why not enforce those before attacking the colleges."

Jane Addams—head of Hull house, a member of the D. A. R., the daughter of one of Abraham Lincoln's colleagues in the Illinois legislature and, the committee was told, a pacifist—also spoke against the bills.

Navy Officer Urges Passage.

Among those who appeared to urge passage of the measures were Lieutenant Commander Robert O. Hagan of the Great Lakes Naval Training station, Mrs. Albert W. Dilling of Kenilworth, Herbert L. O'Connell, a deputy sheriff of Wilmette, and H. A. Jung of the American Vigilant Intelligence association.

O'Connell said that he had heard communism advocated in colleges. When asked whom he had heard, he named Prof. Robert Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago. Asked if Prof. Lovett had advocated the overthrow of government by force, he said he thought he had, "by reading between the lines."

"I don't think Prof. Lovett, who lost a son in the war, has advocated the violent overthrow of our government," said Miss Addams. "I am a pacifist and wouldn't advocate the physical overthrow of government. Our government has withstood greater storms. I think it is fine and strong enough to withstand any attack.

"An Economic Movement."

"Communism is an economic movement trying to find expression. I wouldn't teach it as part of a course in English literature, but I would as part of a course in political science, because it is a matter of historical fact.

"If you go to a university to study, you want to learn everything. I have more confidence in the United States than most people. I believe it will go on. But I am opposed to restrictions on free discussion in any direction."

"Schools and colleges are institutions of learning, not places to try out theories," said Lieutenant Commander O'Hagan. "Theories should be tried and tested in the country first, and, if accepted, then taught in the schools. Schools are not experimental laboratories."

DANISH KING GREETS MRS. RUTH OWEN WITH TRADITIONAL POMP

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen today presented her credentials as United States minister to Denmark to King Christian. The presentation of the first American woman minister to the Danish monarch was accompanied by all the ceremonial and courtesies appropriate to the occasion.

Queen Alexandrina received Mrs. Owen in a special audience after her formal reception by the king. Mrs. Owen was attired in an egg-shell colored satin afternoon gown, a long coat with fur trimmed sleeves, and a small hat to match. King Christian wore a general's uniform.

The king's chamberlain conducted Mrs. Owen to the palace from her residence in an old fashioned coach, the attendants of which wore scarlet coats and yellow breeches. Counsellor Winship of the legation accompanied the minister. As the American woman entered the palace she was saluted by a royal bodyguard and was conducted to the ante-chamber, where she was received by the master of ceremonies in the presence of gentlemen of the court.

PUT WHISTLER'S "MOTHER" IN HER PLACE OF HONOR

Prize of Art Institute's Exhibit Arrives.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

(Picture on back page.)

An express truck escorted by motorcycle policemen drove up to the Art institute yesterday and deposited before the newly washed lions the prize work of the institute's A Century of Progress exhibition. It is a painting which was called by the artist, James A. McNeill Whistler, "An Arrangement in Gray and Black."

"What's all the excitement?" a nearby policeman was asked.

"That's 'Whistler's Mother'," the policeman replied solemnly, indicating the crated canvas being lifted carefully out of the truck.

Escorted by Chairman.

Preceding the painting from the express van was Chauncey McCormick, chairman of A Century of Progress art committee, who had met it on its arrival over the Pennsylvania railway and driven with it in the van to the institute. He hopped out, mopped his brow and crying "Gangway!" waving aside too enthusiastic art lovers, supervised the carrying of the painting up the steps.

Despite the presence of several foreign consuls, trustees of the institute, and some of their wives, the installation of the painting which the Louvre in Paris refused to lend to the institute until it was well insured, was accomplished with little formality. Originally the Louvre asked that the painting be insured for $1,000,000. A compromise was reached and the institute insured it for $600,000.

"There She Is," Says Workman.

Down in a basement room, workmen uncrated the canvas in its dull gold frame. They lifted it out and the tired face in its austere setting was seen in the dim light of the room. "There she is," said one of the workmen, and the painting was hoisted on wheels and trundled away.

Upstairs, in gallery No. 25, one of the Potter Palmer rooms now used for contemporary and recent American art, the little group of officials and trustees clapped their hands as the workmen hung the painting where it is to be on view for five months.

Among those in attendance were Frank G. Logan, Joseph T. Ryerson, Potter Palmer, Max Epstein, and Russell Tyson, all trustees of the institute; Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. McCormick, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president of the Arts club; Paul Schulze, one of the governing members of the institute; and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius. René Weiller, consul general of France; Consul General Louis Bernays of Great Britain, Giuseppe Castruccio, consul general of Italy, and Titus Zbyczewski, consul general of Poland, also attended.

Robert B. Harshe, director of the institute, was kept from the installation of the painting by sciatica.

Originally Sold for $800.

D. C. Rich, associate curator of painting, pointed out that the painting is the only one by an American artist which ever was purchased by the Louvre. It was bought for the Luxembourg in 1891 for 4,000 francs, about $800, and after Whistler's death was put in the Louvre. Previous to its purchase, in the same year, it was shown in the Pennsylvania academy and was offered for sale for $1,200 without success.

The painting was executed in 1871. Whistler's mother, who was Anna Matilda McNeill, member of an old southern family of Wilmington, N. C., was the second wife of Maj. George Washington Whistler of the United States army. He was the son of Capt. John Whistler, who played an important part in building Fort Dearborn here.

"After her husband's death, Mrs. Whistler went to keep house for her artist son in London and she was a great favorite among the artists who frequented the house," Mr. Rich said. "They particularly liked her raw tomato salads. Raw tomatoes were new to the Britishers."

GANG PAUSES IN GOTHAM STREET TO KILL VICTIM

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Joe Tropp, ex-convict and "receiver" for the Whittemore gang of jewel thieves, was shot to death by four men. The shooting was done on the lower east side tonight in the midst of a crowd of several hundred bystanders.

The unconscious victim was dumped into the gutter of Allen street near Rivington street from a green sedan. The four occupants got out, deliberately fired half a dozen shots into his head and chest, then reëntered the automobile and sped away northward.

An excited crowd of several thousand gathered quickly and a police emergency squad was called out to keep them in check.

Tropp had been beaten unconscious. His eyes were blackened and his face was bruised. He also had apparently been robbed, for no money was found in his pockets.

Two women and a man who witnessed the shooting were taken to a police station for questioning.

RADIO SINGER'S HEROISM FAILS TO SAVE A LIFE

New York, May 29,—[Special.]—A radio tenor made an unsuccessful attempt today to save the life of a yacht captain who fell overboard into Pugsley creek, The Bronx, presumably as the result of a heart attack. Although he was under water only a few seconds, the yacht captain, William Kley, was dead when he was brought ashore. The would-be rescuer was James Melton, radio singer.

While standing near the edge of the after deck, Capt. Kley suddenly collapsed and toppled overboard.

Melton dived with all his clothing on, pulled Kley to the surface, and held his head above water while help came from members of the crew. An ambulance surgeon and a police rescue squad tried to revive Kley.

opening ceremonies will be finished by Saturday, Fair officials said.

The officials reported last night that complaints as to transportation, comfort stations and other facilities are falling rapidly. A survey of the grounds in regard to the comfort station situation showed that expected difficulties had not materialized, according to Fair managers. Large signs have been erected showing the location of free stations, and all of the guards have been instructed to direct visitors to them on request. In most of the large exhibits free facilities are provided.

Sears Building Dedicated.

The Sears building at 14th street was officially dedicated last night and presented to Rufus Dawes, president of the Fair, as the exposition service station. Accepting on behalf of the Fair, Mr. Dawes termed the building "a fitting tribute to that great philanthropist, Julius Rosenwald, whose history was of service to mankind."

More than 100 guests attended a banquet in the rotunda of the building preceding the dedication. Among them were Lessing Rosenwald, who served as toastmaster; Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of the company; E. H. Powell, treasurer of the company; and Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair.

Offers Service to Public.

Containing fewer commercial exhibits than almost any other individual display in the Fair, the Sears building is dedicated to the use of visitors. Contained in the building are free comfort stations, lounging rooms, message exchange service, travel and information booths, and telegraphic and telephonic communications for the use of the public. The building is in a strategic spot near the north end of the grounds and is open free to the public.

COURT ORDERS A REARGUMENT OF FACTOR CASE

The Supreme court of the United States yesterday ordered a reargument of the extradition case of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, whom the British crown wishes to try in London on an indictment charging that he swindled Britishers out of several million dollars. Yesterday was the last day of the present session of the court and the reargument is to be made on Oct. 9.

In issuing the order the court asked that both sides in the case direct their attention to an interpretation placed by Secretary of State John C. Calhoun on the extradition treaty of 1842. It was also suggested that counsel consider diplomatic correspondence between the British and American governments concerning the treaty.

Factor has been fighting for more than two years to prevent his extradition. He was first arraigned in Chicago before United States Commissioner Walker, who ordered him into custody of the United States marshal while awaiting a presidential warrant for his return to England. Factor's attorneys then appealed to Federal Judge George A. Carpenter in a habeas corpus action and Judge Carpenter ordered the proceedings dismissed.

The crown then went to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which reversed Judge Carpenter on Oct. 16, 1932. Factor's counsel then carried the matter to the Supreme court, which heard arguments on April 17.

FOUR SCALPERS OF WORLD'S FAIR TICKETS FINED

Four men, arrested as ticket scalpers near one of the entrances to the World's Fair grounds, were fined yesterday by Judge Gutknecht in the Boys' court.

Benjamin Schultz, 20 years old, and Joseph Chase, 21 years old, both of Detroit, were fined $50 and costs each. They were caught as they tried to get refunds, at 50 cents each, on tickets at an entrance booth. They declared they had bought the tickets from scalpers at $1.35 for four.

Samuel Miller, 19 years old, 1230 South Central Park avenue, and Abraham Kominsky, 22 years old, 3819 Lexington avenue, were fined $100 each. They claimed to have bought tickets, which they were seeking to refund, at 30 cents each. A fifth man, Louis King, 22 years old, 949 Wilson avenue, was found in possession of 400 tickets. His case was continued to June 1.

NOTES OF THE WORLD'S FAIR

There is one main bank on the Fair grounds and eight branches, according to M. M. Tveter, controller of the World's Fair. He says seven tons of silver coins are received daily. A thousand dollars in silver coins weighs 60 pounds, in nickels 225 pounds, and in pennies 710 pounds, according to Mr. Tveter.

Nat Rogers, "Czar of the Midway" of a Century of Progress, will dedicate the Log Roller just north of 31st street at 2:30 today. Here lumberjacks of the northwest woods will participate daily in log rolling and woodblock contests. Heading the list of participants are Pete Hooper, four years world champion log roller, and Sam Harris, block turning champion. Both are from Long View, Wash. A water tank 28 feet square has been constructed for the contests. Negotiations are being made to bring the annual world's championship roller to the Fair this summer. Monte J. Wax is manager of the show.

Automobiles are barred, but many bicycles are to be seen around the grounds. The guards have no orders to keep them out.

The skyride will be tested Thursday morning with sandbags taking the place of passengers.

Rickshas and roller chairs can be hired at $1 an hour with college graduate guides to take visitors through the grounds. Every morning the ricksha boys line up before the Administration building and count off in military fashion.

Benches and canopies are being put all along the Avenue of Flags to allow visitors to rest between walks.

Col. John Stewart announced yesterday that a new road would be built on the east side of Northerly island for bus traffic.

The exhibit of the International Business Machine corporation was dedicated at 3 p. m. yesterday by officials of the World's Fair at the General Exhibits building. A switch was thrown on the World Clock, which tells time of all the countries in the world on one dial, five feet high. Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, and S. M. Hastings, director of the exhibit, were present.

Mrs. Mary Abernathy, official hostess at the state of Washington exhibit, arrived yesterday from Seattle. She is the state Democratic committeewoman from Washington.

The dedication of the Italian pavilion, scheduled for yesterday at 2:30 p. m. has been changed to 3 p. m. on Thursday to permit completion of the buildings.

A group of radio stars will be greeted by Lorraine Russell, famous greeter from California, at the dedication of the General Cigar company building at 5:15 p. m. tomorrow. Among the stars will be George Burns and Gracie Allen, Guy Lombardo and his orchestra, and Jack Pearl.

C. B. Scanlon, 60 years old, curator with Clif Wilson's snake show at the Fair, has recovered from a rattlesnake bite suffered last week while transferring the reptiles from boxes to their cages. He was immediately inoculated with a serum. Scanlon was formerly with the Hagenbeck zoo in Hamburg, Germany.

The international egg laying contest, under the sponsorship of the national poultry council, opened yesterday in the poultry exhibit at 35th street. Entered in the competition are 1,599 hens and 123 roosters, exhibited by 115 owners. The contestants are divided into pens, 13 hens and a rooster to a pen. All the well known breeds and many that are recognized only by poultry fanciers are represented. In all twenty-two different breeds are in the contest.

The bridge tournament scheduled for opening yesterday was postponed until today to complete the equipment.

One hundred pupils of the Armstrong elementary school were conducted through the World's Fair grounds by junior Fair tour guides. Among the guides were Walter Rossborough, president of the senior class at Northwestern university, Bernice Walsh, and Dorothy Bauer. More than 200,000 school children will go through the exposition exhibits on the junior tours this summer.

CONVICTED BANK HEAD LOSES IN HIGH U. S. COURT

The United States Supreme court at Washington yesterday dismissed the appeal of Carl A. Mueller, former president of the closed Laramie State bank, who is under a one to ten years' sentence for making false statements to bank examiners. The Illinois Supreme court has already upheld his conviction.

Mueller, 51 years old, is the former plumbing contractor who turned banker and outfitted his bank with gold fixtures and other ornate decorations. He was found guilty by Judge George Fred Rush in a bench hearing last June. Specifically, it was alleged that Mueller had failed to show an overdraft of $38,500 in his bank report. Judge Rush held this was deliberate, although defense attorneys charged it to Mueller's ignorance of banking.

GOV. HORNER IS QUEEN'S ESCORT AT WORLD FAIR

Round of Visits Today for Reigning Beauty.

Illinois' bachelor chief executive, Gov. Horner, last night turned escort to the Queen of the Fair, Miss Lillian Anderson of Racine, Wis. Throngs at dinner in picturesque Old Heidelberg inn on A Century of Progress grounds cheered and clapped as the governor was ushered in to take his place between Miss Anderson and her first maid of honor, Miss Lorraine Nevens of Evanston, with the other members of the court of honor in attendance.

The Governor Arrives.

With the strains of "On Wisconsin," the orchestra heralded the arrival of the slim blonde girl who carried off first honors in the contest under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and fifteen associated publications. Then as the gaily uniformed musicians swung into the opening bars of "Illinois," in compliment jointly to the maids of honor, Miss Nevens and Miss Ruth Joyce Hardie of Chicago, Gov. Horner arrived.

"It's true I'm a bachelor," he said in a brief talk later, "but in the governor's mansion at Springfield I have room for all of these 51 charming girls."

As the party left to attend the performance at the Palace theater, Gov. Horner escorted Miss Anderson in his own car, at the head of the motorcade, and accompanied her to her box in the theater, where she and her court were guests of Manager Frank Smith. James Dunn, stage and screen star, introduced the Queen and maids of honor to the audience.

Spend Afternoon at Fair.

The girls had spent the afternoon investigating the amusement centers on the Midway.

This morning they are scheduled to visit the Adler Planetarium, to see and hear the mysteries of the planets and their satellites revealed by Prof. Philip Fox, director. They will lunch at the Babst Blue Ribbon casino on the grounds, and will spend the afternoon visiting the campus of the University of Chicago, and being welcomed to Northwestern by President Walter Dill Scott. The day's activities will end with a dinner at the Stevens hotel, at which the Queen and her court will be guests of the management.

MAJ. SHEPARD WINS REVIEW OF MURDER TRIAL

Supreme Court Acts in Kansas Case.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Maj. Charles A. Shepard, 61, convicted of the murder of his wife, Zenana Shepard, on the military reservation at Fort Riley, Kansas, was granted a review today by the Supreme court.

Shepard, who was sentenced to life imprisonment, wants his sentence set aside.

Today's decision meant the court considered the case presented questions for further study, and either may uphold or reject the ruling of a federal court of appeals.

During the Shepard trial, Clara Brown, a nurse, who attended Mrs. Shepard, testified Mrs. Shepard said, "I am being poisoned" and "Shepard has poisoned me."

Shepard contended as the alleged conversation took place 25 days before her death, the judge should have warned the jury it was not a dying declaration.

Shepard also insisted his wife was having many hallucinations, and did not recognize people, while the jury had attached undue importance to statements attributed to her.

Maj. Shepard Delighted.

Denver, May 29.—(AP)—Maj. Charles A. Shepard received with tears today the news that the United States Supreme court had granted him a review of his murder conviction.

"I'm so glad—I'm so glad," the 61 year old army surgeon sobbed when friends carried the word to a little mountain village near here, where he is spending a leave of absence.

Shepard, Canadian born, is an army tuberculosis expert.

The government's case against him was predicated on a theory that he had slain his wife to marry Miss Grace Brandon, San Antonio army stenographer, whom he had met while taking a flight surgeon's course at Brooks field.

Nurse Aids Prosecutor.

Miss Brandon testified for the government. She produced letters and gifts which she said were given her before and after Mrs. Shepard's death at Fort Riley, Kas., June 15, 1929.

The defense contention was that Mrs. Shepard either committed suicide or died from taking a poisonous mouthwash while intoxicated.

Former Judge Willard New of Indiana Court Dies

North Vernon, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Willard New, 72, former judge of the Indiana Appellate court, died today after a long illness.

Men More Adept in Amusing Children, Woman Prof. Finds

Baltimore, Md., May 29.—(AP)—Miss Florence E. Bamberger, one of the two women professors at the Johns Hopkins university, has evolved the theory that men are more adept at selecting amusements for children than are women.

"Men know better what children like; women know better what is good for them," she said today.

At the same time, Miss Bamberger, who is a holder of a doctor of philosophy degree, admits she hasn't arrived at anything like adequate proof of her theory.

Able to Select Subjects.

She acquired her belief while compiling information for her volume on the art of decorating children's books. In this she discovered, she said, men were able to select subjects that appealed more to children than women. The reason, she thinks, comes from the fact that the time men spend with the children is largely in play, while women are occupied with the technical aspects of rearing children.

But Miss Bamberger, an ardent feminist, does not believe women get a fair deal generally.

"A woman has got to be a good deal better than a man to get his job," she holds. She thinks there is little real difference between the sexes in mental ability.

Compares Two Sexes.

"Men are more variable," she said, and then explained that if ability were "plotted" the graph would show men went a little higher, but that they also went lower.

"That is the reason men will have a few greater leaders. While you have a few men whose ability is superior to women, you have some who are much inferior.

"There is not," she continued, "enough difference to account for the preference given men in the business world today."

Women were so long suppressed that they have been forced to make an uphill fight in this "man's world," and Miss Bamberger is confident the day is not far distant when women will take a place alongside the men.

LIST LAW FIRMS IN 'MONOPOLY OF RECEIVER CASES'

Show $4,513,743 in Fees to Legal Groups.

A list of the 25 prominent law firms in Chicago who are considered by the Sinnett legislative committee to have had a "virtual monopoly" of the foreclosure and receivership business in cases involving Cook county properties, worth more than $100,000 each, was made public yesterday.

The list was taken from the record of the hearings of the legislative committee which is investigating foreclosures in Cook county. It disclosed that the 25 law firms handled litigation involving $293,321,700 worth of property during the years 1930 and 1931. For their services the attorneys were allowed a total of $4,513,743 in fees.

From the record it was pointed out by Assistant Attorney General James G. Skinner that only a small portion of the total amount of fees which the attorneys received for their work involving these properties is disclosed. The fees allowed, he explained, were for considerably less than 50 per cent of the work which was performed.

Part of Fees Not Shown.

The available records, he said, did not show the amount of fees received by lawyers after 1931. More than half of the work involving the foreclosure and receiverships which were filed during the years 1930 and 1931 was completed after that time. Fees for this work, he said, would be allowed by the court as the work was completed. The assistant attorney general would venture no estimate as to the total amount of fees received by the lawyers for the work accomplished.

The tabulated record as placed in the minutes of the committee's proceedings was prepared by the Chicago Bar association some months ago when its special committee was investigating masters' and attorneys' fees. It was procured for the legislative committee on a subpoena duces tecum which was served on Charles P. Megan, president of the bar association. The committee directed at the close of last Friday's hearing that the list be placed in the record. This was done yesterday.

Give Figures on Fees.

From the records of the Circuit and Superior courts the bar association worked out a percentage list which compares the amount of fees received by the various law firms with the amount of property which they carried completely through the foreclosure proceedings.

This table discloses that fees for the various firms range from a minimum of 1.69 per cent to a maximum of 12.50 per cent of the value of the property on which litigation has been completed. The minimum figure is the fee received from Circuit court chancellors by the law firm of Defrees, Buckingham, Jones & Hoffman. The maximum is that received by the firm of Crowe, Gorman & Savage from Superior court chancellors.

Law Firms Are Listed.

A list of the law firms, the total value of property for which they were solicitors, and amounts of fees allowed follows:

CIRCUIT COURT.

Firm.	Total value.	Fee.
Judah, Reichmann, etc.	$ 3,875,000	$480,000

Peppenhusen, Johnson, etc.	14,853,000	127,150

Altheimer & Mayer	1,685,000	83,300
D'Ancona, Pflaum & Kohlsaat	5,374,000	70,000
Tuige & Taige	2,830,000	55,000
Winston, Strawn & Shaw	2,835,000	50,000
Litsinger, Healy & Reid	3,755,000	47,500
Butz, Vonammon & Marx	4,165,000	47,100
Brown, Fox & Blumberg	6,030,000	37,000
Crowe, Gorman & Savage	1,280,000	18,500
Defrees, Buckingham, etc.	3,827,000	8,175

The Circuit court table also lists the law firm of Miller, Gorham & Wales. The firm has filed 24 suits involving $4,148,000 worth of property. None of the cases was carried to completion and no fees received during 1930 or 1931.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Firm.	Total value.	Fee.
Pritzker & Pritzker	12,653,000	370,650
Kirkland, Fleming, etc.	21,218,000	344,650
Sonnenschein, Berkson, etc.	14,000,000	246,325
Gottlieb & Schwartz	13,742,000	119,750
Litsinger, Healy & Reid	1,885,000	89,000
Defrees, Buckingham, etc.	12,444,500	59,375
Schulman, Schulman & Abrams	2,690,000	44,500
Fisher, Boyden, etc.	2,020,000	40,050
Rosenberg, Corlett, etc.	3,220,000	39,500
Tuige & Taige	1,880,000	38,500
Deming, Jarrett, etc.	835,000	34,500
Hutson, Traeger, etc.	1,210,000	29,000
Rubins, Fisher, etc.	1,000,000	25,000
Urion, Drucker, etc.	835,000	20,350
Winston, Strawn & Shaw	1,020,000	17,500
Townley, Wilde, etc.	175,000	9,000
D'Ancona, Pflaum & Kohlsaat	1,320,000	9,000
Frisch & Frisch	1,129,000	8,000
Crowe, Gorman & Savage	$ 334,000	$ 500

In the Superior court table Miller, Gorham & Wales are again listed as having filed two suits involving $6,775,000. No fees were allowed. Attorneys A. S. and E. W. Froehlich also are listed as having filed seven suits involving $3,275,000, but no fees were allowed. Listed in the same way is the law firm of Altheimer & Mayer, six cases filed, involving $1,525,000, and no fees allowed, and the firm of Brown, Fox & Blumberg, five cases filed, $1,370,000 involved, and no fees allowed.

Show Average of Fees.

It was pointed out that the average of fees allowed in the Circuit court as shown by the table is 4.1 per cent of the total value involved in the cases in which litigation was completed. In the Superior court the average of fees amounted to 4.68 per cent.

This percentage, it was estimated by lawyers in the office of Attorney General Kerner, would be substantially increased if all the fees allowed in all cases were recorded. They said that the fees allowed to law firms in cases involving less valuable properties were of a higher percentage.

Judges Hearing Cases.

The foreclosure suits in the Superior court on properties covered by the tabulation were heard before Chancellors Robert E. Gentzel, Denis E. Sullivan and William J. Lindsay. These judges have heard chancery matters for the last three years.

In the Circuit court the chancellors for 1930 were Judges William V. Brothers, Michael Feinburg, and Philip L. Sullivan. Judge Hugo Friend heard part of the chancery call during that year, and part was split with Judge Stanley Klarkowski. During 1931 Judges Klarkowski, Joseph Burke, Philip J. Finnegan and Feinberg heard the chancery cases.

All of these judges except Judge Finnegan and Judge Philip L. Sullivan have testified during recent hearings of the Sinnett committee. They testified generally that the fees allowed attorneys should constitute between 3 and 5 per cent of the moneys involved. The bar association compilations disclose that their fees generally tend to the higher extremes.

SWINGS UMBRELLA

HEAD OF COLLEGE USES UMBRELLA AS CLUB IN RIOT

Acts in Protest Against Military Training.

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, president of the college of the City of New York, swung his umbrella today on a crowd of demonstrators who blocked the way of him and his party to Lewisohn stadium where they viewed the annual military exercises of the R. O. T. C. unit of the college.

With the college president were Gen. John J. Byrne, Col. George C. Lewis, professor of military science and tactics; Mrs. Nancy Lyman Otis, and Mrs. Clinton B. Turck.

A crowd of some 300 had been holding a demonstration outside the stadium for an hour or so with speakers and placards protesting military training at the college, when Dr. Robinson and his party appeared.

Rush President's Party.

The demonstrators rushed toward them, booing, shouting and waving poles from which the placards had fallen. Dr. Robinson lashed out with his umbrella until a squad of 20 policement broke through and cleared a way for them into the stadium.

No one was injured and no arrests were made.

"I was escorting a group of guests, mostly ladies, to the stadium," said Dr. Robinson in a formal statement, "and as we approached the Amsterdam avenue and 138th street entrance, a crowd blocked the way. This crowd began a demonstration aimed particularly at our professor of military science, Col. Lewis, and charged forward. I did not recognize most of them. They were probably communists from outside, although I did recognize one individual as a student of the college.

Uses His Umbrella.

"As they came forward I ordered them back, but they rushed on, and in order to protect our guests it was necessary to clear the way, which I did with my umbrella. The guests then passed into the stadium. This disorderly group later gathered outside on the opposite side of Convent avenue and shouted and tried to disturb the exercises, but no further attention was paid to them and they disappeared."

Dr. Robinson has been president of City college since 1927.

INDIANS REJOICE AS GANDHI ENDS 3 WEEKS' FAST

Holy Man Holds Faith in God Vindicated.

POONA, India, May 29.—(AP)—Amid the rejoicing of his friends of various religions and castes, Mahatma Gandhi today concluded his three weeks' fast in protest against "untouchability." He was extremely weak in body, but proclaiming his increased faith in God.

"In God's name I began this fast and in God's name I end it," the frail and shrunken little man announced to his followers and newspaper men who surreounded his couch.

At 12:40 p. m. he concluded his voluntary abstinence from food by drinking a glass of orange juice. His fast began at noon on May 8.

Faith Is Greater.

"My faith is not less but more on this occasion and I sing the glory of God," Gandhi said as he lay on his bed with wet cloths cooling his forehead.

"I cannot forget the doctors and my other friends who poured attention on me during the days of my privilege and my grace. I cannot but refer to them in these words because their kind service was part of God's mercy.

"I am glad the untouchables are here with us," the feeble leader said as he noted the presence of members of the lowest caste. "I do not know what God expects from me now, but whatever it may be I know He will give me strength for it."

Poetess Directs Event.

Mme. Sarojini Naidu, poetess and lecturer, who has been one of Gandhi's most devoted followers, was mistress of ceremonies on the occasion of termination of the fast, at which about 170 persons were present. Still lying on his bed, Gandhi was brought into the room, where he silently acknowledged the greetings of those present.

The breaking of the fast was accompanied by singing of Hindu and Parsee hymns and also, by a small party of Christian followers, the song, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross."

It was Mrs. Gandhi who handed the glass of fruit juice to her husband, who raised it to his laps with trembling hands. A poem by the Hindu poet, Rabindranath Tagore, in celebration of the occasion was read.

The three weeks' fast left its marks on Gandhi. Sunken eyes, emaciated cheeks and arms even thinner than before testified to the ordeal through which he had passed.

JUMPS IN RIVER; THEN OUT.

Arthur A. Bergstrom, 27 years old, 1419 East Marquette road, leaped into the west branch of the river at Salt street yesterday. Then he swam out. He explained that he had made up his mind to "end it all" and changed back.

NEPOTISM ISSUE IN 6TH SUPREME JUDGE CONTEST

Charge Son of Heard on 2 State Pay Rolls.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Freeport, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—On a few sheets of paper on file at Springfield may depend largely the outcome of the Supreme court election in the Sixth district, consisting of twelve counties in the northeastern and north central section of the state.

Justice Oscar E. Heard of this city has been renominated by the Republicans to succeed himself; but the campaign has brought one revelation after another disclosing evidence of long continued nepotism at the expense of the taxpayers. This has split the normal Republican strength until there is even money offered here that the incumbent will lose his own county, normally a Republican stronghold.

Son's Office Expense Paid.

This is pronounced a safe bet largely because of the latest disclosure from Springfield, proof from the records that the jurist's son, Oscar E. Heard Jr., not only is drawing two good salaries—one of them secretly—from the state but that at least a large part of his office expense—even down to clean towel service—is paid for by the taxpayers.

On the hall door of a three room suite in the Second National bank building appear the names of Heard Sr. and Heard Jr., the former listed as "judge" and the latter as "attorney at law."

Father and son share the offices but the evidence now produced indicates that the costs are borne by the state. Each month Justice Heard submits an expense bill to the state. The latest one was presented to State Auditor Barrett on May 5 and the amount, $286.54, was paid promptly.

Copies of this bill have been obtained and one comment has been that, despite the fact that it bears the date of May 1, it states over the certification of Justice Heard that the charges are "to June 1, 1933," even including the telephone tolls for the month that has not yet arrived.

Text of Expense Bill.

The exact text of this latest bill paid is as follows:

May 1, 1933.

State of Illinois—Oscar E. Heard, Freeport, Illinois:

Office rent to June 1, 1933	$ 72.50
Stenographer to June 1, 1933	150.00
Electric light to June 1, 1933	1.15
Telephone rent to June 1, 1933	5.75
Telephone toll to June 1, 1933	6.35
Janitor to June 1, 1933	3.75
Express
R. R. fare and travel to and from court	45.02
Telegram	.77
Clean towel service	1.25
Total	$286.54

I certify the above bill is correct.
[Signed] OSCAR E. HEARD,
Judge Supreme Court.

While the general public has heard of the facts about Heard Jr.—known as "Oppie" here in Freeport—only since the opening of the campaign, Justice Heard's fellow townsmen have known for several years that the younger man, while in his own name receiving $3,600 a year as the official reporter for the courts of the Fifteenth circuit, also was receiving indirectly the yearly salary of secretary to Justice Heard, paid by the state in the name of Ray T. Luney, a lawyer who no longer practices but devotes himself to the oil business.

Heard Admits Double Pay.

Justice Heard has admitted this double pay roll charge. He said the arrangement was made in a "written contract concerning legal matters" between Luney and his son. One of the latest charges is that the chief provision of this contract when it was made was that "Oppie" and Luney jointly represent the Illinois Central railroad in this county. And it is said that Luney's share has been merely a pass over the railroad.

The final week of the campaign shows the Democratic nominee, Elywn R. Shaw, also of Freeport and an outstanding lawyer in this section, going into the lead over Justice Heard, with the third candidate, an independent Republican, County Judge George T. Liddell of Rockford, Winnebago county, failing to gain momentum.

Liddell has failed to obtain the indorsement of the protesting taxpayers' organizations for which he has hoped.

Shaw Makes Aggresive Campaign.

Following Justice Heard's admission that the $5,000 a year ostensibly paid to Luney really went to Heard Jr., Attorney Shaw has carried the battle aggressively to the incumbent.

The Len Small forces in the district are almost the only organized strength behind Justice Heard. Franklin J. Stransky, Small's chairman of the Republican state committee, is managing the Heard campaign and has sent out the word that there will be "plenty of money" to aid the candidate.

The county bar associations of the district, however, have been silent when it comes to indorsing the Republican nominee. A meeting called for the purpose was canceled.

ELECTION JUNE 5

Donald S. McKinlay, Democratic candidate for the Caylor vacancy in the Superior court, who was indorsed in the bar primaries, was born in Chicago 46 years ago, being one of seven children of parents who came from Scotland. He was educated in the public schools and, while working for a railroad during the daytime, attended at night the Chicago Kent College of Law, graduating in 1910.

He was admitted to the bar the same year and for some years worked for the law firm of Hummer & McDonald. From 1913 to 1917 he served with the public administrator of Cook county, afterwards joining the law firm of Blim, Teed, McKinlay & Siqueland. In 1923 he was elected alderman of the 19th ward and served for three terms, making a record highly praised by the Municipal Voters' league for uniform excellence. He was elected to his present position as a judge of the Municipal court in 1928.

Judge McKinlay was married in 1914 and with his wife and two sons he lives at 10314 South Hoyne avenue in Beverly Hills. His father, a carpenter by trade, years ago served as president of the Carpenters' district council of Chicago.

In the bar primaries Judge McKinlay received 1,929 votes, as against 470 for Daniel A. Roberts, Republican candidate. The bar association report says of Judge McKinlay: "He practiced law for 18 years. His record in the city council was excellent. His service as a judge of the Municipal court for four years has demonstrated his judicial capacity. He is conscientious in the performance of public duty and is well qualified for the office of judge of the Superior court."

Daniel A. Roberts, Republican, was born in Chicago 49 years ago. He was graduated from Chicago Kent College of Law and was admitted to the bar in 1910. He became an assistant corporation counsel in 1915 and special assistant corporation counsel in 1920, resigning in 1923. In this service he was identified with street railroad, elevated railway and telephone litigation. In 1924 and 1930 he was a candidate for the Municipal court.

From May, 1924, to February, 1933, Mr. Roberts was attorney for the west park commissioners. Since 1924 he has been a trustee of the retirement board, Park Employés Annuity and Benefit fund, and a trustee of the retirement board, Park Policemen's Annuity and Benefit fund. He has been president of the former since 1925 and of the latter since 1927. He is married and lives at 1550 North Kedzie avenue. The bar association report said of Mr. Roberts:

"He is upright, industrious and even tempered. He is qualified for the office."

Mayor Kelly Confined to His Home by a Cold

Mayor Kelly was confined to his home yesterday with a cold. The mayor's illness was attributed to his continuous activities in connection with the opening of the World's Fair, the many city problems that are constantly demanding attention, and his work with a legislative committee on tax bills.

CHICAGO FACES CRISIS IN ITS JUDICIAL FIGHT

Good Name of the City's Courts at Stake.

Erwin W. Roemer, secretary; William Beye, treasurer; Willard L. King, librarian; Clarence P. Denning, executive secretary, and Van Clement Winans, assistant secretary.

The board of managers consists of these officers and in addition Herbert J. Campbell, Henry A. Gardner, Richard Yates Hoffman, George A. Kelly, Isaac S. Rothschild, Ernest S. Ballard, J. F. Dammann Jr., Melvin M. Hawley, Royal W. Irwin, and John E. MacLeish. Russell Whitman is the chairman of the committee on candidates.

2,612 Vote in Bar Primary.

There are about 10,000 lawyers in Chicago. The bar judicial primary which ended May 10 was voted in by 2,612 lawyers, although 4,427 ballots were mailed to members. Each ballot was returned with a signature slip. It will be noted that 1,815 of the membership did not take advantage of this opportunity to express their views.

The chief advantage of this judgment as a guide to the people is that it is given by attorneys who have been in the courts of the judges they are voting upon. They have lost or won cases there. They have been overruled or supported. Much of the sentiment against some of the judges who were not favored is based on the reaction of lawyers who were cut short in their arguments. They marked the judge as impatient or discourteous.

The opinion of these 2,612 is presented to the people in the last statement by President Megan as the recommendation to the voters by "the dispassionate, professional, nonpartisan and nonpolitical expression of the best opinion of the bar."

Tells Circuit Court Power.

"The power of the Circuit court," continues Mr. Megan, "is tremendous, and can be entrusted safely to none but good men. Not merely is this [with the Superior court] the great general court of first instance, trying cases of the utmost importance, issuing injunctions and writs of habeas corpus, but the judges [of both Circuit and Superior courts] select from among their own number the chief justice of the Criminal court and all the judges of that court.

"They organize their court, appoint masters in chancery, and select the judges who sit in chancery and are to hear foreclosure cases and other chancery matters. These chancellors in turn appoint receivers, refer cases to masters, and pass upon fees of masters, receivers, and attorneys.

"The Circuit court judges choose south park commissioners, who have gigantic patronage. They [with other judges] choose jury commissioners. They fix the number of employés in the great fee offices of the county. The people cannot afford to let all these powers get into the hands of the wrong kind of judges.

"This is a crisis in the affairs of the city and county. We are confronted with a situation similar to that which we met in 1921, when a dominant political faction attempted to seize control of the entire Circuit court bench. In that election, in which we gave our support to an opposition ticket, we were entirely successful.

"One of the most important duties of the Bar association is to fight for an honest and capable judiciary. Powerful political leaders are boldly attempting to force the reelection of judges who have not the confidence of the bar or of the public. This is a situation that will recur until party leaders realize that the judiciary is not to be treated merely as a political body, its places to be awarded to henchmen, without regard for honesty or ability.

"The honor of the bench is at stake, and the bar, as the natural defender and support of the bench, is making the greatest fight in its history. This is World's Fair year. Visitors are coming to Chicago from all the cities and states, and from all the countries of the world. The eyes of all men are upon us.

City's Chance Before World.

"Are we the people our detractors say we are, indifferent to law and justice and decency in public life? Or shall we show our city—as deep in our hearts we know it to be—eager for good government, and ever ready to fight for it; loving justice and the law; proud and brave; desiring the best for ourselves and our children?

"Here is a chance for the supreme gift of citizens to the city they love, the best advertisement Chicago ever had, proclaiming to the world that we are under the rule of law, and that, while we have endured much, we cannot endure a judiciary that is controlled by politics, a bench that is not clean."

This document has a fine, sincere ring, but upon analysis it is found to rest upon the disclosure and the judgment made in the cases of Judges Feinberg and Klarkowski. There is nothing else in the campaign that is in the open, nothing that these lawyers voted on that would give a basis for any such verdict in the case of any other sitting judge. A victory over these two would be considered ample justification for this campaign. The case against these judges will be presented in another article.

STEAL 42 FOOT CABIN YACHT; SAIL OUT TO SEA; LEAVE NO TRACE

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Somebody with no timidity about concealment stole a 42 foot cabin yacht from the Raritan river at New Brunswick last night and sailed it out to open sea, where so far it has successfully defied a search by the coast guard.

Russell H. Garretson, a lock keeper at New Brunswick, made the yacht himself and stocked it with 200 gallons of gasoline and enough food and supplies for a party of six persons. He was planning a two day trip over Memorial day.

Garretson left the yacht safely tied up. When he went down to the river to inspect it early today, he found the vessel gone.

Charge Chicago Court Fees Are Far Above Other Cities

Charges that the Chicago Municipal court fees and costs range from 25 to 75 per cent higher than the Municipal courts of New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Detroit, and other large cities, were made yesterday by S. F. Jacobson, chairman of the Chicago branch of the Commercial Law league.

The league is opposing the recommendations of Chief Justice Sonsteby, who has asked the city council to approve an increase in the Municipal court fees. The draft of an ordinance providing for such an increase is now in the files of the finance committee. The fees for filing and service for all suits would be increased from 30 to 50 per cent by the passage of the proposed ordinance.

Attorney Jacobson also pointed out that the court costs are increased by the new schedule as proposed for the court. In the case of a man arrested for a minor violation where the eventual penalty may be only a $1 fine, but one for which the defendant asks a jury trial, or a civil suit in which a jury trial is demanded, the court costs amount to $30. Added to this under the new schedule is a proposed docket fee.

Other New Fees Proposed.

The new schedule would also add a $1 fee for examination of title of all real estate bonds filed with the clerk of the court, and give as a fee to the bailiff of the court a percentage of damages or claims collected. A full jury of 12 men would cost the party demanding the jury $20, whereas in the past this cost has been $12. If both parties in the suit consent to a six man jury then the cost remains $12 as it has been in the past.

Municipal Court Judges Edward B. Casey and Edgar A. Jonas, who attacked the new schedule when it was prepared last February, repeated their assertions yesterday.

"The schedule calls for the increase of filing fees, which now run from $2 to $8, to minimum amounts of $3 to $12," the judges said. "The Municipal court was founded to remedy the vicious justice of the peace system which prevailed 25 years ago. It was a poor man's court, but the poor man won't be able to afford necessary litigation if the new high fees are allowed."

27 Judges for Increase.

Appended to the proposed ordinance as it was presented to the finance committee is a list of 27 judges, including the chief justice, who favor the fee increases. Judges Jonas and Casey stated that the ordinance was not discussed in a regular meeting of the judges. They said that the copy had been circulated by mail among the various judges until sufficient names were signed.

Under the rules of the court the fees can be changed only if two-thirds of the judges agree and the ordinance is adopted by two-thirds of the council. The finance committee has as yet made no report on the ordinance.

CITY WORKERS RETURN; OUTLAW STRIKE FADING

Police Arrest Ten Agents of Sheridan's Union.

The strike of city teamsters and helpers, called a week ago by John Sheridan Sr., when Mayor Kelly placed a racket ban on his outlaw Chicago Teamsters' union and its affiliated Trucking and Transportation exchange, showed signs of breaking up yesterday.

Twelve hundred street sweepers who, while not affiliated with Sheridan's union, walked out last week, came back to work en masse. Their president, Mike Carrozzo, claimed the strike had no official sanction and maintained the men quit work after ten of them had been slugged by Sheridan agents.

Ten Agents Arrested.

With police squads hurrying from one ward yard to another, Sheridan's men found their intimidation campaign slipping yesterday. Police overtook ten of the agents and threw them into cells, holding them all day.

A late afternoon inquiry by Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, showed 1,337 men back on the job in the streets department. Among them were 223 section foremen, drivers of 194 teams and twenty-two hired trucks, drivers of thirteen city trucks, sixty-five tractors, and helpers on 382 trailers. Fourteen of the eighteen men needed among the hoisting engineers were also back on duty.

Commissioner Hewitt predicted that all of the men necessary to resume collection of refuse and continue work on street repairs and water pipe extensions would be back to work today. Each man returning was required to sign a card of membership in the international brotherhood of teamsters, the mayor having insisted the strikers renounce the Sheridan union and join a legitimate organization as a condition for getting back their jobs.

Tell of Threats.

Among the Sheridan agents seized were Tony Glimco, 255 West 64th place; John Reilly, 6641 Perry avenue, and Mike Yerlich, 6331 Parnell avenue, members of the Sheridan union.

Another agent, William Wilkins, 5618 South Winchester avenue, was arrested when J. J. O'Connell of the Sixth ward yard, heard complaints of three drivers that three men in a car had forced their trucks to the curb and ordered them to quit work.

Among the others seized were Arthur Olson, 2806 South Union avenue, and Joseph Willis, 4702 South Lawndale avenue. A driver, Casimir Zlous, 2122 North Western avenue, complained they had threatened to blow his brains out unless he ceased work, but when Zlous was confronted by the pair, he refused to identify them.

TWO FREED WITH SHURTLEFF'S AID SEEKING PAROLE

Gunmen Apply 12 Days After Entering Prison.

Carl Parker and Stanley Wilson, gunmen who evaded serving prison sentences for robbery for more than a year through the intercession of Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff of Marengo, applied for paroles yesterday, just twelve days after entering Joliet penitentiary.

Parker and Wilson are serving sentences of one year to life. They are eligible for parole because they are entitled to count as time served on their sentences the months which they spent in the county jail while the Supreme court was deciding that the procedure under which Judge Shurtleff arranged their release was illegal.

Court Cancels Sentence.

The pair were convicted of a robbery, having committed seven such crimes before their arrest, in Judge Charles A. Williams' court, in September, 1931. The day they were taken to the prison Judge Williams set aside their sentences and granted them probation, and they were set free after being behind the bars only a few hours.

Judge Williams, it developed, had taken the action at the request of Judge Shurtleff, who admitted that he was interested because Parker is a nephew of Judge Carl G. Sherwood, a former justice of the South Dakota Supreme court. Parker also was an escaped inmate of a New York asylum and it was learned that Judge Shurtleff had known this, and originally had advised members of his family that it probably would be better to leave the gunman in the penitentiary.

Shurtleff Changes Stand.

Later Judge Shurtleff changed his stand and urged that the pair of stickup men be given their freedom by Judge Williams "as a Christmas present." This suggestion was made in one of a series of letters which Judge Shurtleff wrote the state's attorney's office on behalf of the two criminals.

William A. Rittenhouse, then first assistant state's attorney, objected to the vacation of sentence and the granting of parole by Judge Williams on the legal grounds that the term of court in which the pair were sentenced was ended and that Judge Williams had lost jurisdiction.

"To vacate judgment after the term of court is error, but mere 'error,' and only in two or three malodorous cases where public indignation was aroused has the Supreme court ordered the record expunged," Judge Shurtleff wrote in reply to this.

Orders Record Expunged.

The Supreme court, however, took the very action which Judge Shurtleff had described as exceptional in the case of Parker and Wilson, ordering Judge Williams to expunge his grant of probation upon the objection first raised by Mr. Rittenhouse. This opinion was delivered about a month ago, but Parker and Wilson, who had been in the county jail because they were unable to furnish bail during the Supreme court hearings, were held in Chicago until twelve days ago while other robbery charges against them were disposed of.

Their pleas for paroles will come before the board of pardons and paroles tomorrow or Thursday.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 87; recovered, 88; stripped, 11 [from police records for the last twenty-four hours, ending at midnight Sunday].

FRANCO-SOVIET TRADE ACCORD REPORTED NEAR

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 29. — Franco-soviet trade negotiations, which have been in progress for several weeks, have reached a point where it seems certain a mutually satisfactory arrangement will be reached, it was reliably reported today.

This accord will be the first fruit of greatly improved relations between France and the soviet, which was signalized last week by ratification of a treaty of nonaggression.

The chief stumbling block at present seems to be the credit question, as is usually the case with the soviets, who need long term credits.

The French government, it is understood, is willing to guarantee 50 per cent of the credit, but asks in return that the Russians permit a percentage of the money raised by their sales here to be used to amortize the credits the French would grant.

Britain Stands Firm.

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, answering a question as to whether there have been negotiations with Russia for resumption of trade relations, told the house of commons today that "the opportunity indicated to the soviet government for negotiations is still open."

This was interpreted as British insistence on its position in the Moscow trial of six British engineers on charges of sabotage and espionage. The British government held that sentencing of two of the Britons, William MacDonald and L. C. Thornton, to two and three year prison terms was unfair and that this action must be rectified or the embargo on Russian goods must continue.

SEALS OF STATES WINNERS GIVEN $2,500 IN PRIZES

Rose Blair of Elmhurst Is First with $500 Award.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE "Seals of the States" contest has been completed and the $2,500 in cash prizes awarded by the judges.

This contest depicted daily for 48 days a crossword puzzle. In the centers of these reproductions of the 48 seals of the states were placed and the names of the states withheld. Deftly interwoven in the puzzles proper were these names to be worked out in the solving of the puzzles and thus proving th identity of the seals.

Crossword Fans Rally.

Crossword puzzle fans rallied to this game in great numbers and sent in exceptionally neat and attractive entries. But errors eliminated thousands that otherwise would have been potential winners and as the checking progressed only a few hundred were rated perfect. Of these the neatest were awarded prizes.

The first prize, $500, is merited by Rose Blair, 487 Spring road, Elmhurst, Ill. Miss Blair's accurate entry claims the highest count in neatness.

The second award goes to Vincent G. Clayton, 8033 South Aberdeen street, Chicago, who receives $250. Third and fourth prizes of $100 each were awarded to Mrs. Merrill E. Horton, 2938 North Newhall street, Milwaukee, and Frank Hullinger, 169 Hull street, Coldwater, Mich.

175 Additional Winners.

The other 175 winners are announced as follows:

$50.00 Prizes.

Mrs. Lillian D. Holden, 5617 S. Peoria-st.
Victor Hamlin, 511 S. Cuyler-av., Oak Park.
Jerry W. Lanning, 16 13th-st. S. W., Massillon, O.
Louise S. Altfillisch, Bellevue, Ia.
Mrs. Mary Braun, New Buffalo, Mich.

$25.00 Prizes.

Douglas Dudley, 4829 Damen-av.

INDIANA EXPECTS TWO MILLIONS ANNUALLY FROM TAX ON BEER

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—On the basis of a survey of the brewing industry in Indiana made by Paul Fry, state excise director, it was estimated tonight that the 5-cent per gallon tax eventually would yield the state in excess of $2,000,000 annually.

Figures now available asserted Fry, show that the eight Indiana breweries in production or about to market their product now are employing 718 men as compared to 181 before 3.2 per cent beer became legal. When these breweries reach capacity production, they will employ 1,755 persons, Fry said.

With a capital investment of $5,674,000, the seven breweries now have weekly payrolls amounting to $18,500, Fry said. Projected improvements total $1,015,000.

Six Indiana breweries have a present capacity of 587,000 barrels a year. At 5 cents a gallon, the output should yield the state $909,989 a year in excise taxes, the aggregate amounting to a state tax levy of approximately 2½ cents.

"The anticipated capacity of the eight breweries is 1,418,100 barrels annually," he added. "That output would net the state $2,198,055, which would be equivalent to 5½ cents of the present property tax levy.

The operation of these breweries has stimulated the Indiana coal industry. They also have stimulated trucking and railroad business.

"Revival of the beer industry reaches into many other lines of trade. For example: Four breweries have ordered 451,000 bushels of malt. Another has contracted for ten carloads of malt.

"Glass factories in Terre Haute, Evansville, Gas City, Marion, Muncie, Indianapolis, and Anderson are working night and day to fill orders for beer bottles.

"Box factories in Evansville, Terre Haute, and Anderson also are working night and day to fill rush orders for cases."

WRITES ILLINOIS AND INDIANA WETS FOR REPEAL VOTE

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley announced today that he had written letters to the Democratic leaders in Illinois and Indiana calling upon them to take action to assure large repeal votes.

Mr. Farley said that he had no doubt with regard to the outcome in either state. Illinois will elect delegates to its repeal convention on June 5 and the Indiana the following day. Several other states, including Massachusetts, Connecticut, Iowa, New Hampshire, California, and West Virginia, will elect their delegates next month.

In most of these states, if not in all, it is expected victories will be won for repeal. The first real test of strength between wets and drys will be the elections in Alabama and Arkansas on July 18 and in Tennessee on July 20.

WARN DRY FOES TO ROLL UP BIG MAJORITY JUNE 5

Leaders Say Overconfidence Perils Repeal.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A warning to repealists to guard against overconfidence and to roll up the heaviest vote possible next Monday, June 5, for repeal delegates to the Illinois convention to be held July 10 to ratify the 21st amendment abolishing national prohibition, was sounded yesterday by the political organizations.

The warning opened the final week of the campaign, which is to be marked by a concerted drive by liberal groups to emphasize before the electors that Monday brings the climax in Illinois of the battle against prohibition.

The dry organization opened its campaign for the anti-repeal slate by distributing marked ballots in the churches Sunday. The repealists have placed stacks of specimen ballots with the precinct workers in both Democratic and Republican parties, urging that a cross be marked in the circle for the ratification ticket.

50 Names on Each Ticket.

Fifty delegates are to be elected by state-wide vote. Fifty candidates, a joint Republican and Democratic ticket, are running in the column "For Repeal" while fifty other candidates, picked by dry organizations, are under the caption "Against Repeal."

The specimen ballots from the election board are three feet long. They contain the two tickets of fifty candidates each, with a heading setting forth the amendment which is up for ratification, wiping out the 18th.

The Republican county managers in a session yesterday took off with an appeal to the voters to go to the polls Monday and to vote on repeal at the time they vote on judicial candidates. Committeemen remarked that so far little interest is being displayed, and that in the next seven days the campaign should be turned on full blast.

They reported that everybody seems to take it for granted that Illinois will vote strongly wet as it has on three referenda already, but the committeemen held that it is no time to go to sleep, and that in Illinois the repeal vote ought to be of landslide proportions.

G. O. P.'s Call to Voters.

The Republican call to the voters, as put forth by County Chairman William H. Weber, read:

"The voters of Cook county, and the entire state of Illinois, for that matter, should not permit the judicial elections of next Monday to eclipse the extremely important election of delegates to the constitutional convention on repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The delegates will be elected on the same day of the judicial elections, June 5.

"Citizens who fail to vote on the repeal question will have no just cause for complaint if the election does not go to suit them. They have been clamoring for years for an opportunity to vote on the prohibition question in an election that means something. Now is the time. On three former occasions Illinois has expressed itself emphatically in favor of liberalism, but those three referenda had no real practical value beyond obtaining a free expression of sentiment on prohibition by the people of Illinois.

Voters' Voice to Be Heeded.

"The election next Monday is one in which the voice of the people will not only be heard but heeded, because the delegates elected that day will vote in the July convention as they are instructed.

"The Republican party, which from its birth has stood for freedom of thought and action and compliance with the will of the people, has joined the Democratic party in the nomination of a slate of delegates pledged to vote for repeal. In presenting such a slate the Republican party took its instructions from the people in their three former expressions on the wet and dry question, and if the people go to the polls as they should next Monday there is no doubt that Illinois will take its place in the front rank of states voting to restore the constitution to the people."

GEYER PREDICTS MILK BASE PLAN CHANGE ON JULY 1

Testifies at Legislative Inquiry Here.

Negotiations for a redistribution of the base surplus system of buying milk for Chicago are under way and probably will be put into effect on July 1, Don R. Geyer told a legislative committee here yesterday.

Mr. Geyer is secretary of the Pure Milk association and temporary milk administrator in the Chicago area under the federal farm act. The base surplus system long has been a sore point with dairymen supplying the Chicago market.

Mr. Geyer was one of a number of witnesses who appeared before the committee, headed by Rep. M. F. Hennebry [Dem., Wilmington] at its hearing in the county building. The committee is empowered under a resolution introduced by Rep. Thomas Bolger [Rep., Harvard] to investigate charges of racketeering and unfair trade practices in the Chicago fluid milk trade.

Reveals Aims of Inquiry.

Representative Hennebry announced that the investigation would follow three lines, as follows: to determine what steps can be taken to secure a market for all Illinois milk producers who wish to qualify to ship to Chicago; to find a remedy or a more equitable distribution for the present base surplus system; and to perfect farm coöperatives to include all producers shipping to Chicago.

The present base surplus system runs back to the fall of 1929 under an agreement between the farmers of the Pure Milk association and the large Chicago dairy companies. The so-called base is the average amount of milk which an individual farmer produced during three months of that year. The dairy companies buy that amount of milk, and no more, from him at the prices paid for fluid milk

Half Price for Surplus Milk.

Whatever a farmer produces over his base he must sell as surplus at the lower prices paid by creameries and other manufacturers of milk products. These prices range from 1.31 to 1.44 cents a quart, as compared to something more than 3 cents a quart which the farmer gets for his base milk.

The majority of this surplus milk is not manufactured, but is separated to form Chicago's supply of coffee and whipping cream, it was admitted yesterday before the committee by M. J. Metzger, secretary of the Bowman Dairy company. The cream sells for 15 cents to 20 cents per half pint. The skim milk which remains is evaporated or dried, and on that the companies are lucky if they show any profit, Mr. Metzger declared.

The objections of many farmers to the present base surplus scale is that the scale, set nearly four years ago, has become obsolete, and is discriminatory against many producers. Representative Frank A. McCarthy [Rep., Elgin] asked Mr. Geyer when a redistribution of the base among farmers might be expected and when the Pure Milk association will admit other farmers to membership. The large dairy companies of Chicago buy only from association members.

Washington Hearing Monday.

Mr. Geyer replied that hearings will open next Monday before Secretary Wallace in Washington on the trade agrement filed under the new farm act by the association and the large milk companies, and that a redistribution of the base is expected to be announced before July 1, to take effect on that date. Arrangements for the association to admit additional members will probably be announced at the same time, he said.

"Do you think that the cost of distribution of milk in Chicago is too high when the farmer gets only a little over 3 cents for the quart of milk which costs the consumer 10 cents?" asked Rep. McCarthy.

"The farm experts who questioned us about our trade agreement in Washington were particularly concerned about the wasteful duplication of delivery systems in Chicago," replied Mr. Geyer. "Unquestionably the farmers feel that the cost of distribution is too high."

Vienna Hears Ex-Chancellor of Germany Is Imprisoned

War on Titled Jews.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—The Prussian Press service today appealed to Nazi authorities to remove titles of nobility bestowed upon Jewish families by former kings and princes. The press service also demanded the removal of titles from husbands of Jewish heiresses. "We demand a radical cleansing of all aristocratic families," the appeal said.

VIENNA, May 29.—(AP)—An official Austrian news agency dispatch from Berlin said today that Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, former chancellor of Germany, was arrested and imprisoned in Fortress Kuestrin.

Phone Calls Unanswered.

BERLIN, May 30.—[Tuesday].—(AP)—A reichswehr [army] department official, roused from bed early today, expressed disbelief in an official Austrian news agency report that former Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher has been arrested and imprisoned. He explained, however, he was unable to issue a denial until a further investigation this morning.

He said the Prussian ministry of interior, which could not be reached, has jurisdiction over political charges.

Telephone calls to Gen. von Schleicher's suburban home at Babelsberg were unanswered and authorities at the Fortress Kuestrin, where the former chancellor was reported imprisoned, could not be reached.

Von Schleicher preceded Adolf Hitler as chancellor. The Von Schleicher government lasted only 56 days. Von Schleicher resigned on Jan. 28 after President von Hindenburg refused to give him authority to dissolve the reichstag and rule with dictatorial powers. Two days later Hitler was made chancellor.

The general succeeded Franz von Papen as chancellor after serving six months as defense minister in the Von Papen cabinet.

Nazis Seek to Oust Bishop.

The Nazi German Christian group yesterday gave notice that they would continue to contest the apointment of Dr. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh as he took office as first evangelical bishop of the reich.

This notice took the form of a demand by the German Christians for a plebiscite of the Evangelical church membership throughout the reich on Oct. 31 to pass upon the question.

The Nazi Christian group declared that they intended to place their candidate, Herman Mueller, before the plebiscite in opposition to the pastor who was selected by leaders of German Protestantism.

Danzig Nazi Soothes Poles.

Meanwhile the assertion that the Danzig Free State will respect its constitution and its treaties under all circumstances was made by Hermann Rauschning, who will become head of the Danzig senate as a result of the Nazi victory in Sunday's elections.

This assurance was calculated to quiet the fears of Poland, which has been anxious lest Nazi control of Danzig lead to untoward acts.

The cabinet yesterday forbade publication of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung for three months for criticism of the government's retaliation against Austria. The government recently fixed a visa charge of 1,000 marks [about $270] for visits to Austria as a token of displeasure at the cold welcome which German Nazi officials received when they went to Vienna.

Bar Masons from Public Offices.

DRESDEN, Germany, May 29.—(AP)—The Saxon cabinet decreed today that members of Masonic lodges may not hold public office—state, city, or commune—and may not teach.

WOMEN'S CONTRIBUTION TO THE MOTOR CAR

There is some doubt that people care to hear very much about what goes on under the hoods of their cars.

The driver knows that "driving qualities" are not accidental; they are put there. How the manufacturer creates or evolves those results may not interest him. He judges entirely by the results he gets in driving.

Well, it is not essential to talk "shop"; let us talk Results.

Smoothness. Drive the Ford V-8 and you will find that the engine runs with surpassing smoothness, due to its design and the extra precise methods of its manufacture.

Power. There it is, 75 horsepower (we could say 80) at the driveshaft for the driver's use. With less weight to pull around, the mettle of this car——its life-like response——is rather remarkable.

Economy. Our V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gasoline than any car we have made. Mileage is partly a matter of individual driving, but under average conditions the Ford V-8 does 17 to 20 miles a gallon. Of course, car economy is not only a matter of fuel. Ford V-8 has that too, but it is also economical in the complete sense——initial cost, operation, maintenance.

Appearance. This is woman's contribution. The motor car must not only be useful, but also good-looking. View the Ford V-8 and you will not need our comment on its fine appearance.

Comfort. This also is woman's concern. In 30 years she changed the motor car from a wagon to a coach. Comfort is a quality made up of numerous ingredients. There is no comfort without a quiet, smooth-running engine. We have all the other ingredients too,——color, good taste, quality, ease, safety, roominess and convenience.

JUDGE COLLECTS $200,000 BACK TAXES IN A DAY

Jarecki Spurns Lawyer's Terms on Payment.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate taxes collected yesterday totaled $614,799. The collections for the various years and the total of uncollected real estate taxes are shown in the following tables:

	1928.	1929.
May 29	$ 24,330	$ 116,817
Uncollected	19,711,222	52,194,416
	1930.	1931.
May 29	$ 233,812	$ 239,839
Uncollected	84,517,961	115,486,626

Personal property collections for 1931, which are not included in the foregoing table, totaled $23,419.

Two hundred thousand dollars were collected by County Judge Jarecki yesterday and he obtained the promise of payments of several hundred thousands more as he renewed his drive against tax delinquent properties under authority of the Kerner-Skarda act, which permits him to appoint County Treasurer McDonough receiver of properties to collect income to pay back taxes.

Judge Jarecki also served notice that he would be dictated to by no attorney or receiver in making settlements of receivership petitions. His announcement came when a lawyer took back a $31,000 check in part payment of taxes after the judge had refused to accede to the conditions laid down as essential to the payment.

Refuses Attorney's Terms.

Attorney Abraham Greenebaum appeared before the bench to answer a petition for a receiver against property he represented at 16-30 West Washington street. The lawyer presented the $31,000 check in part payment of the delinquent tax bill and said:

"This, of course, means that the petition for a receiver will be dismissed. The payment is made on that understanding."

"There is no such understanding at all," the judge retorted.

"There is a receiver already in this case," said the attorney.

"That makes no difference," said the judge. "No receiver or attorney is going to dictate to this court what is going to be done. A payment of $31,000 in part payment of a delinquent tax bill is no guarantee to the court and the county treasurer that the entire bill is going to be paid."

Lawyer Takes Back Check.

Upon hearing this statement the lawyer seized the check, which was lying on the bench before Judge Jarecki, and hurried out of court. The judge immediately appointed the county treasurer as receiver for the property and ordered Assistant State's Attorneys Hayden Bell and William T. Crilly to prepare an information against the receiver with a view to instituting criminal proceedings if it could be shown that taxes were deliberately withheld during recent years.

The judge also appointed a receiver for the Pershing hotel, 6400 Cottage Grove avenue, for which Melvin L. Straus is trustee and upon which delinquent taxes total $40,668. This is the eighth property under M. L. Straus management which has been put into a county receivership and the judge ordered an information filed here also to determine why taxes have not been paid.

Orders Receivers for Properties.

The other properties for which receivers were ordered by the judge yesterday and the amounts of taxes owed on each follow:

30 North Wells street, $21,901.
311 West Madison street, $2,711.
226 South Wabash avenue, $30,900.
105 South Wells street, $13,684.
181 West Washington street, $15,846.

Included in the $200,000 collected yesterday in the county court were the payments of $39,000 on 3838 Broadway, $13,600 on 212 North State street, $8,000 on 109 East South Water street, $3,131 on 540 South Wells street, $7,500 on 22 South Market street, $44,900 on 312 West Madison street, and $26,000 on 1520 East 63d street.

Threaten Injunction Move.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday revealed that Lee J. Esser, representing the Capitol building, Randolph and State streets, had threatened to bring injunction proceedings against the county treasurer to prevent the installation of a receiver as ordered last week by Judge Jarecki.

Judge Jarecki ordered an investigation of the management of this property when he discovered that taxes totaling nearly half a million dollars had been left unpaid while the bondholders took $1,000,000 and stockholders took $384,000 out of the property.

Since the county treasurer was appointed receiver the owners of the building, including several who were prominent in the tax strike, have tried to bring pressure upon Judge Jarecki and Mr. McDonough to maintain the same management in power. When their requests were refused Esser made the threat to obtain an injunction against the county treasurer.

TAX STRIKE SUIT IS LOST IN U. S. SUPREME COURT

The United States Supreme court yesterday refused to review the mandamus case filed by George F. Koester Jr., a member of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, leading organization of the tax strikers, in which he sought to compel greater assessment of personal property in Cook county for the years 1928 and 1929. The Illinois Supreme court recently ruled against Koester.

The mandamus action sought to force the old board of review to place on the assessment rolls some 12 billion dollars' worth of personal property which Koester alleged was in Cook county. The suit was denied in the Cook county courts from which the original appeal was taken. The denial of the mandamus continues the record of setbacks which the courts have given all the litigation begun by the tax strikers.

JUDGE LOWELL CRITICIZED BY U. S. HIGH COURT

Insists Prisoner Who Wipes Hands Lies.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Without mentioning his name, the Supreme court in a decision today by Chief Justice Hughes to which there was no dissent severely criticised Federal Judge James A. Lowell of Massachusetts for his handling of a criminal case.

Angelo Quercia of Somerville, Mass., was convicted of violating the Harrison narcotic act. He contended the conviction was obtained by Judge Lowell's exceeding the bounds of fair comment and argued that the judge had committed an error which entitled him to a new trial.

What He Thinks of Defendant.

Chief Justice Hughes pointed out that Judge Lowell in his instructions to the jury had said:

"And now I am going to tell you what I think of the defendant's testimony. You have noticed, Mr. Foreman and gentlemen, that he wiped his hands during his testimony.

"It is a rather curious thing, but that is almost always an indication of lying. Why it should be so we don't know, but that is a fact.

"I think that every single word that man said, except when he agreed with the government's testimony, was a lie."

Emphasizing the importance of instructions by trial judges to the jury, and the right of such judges to explain and comment on the evidence, the decision declared "this privilege of the judge to comment on the facts has its inherent limitations."

Chief Justice Hughes said it was "to be exercised in conformity with the standards governing the judicial office. In commenting upon testimony, he may not assume the rôle of a witness."

The chief justice said it was for the jury to test the credibility of a witness, giving his testimony such weight as the members thought it deserved. He added that under the circumstances it was prejudicial to the defendant for the trial judge to comment unfavorably upon his general character.

Does Not Analyze Evidence.

"In the instant case the trial judge did not analyze the evidence; he added to it, and he based his instructions upon his own addition," the decision declared.

"He did not review the evidence to assist the jury in reaching the truth but in a sweeping denunciation repudiated as a lie all that the accused had said in his behalf which conflicted with the statement of the government's witnesses. This was error and we cannot doubt it was highly prejudicial."

House Group Investigates.

In reversing the action of the First Circuit Court of Appeals which had sustained Judge Lowell, the high court declared that "his [Judge Lowell's] characterization of the manner and testimony of the accused was of a sort most likely to remain firmly lodged in the memory of the jury and to excite a prejudice which would preclude a fair and dispassionate consideration of the evidence."

The house judiciary committee is now investigating the action of Judge Lowell in ordering the release of George Crawford, Negro, wanted in Virginia on the charge of murder, the judge having taken the position Crawford would be denied a fair trial in Virginia because Negroes do not serve on juries there.

DICTATOR CALLS CHINESE LEADERS IN 'CRISIS' PARLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, May 29.—With the advance north of the Cantonese nineteenth route army to oppose the Japanese invaders and the northern armistice negotiations apparently hanging fire, great significance is attached to a conference of Nanking government leaders at a Kuling mountain resort at Kiukiang today.

The conference was attended by Premier Wang Ching-wei, Dr. Sun Fo, Foreign Minister Lo Wen-kan, Navy Minister Admiral Shen Shao-kuan, and others. They traveled hurriedly by gunboat from Nanking to confer with Dictator Chiang Kai-shek.

After several hours of conference, the government leaders left for Nanking aboard the gunboat. The subject of the conference was not made known, but it is believed to have been largely connected with the attitude of the Cantonese, whose military movements are believed to be preliminary to an open break with Nanking, dependent on developments of the Japanese situation in north China. The Cantonese army is moving north through Hunan province.

KIDNAPED GIRL'S FATHER DEMANDS GANG'S ARREST

Daughter Views Them as "Business Men."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., May 29.—[Special.]—Mary McElroy, 26, daughter of the city manager of Kansas City, who was kidnaped on Saturday and released Sunday after a reported ransom of $30,000 had been paid her captors, today declared:

"I don't believe I'd like to see any of those men go to the penitentiary. They treated me with such consideration I have no malice toward them. They were just business men."

H. F. McElroy, the city manager, who kept all negotiations with the abductors scret until he had raised and paid the ransom and received his daughter back, declared he was in favor of pressing a search for the gang.

Father Demands Arrest.

"We'll get those birds," he said. "I have no agreement to protect them and I want them arrested. The money is gone and I consider it spent. But a principle is involved and the search will not be stopped."

United States postal authorities and the police were coöperating in the hunt for the polite kidnapers, and T. A. J. Mastin, county prosecutor, asserted that if they were brought to trial he would demand the death penalty.

The calm and even happy attitude of Miss McElroy toward her experience was reflected in that of her brother, H. F. McElroy Jr., who accompanied his father to the rendezvous with the abductors and was the sole witness to the paying over of the $30,000.

"I am stirred by gratitude toward them," he said, "for treating my sister with so much consideration."

She's Proud of Own Spirit.

Miss McElroy, smartly attired in a brown sports suit and a white pique cravat, went to the detective bureau today and added a few details to her story of the affair after viewing photographs of criminals in the bureau of identification. She was proud, she said, that she had not "broken" while a prisoner.

"Of course," she said, "there were moments of terrible horror.

"I was reassured as soon as I realized they were merely business men."

Miss McElroy told how the kidnapers, after locking her in a basement bedroom on Sunday, offered her a chicken dinner, which she refused with the remark that she would rather have a tomato and lettuce sandwich.

"I can't picture you down here eating a sandwich and us upstairs eating a chicken dinner," one of the chivalrous abductors was said to have replied. "But it's all right if that's what you want. You are certainly one girl in a million."

Chains and Roses.

The kindness of the gang, she reported, did not stop with compliments. When she was released near the Milburn club Sunday afternoon she was wearing a bouquet of roses the "business men kidnapers" had given her.

They also presented her, on her departure from their care, with $1 so she would have carfare home.

During her brief imprisonment one of her wrists was chained and the chain attached to a wall, but the captors furnished her with magazines to read and joked with her.

One of the first tasks of the investigators is to locate the house in which she was held. It is believed to be in or near the outskirts of Kansas City, Kas. Miss McElroy cannot identify it, because the kidnapers, after taking her from her father's home at 11 a. m. Saturday, placed a robe over her head. While she was being taken back she was blindfolded, she said.

Police Still Puzzled.

Police authorities were puzzled by the actions of the kidnap gang, and theorized that they must have been amateurs.

From a description given by Miss McElroy the police broadcasted a request that a man about 35 years old, with a scar or a deep wrinkle on the right cheek, dark of complexion and with a square jaw, be arrested. Several suspects have been taken, but all have been released when they satisfied the authorities they were not involved in the plot.

POLICE NAB SIX TRYING TO HALT $100,000 THEFT

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—A few pebbles skittering on the roof of a four story tenement at 10th avenue and 35th street gave an alarm at 2 a. m. today that turned the police loose in a $100,000 raid on the Republic warehouse. They seized one truck loaded with $30,000 worth of silks and velvets and captured two men who leaped from the roof and received broken legs.

Several truckloads of Irish linens, French perfumes, silks and imported velvets carried out of the fifth floor loft where they were stored under government bond, disappeared before the police got the alarm.

Policemen went up to the garage roof and started working toward the warehouse. A moment later they saw two men dodging behind chimneys and opened fire. The pair dropped to the ground from the garage roof, where other policemen collared them.

The prisoners are James Lawson, 27, and James Garvey, 33. Lawson had a bullet in his spine and another in his right arm. His left leg was broken by the jump from the roof. Garvey escaped the bullets, but both legs were broken.

In a trucking office next to the garage police found four men who had no explanation for the burglar's tools and the guns lying around the place. They were all arrested.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

SOMETHING ELSE FOR THE SENATE TO INVESTIGATE.

The farm board is through at last, dead and buried with the 360 million dollars of taxpayers' money lost in the vain attempt of the government to corner the markets and control prices. It can't be done, as experiments in a dozen countries have proved, unless the government is also in a position to control production; and even then the outcome of experiments in price-fixing is, to say the least, doubtful; for the higher the prices rise the more certain it becomes that producers somewhere will appear to take advantage of them and break the corner.

When the story of the farm board comes to be written the first chapter will deal with the essential folly of the scheme itself. The subsequent chapters will be devoted largely to the record of mismanagement, graft and corruption which characterized many of its operations. Some of the facts were revealed publicly for the first time by Mr. John Boettiger in last Sunday's TRIBUNE. He had access to the secret records of a senate inquiry into the affairs of the board. The juggling of accounts between farm board subsidiaries, the voting of high salaries, the misrepresentation of facts for public consumption, all at the expense of the taxpayers, are now no longer matters for suspicion only. They have all been proved by the auditors. They are a lasting warning to the taxpayers of what must be expected when government, with its political interests and objectives, goes into business.

It must be assumed that the record which Mr. Boettiger examined was by no means the complete account of what went on under the protection of the farm board. The senate inquiry in all probability was none too rigorous. Many, if not most, of the investigators had voted for the creation of the board and had sustained it with additional grants of money. Some of them, perhaps, had placed their own friends in positions of power and influence on the board or its subsidiaries. To expect such an inquiry to be a thoroughgoing one is to expect a good deal.

The lesson has cost the American people 360 million dollars. The country ought to get full value for the investment. Now that the farm board is extinct, its records can be and should be thrown open for a comprehensive public inquiry into its acts. Its officers and the officers of its subsidiaries should be examined in public and in detail on their operations. Otherwise the impression may gain ground that the failure resulted less from folly than misfortune and less from turpitude than from honest mistakes of judgment. A relentless exposure of the farm board might not have the advertising value of some other inquiries, but it might be a good deal more useful in guiding the government now as well as in the future.

ADVISING THE GOVERNMENT.

Mayor Hoan, the Socialist executive of Milwaukee, is frequently in Washington telling the national government what it must do to save the credit of the cities. He makes speeches at the United States conference of mayors at which he is an ornament and he foresees complete municipal bankruptcy unless the government lends money to the cities on their unpaid taxes.

In Milwaukee Mayor Hoan has fought with his utmost vigor any plan to reduce the costs of local government. He has impugned the motive of citizens who tried to keep taxes within the capacity of the citizens to pay, and except for the ostentatious vetoing of an item to buy feed for the six police horses he has opposed every economy plan offered.

The budget for his own office this year provided a reduction of expenses of four-tenths of 1 per cent, the mayor's recognition of the facts that taxes are unpaid on 20,000 pieces of city real estate and that there are almost enough delinquent taxes, if paid, to cover the entire cost of a year's government.

Mayor Hoan is strongly favoring the Socialist plan for a 30 hour week for public employés which the Socialist councilmen plead would lift Milwaukee out of the depression by hiring more than 2,500 new city employés. Chief of Police J. G. Laubenheimer and Peter Steinkellner, fire chief, both say the Socialist idea would greatly increase the costs of their departments.

Hoan in a burst of oratory in Washington recently warned that unless a federal law is enacted to let the government buy tax certificates there will be a collapse of municipal credit. "If the federal government wants to give us money for federal construction, God bless them," he is quoted as saying, "but this credit crisis should come first. We want the cities to have money so they can pay their employés and run their police and fire departments."

Dispatches say this sentiment was warmly applauded by the mayors assembled.

Although the Socialists of Milwaukee perhaps are more outspoken in their resistance to any move to limit public expenditures, they are scarcely less stubborn than other officials in fighting any program that promises relief to the taxpayer.

With Milwaukee city employés unpaid for almost two months, the alternative economy program of the nonpartisans is little better than the Socialists'. It provides a voluntary donation of salaries by employés in amounts ranging from 9 to 25 per cent, the money to be used for additional employés and for additional emergency work for the idle.

Actual economy and help for the owner of his home or business property is completely lost sight of. Officials and public employés consent, apparently, to the sacrifice of a reduction of their own incomes only on the agreement that it will provide no relief for the taxpayer. The workers will relinquish part of their income only if assured some one else will be hired with it and that no money will be saved.

The mayor of Milwaukee can contribute most to recovery from the depression by taking the lead in eliminating unnecessary activities and directing real economy in public expenditures in Milwaukee. If he had undertaken that when the pains of the depression first were felt he would not need now to be in Washington demanding federal funds to pay Milwaukee police and firemen.

Political stubbornness in not facing facts has prolonged the depression more than any other factor.

THE MEMORIAL DAY PARADE.

If the war department had taken a calm and even view its rule as to the place of the army in a parade would have yielded to the reflection that the veterans of the civil war are, within the proper range of sentiment, a part of the army, a part, at least, of its traditions, as all veterans are. Memorial day is a day originally dedicated to the Grand Army of the Republic. The survivors of this army are few, and their parades in the future will be few. They feel keenly that they should not be called upon to take a back seat in their own parade. Therefore the war department could think that in honoring them it honored the American army.

The veterans of other wars could have yielded preferential place with the reflection that when they in turn are advanced in years and have become few in number they also will be given the dignity of special honor on their great day. Bureaucracy is not famous for flexibility of mind or rule. The war department yielded to the veterans, but it took to its tents, withdrawing from the parade. Achilles also was a great soldier, but he had his stubborn moments.

The G. A. R. might have met the war department stubbornness by a disarming cheerfulness. These veterans might have said that as the survivors of the civil war they were first of all, on this occasion, soldiers. As soldiers they might feel that a regulation was unfair or stupid, but as soldiers they accepted it. There was also another consideration, which appears in an old story. A distinguished nobleman wanted to show special favor to an old retainer and invited him to dinner, showing him to the head of the table. The old retainer would not be seated there, and his deprecating protests finally annoyed his host, who thrust him into the seat with the remark: "Wherever I sit is the head of the table."

No matter where the veterans of the civil war might be placed in a Memorial day parade that place became the place of honor.

TREASURER MARTIN.

Congratulations to State Treasurer John C. Martin. Two years ago the legislature appropriated $1,050,050 for his predecessor. Mr. Martin has got his budget down to $690,850. Although his appropriation had been cut drastically, the treasurer volunteered further reduction of $27,000. A member of the committee for 14 years said this was the first time in his experience a department head had volunteered any such reduction. The taxpayers of the state will thank the treasurer and hope his example will impress other officials.

Editorial of the Day

MICHIGAN'S LOST TRADE.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

The value of Michigan's exports in 1932 was $48,932,565, the department of commerce has just announced, this figure being 41 per cent less than the total value of exports in 1931, which was $83,453,736.

But this doesn't tell half the story of Michigan's decline in export trade. To get the complete picture it is necessary to look back two more years and to realize that the state's export total in 1930 was $184,352,941, and in 1929 it was $355,300,020.

The total decline from 1929 to 1932 was $306,367,455, or 86 per cent. In other words, Michigan transacted in 1932 only 14 per cent, or one-seventh, as much export business as it did in 1929.

It doesn't take an economist or a statistician to note that this loss has had a tremendous influence on the prosperity of the state. If Michigan industry could regain the $306,000,000 it has lost in the last four years it would go far toward the restoration of normal business, regardless of domestic consumption. And in spite of this obvious fact there still are those who will maintain that we do not need foreign trade.

Michigan ranked third among the states in the value of its exports in 1928 and fourth in 1929. But its ranking today is well down the list. This state has lost more heavily comparatively than many other sections of the country.

In view of these facts, is there any reason that Michigan should withhold its support of measures to give to the administration the power to negotiate with foreign countries for a resumption of trade? It would seem that Michigan as much as any other state would be in favor of any plan that would bring to an end the blind policies which have strangled the interchange of goods among nations.

Perhaps this state has lost a large part of its foreign market beyond recall. High tariff walls have driven scores of Michigan industries to establish plants in foreign lands. Retaliatory restrictions have cut deeply into the trade which Michigan formerly enjoyed. And once lost this business will be doubly difficult to regain. Even the withdrawal of restraints will not bring back completely the markets that have been cut off.

But if even a part of Michigan's forfeited foreign account could be restored it would mean a marked stimulus to business and industry. If only half of the losses could be regained it would mean an increase of $150,000,000 in income from this source. The present volume would be quadrupled.

That alone is reason enough for Michigan residents to hope for at least a measure of success in the world economic conference, and to indorse the proposal to give the President and his envoys a free hand in attempting to work out improvements.

A NEW APPLICATION.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE ALL UNDERSTAND perfectly that Mr. Brookhart is only the "agricultural ambassador" to Russia, and Russia may understand it, and England may understand it, and Germany may understand it, and France may understand it, and Italy may understand it, but how is anybody going to make Mr. Brookhart understand it?

BASIC ENGLISH it's called and we refuse absolutely to take it up. It means the English language in 850 words only, not taking into account names of persons and places. The idea of the inventor, an Oxford man, is that 850 words are all that are really needed by any foreigner to understand English if we are careful not to go out of the words listed in talking to him. We'll have none of it. And why? Because not even with the 400,000 words enumerated us by Noah Webster are we able to express our inmost thoughts when we think of us going down to the income tax collector and paying right through the nose when there are certain rich men who calmly announce that they did not pay their income taxes. At a moment like this when we are struggling for utterance until we are black in the face are we going to stand for a contraction of the English language to a pitiful 850 words? No, a thousand times no! We couldn't even get a good running start in that many words.

For me.

In Picardy, beyond the sea,
No more shall war and bloodshed be!
God grant to all a vision new—
Of brotherhood, of friendship true.
Let youth no more be slain—for you—
For me.

"TWO MEN KILLED in Cemetery in Private War in Kentucky."—Headline. Kentucky is getting on. Having their private wars in cemeteries makes it more convenient for everybody all around.

ANYHOW, it's a good thing that so much whoopee has been raised about Whistler's "Portrait of My Mother" being worth five hundred thousand bucks. Even those of us who love to say we don't know anything about art but we know what we like will insist on getting an eyeful of that five hundred thousand dollar picture. Think of it, it only costs say a dollar and seventy-five cents to whitewash the henhouse and that picture isn't as big as a tenth part of one side of a henhouse and it costs five hundred thousand smackers. Gosh!

WE CAN HARDLY believe the Tennessee real estate boosters when they say that Franklin Delano is going to move the capital from Washington down to the monkey state. However, it would be a fine thing if they left the statues of our great and near great back in Washington. Which would be a great blessing.

IN SPEAKING OF SADNESS.

I am not sad for lonely eyes that see,
In every fading sunset, some dream which cannot be;
But I am sad for empty eyes that see
That when the evening sun sets it's time to boil the tea.

"THERE IS NO THIRST," says Newton D. Baker, the former w. k. secretary of war, "like their thirst for order." Oh, Mr. Baker, you should have seen the little dinner group we saw the other night waiting with their tongues hanging out for the cocktails [the bootlegger being late with the gin]. We cannot imagine any thirst for order being half so soul harrowing as that cocktail thirst.

IT MUST BE A TRIFLE CONFUSING to be a devoted friend of China these days what with Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang declaring Gen. Chiang Kai-shek a traitor and heavy fighting having broken out between Gen. Tang's army and the army of Tang Yu-lin. If we are friends of China we must be a little more explicit. For instance, we should say, if we feel that way about it, "Friends of China, but No Friend You Understand of That Big Bum, Chiang Kai-shek." Or if we feel the other way about it we can put it this way: "Friends of China, but a Kick in the Pants for Feng Yu-hsiang."

TO ANOTHER HELEN.

The other Helen, by accounts I've read,
Was stately, tall, and most divinely fair,
The luster of warm gold slept in her hair
Which lay in Grecian folds about her head;
The other Helen launched a thousand ships,
Started a war, and burned a city down,
She had her husband chased around the town
Whom Homer sang with blind, impassioned lips.
SHE had, I'm sure, no freckles on her nose,
Nor nose at all that wrinkled like an imp's
When she would laugh, nor hair with funny crimps
Of curls to make a flaxen riot when it blows.
THAT Helen was a lady, through and through.
. . . I much prefer to be in love with you.

PANICS AND SUICIDES.

STATISTICAL studies show that the depression has not greatly increased the suicide rate, contrary to the general opinion. There is some increase, it is true, but it is not great—not anywhere near that of the growth in the fatal diabetes rate, or fatal accident rate. There have been times and places where and when the suicide rate has been higher than it is now and here. The contrary opinion is the result of the publicity given certain suicides, and this, in turn, has resulted from the prominence of some of those who have committed suicide and the spectacular and dramatic measures employed.

The depression having followed a period of wild inflation, some financiers of great news value have chosen the suicide method of escape from financial snarls. There is and always has been fashion in the method of taking one's life. Certain methods seem to have the approval of social leaders, while certain other methods are "simply not done," to use a provincialism of the socially elect.

The act of committing suicide is generally precipitated suddenly. The immediate urge is an emotional outbreak, and any performance of that kind is liable to be of the copycat type. On the other hand, the underlying decision to commit suicide, the weighing of the matter to almost the point of action, is generally thought out or felt out with considerable deliberation and with some calm. Nine times out of ten its advantages and disadvantages are weighed as qualities of a method of escape from something.

A plan of prevention for all types of preventable death, as well as preventable illness, should include procedures for the prevention of suicide. Physicians know pretty well what should be done, though having it applied is not an easy matter. The preventive plan consists in giving men a philosophy and having them incorporate it in their lives. It comprehends training in character, starting in childhood and continuing through life.

One quality that must be trained against is the dependence on thrills and excitement. When a man has trained his palate for candy alone, plain bread tastes very flat. If he can get nothing else but bread to eat he is apt to decide that life is not worth living. Melodrama, fiction, high geared reading and drama as a steady diet make the plain, white light of common day seem very uninteresting. Fatuous Pollyannas, "all's well with the world," are in the same boat with silly novels and silly drama. Ambition, or desire beyond capacity to perform, is another potent cause — champagne conceptions and a beer capacity. Another is a lack of an estimate of values. So much for the negative side.

On the positive side there is need for calm, cool courage; an ability to meet trials with equanimity, even an ability to accept defeat in a Spartan spirit. In other words, the preventive of suicide is to weave a correct philosophy into life.

ITCHING HANDS.

J. B. writes: I have something like itch on my hands. Some doctors call it itch and others call it eczema. I got it at the age of 10, but did not pay much attention to it until it grew worse. Sometimes I would use salves and it would go away for about three or four days. I am now 19. Do you think I can be cured? If so, please let me know what to do about it.

REPLY.

You can be cured, but the problem is not so simple as putting on some salve. Is it seven year itch? If so, sulphur used properly will cure it. Used improperly it will not. Is it due to something to which you expose your hands? If so, find what is poisoning your skin and avoid it and you will need no salves. Furthermore, if the cause is avoided or removed the disease will never return, that is, if the cause never does.

USING OLIVE OIL.

W. B. S. writes: 1. Is it harmful to drink a tablespoonful of olive oil a day? 2. Is it helpful for dry skin on the face?

REPLY.

1. No. The answer assumes that you can digest and assimilate fats well; that you are not obese, and that you have no acidosis. These conditions being met, eating considerable quantities of olive oil daily is wholesome.
2. No.

CO-SIGNERS.

Chicago, May 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A co-signs a note on a loan of $150, along with two other co-signers. 1. Now the loan company has assigned A's wages only. The other co-signers are unmolested. A is working part time and finds he has no exemption of $20 a week as the loan company claims he signed an assignment of wages. 2. Is the loan company within the law in accepting an assignment of wages instead of a garnishment? 3. Can they claim his entire salary, which averages around $12 a week? 4. Can they collect from A only and leave the others alone?

S. J. C.

1. We assume that you mean that you have been served with notice of assignment.
2 and 3. Yes.
4. Yes. After paying, A will be able to force contribution against the others.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

COAL BILL.

Chicago, May 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I am in the coal business. I gave my brother credit for coal amounting to $300. My brother died without paying for same. His wife has stocks and lots. Can I compel her to pay the bill? 2. She had a building which is now in the hands of receivers. She told me to put a lien on the building for this amount. Can this be done? 3. Must I have signature to show they received the coal? T. N.

1. If your brother left assets you could file your claim in the probate proceedings, but in such proceedings it would be subject to the costs and widow's award. An alternative is to collect directly from her if you can prove that the coal was used in the home so as to be a family expense.
2. You give us no facts as to ownership of the building.
3. Presumably oral testimony would be enough.

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 30, 1893.

CHICAGO.—In the judgment of many of the World's Fair officials who visited Jackson park Sunday [May 28] there is a wide discrepancy between the returns given out by the department of admissions and the number of people actually within the grounds. Officials think 200,000 people were on the grounds, but the figures reported show only 94,000. No charges have been made, but an investigation is in progress.

The Exposition directors were temporarily enjoined from closing the Fair Sunday by Judge Stein in a decree entered yesterday.

A private view of the Dahoman Village in Midway Plaisance was given yesterday. Among the guests was Frederick Douglass, noted Negro orator and diplomat, who was one of the most interested spectators of the ceremonies that marked the opening performance in which seventy natives from the old slave coast of Africa participated.

The east court of the Art palace was opened to the public. It is here that is placed the collection of casts of French sculpture illustrating its development from the eleventh to nineteenth century. This collection is generally known as the Trocadero collection. It will become the property of the Chicago Art Institute after the close of the Exposition.

In the various German sections of the Exposition things are going to be lively the latter half of this week. Tomorrow the marble chamber of the German art section will be opened. Thursday the engines of Germany's display in Machinery hall will be set in motion, and on the evening of that day Germany's electrical display will be ready for inspection. Saturday is the day for the formal opening of the Krupp pavilion, with its rapid firing and the giant guns.

Sixty-two Turks arrived at Little Constantinople at the Fair. They are members of the volunteer fire department of Constantinople, and will man two pieces of fire apparatus imported from Turkey. Ketaghi, an aged Turk, is the chief, and claims that his men can run a longer distance carrying their engines on their shoulders than the horses of an American fire department can drag their engines and do it in less time.

The Irish Industrial Village will be opened for a night show for the first time this evening, the electric current having been turned on yesterday. There will be a dance on the "green" to the music of pipes.

TOLEDO, O.—Anti-conscription agitators, undertaking to hold a street meeting at which addresses opposing the registration next Tuesday under the army draft law were to be made, precipitated a riot here last night in which 2,000 persons participated. The crowd which engaged in the mêlée before it was put down included militiamen, pacifists, police and citizens.

WAR NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.—The war department issued an emergency call for 100,000 volunteers at once. President Wilson believes the allies can hold out till the United States gets a big army into France. The senate finance committee put provisions for an excise tax on coffee, tea, and sugar in the war revenue bill. Herbert C. Hoover outlined plans for a food control organization which he believes will reduce the cost of living.

OTHER WAR NEWS.—Rome reports the repulse of vicious Austrian counter attacks on entire front. Violent artillery duels are in progress in the Vodice district. Berlin reports increased activities on the Russo-Rumanian front and says it expects an attack in this region. London reports a hospital ship and an armed cruiser were victims of U-boats; a destroyer was lost after a collision.

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

Chicago, May 23.—One visit to A Century of Progress and I am so full of my subject I want to hire a radio station and broadcast.

I believe I shall never forget it. I have traveled a bit and whenever I said "from Chicago" the reply was not always exactly a compliment—but since I came away from A Century of Progress I am just bursting with pride, pride in a city that nature located so magnificently, pride in a city that has men who could vision such a marvel and in these days and in the face of such obstacles carry out the vision and let the world realize the utter magnificence of this city, the spirit of its people, the art, the science, the achievements of modern architecture—O, in a word it is like showing to a world with lifted eyebrows what Chicago has in it.

Bringing, as it does, to your door all that the old world has to offer and all that the new world of science has corralled—and in the most magnificent setting that could be conceived. All of this you may see, and enjoy and revel in, for the expenditure of one-half dollar. You do not need to spend one copper more than that unless you choose to.

The city of Chicago owes to Rufus Dawes and his associates who conceived this marvel and carried it out so magnificently an undying vote of gratitude. They have given Chicago an enviable position in the world of art and achievement.

I hope that when the medal for outstanding service to Chicago is given out next time it will be presented to Rufus Dawes. ENTHUSIASTIC CUSTOMER.

STEVE AND HIS LAWYER.

Chicago, May 26.—I note in today's Dick Tracy strip that Lawyer Twillbrain has been offered $2,000 to obtain a new trial for Steve, the tramp. Steve's friends should be told that the fee is excessive, as any lawyer, even if he were fresh out of law school, could obtain a new trial for Steve in five minutes. The prosecuting attorney at Steve's trial was permitted to introduce affidavits [which violates the most elementary principles of legal evidence] and was also permitted to introduce evidence of crimes committed by Steve other than that for which he was on trial, which is absolutely improper and constitutes reversible error; People vs. Corry, 349 Ill., 122; People vs. Gawlick, 350 Ill., 359. This is true even when defendant pleads guilty.

The cartoonist who draws Dick Tracy should read up on his law before he puts Steve on trial again.

BENJAMIN M. WASHER.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION.

Chicago, May 24.—If Chicago officials and politicians really desire to save money for the taxpayers, it seems to me that every one of them, even the ward committeemen, would get behind the permanent registration bill, now, according to the papers, quietly resting in the elections committee of the senate. This measure has passed the house, but the senate is evidently not so economically minded.

Every registration day in Chicago costs the taxpayers about $300,000, since there are over 3,000 precincts, each precinct manned with five election officials at $10 a day each. This alone amounts to over $150,000, and then there is the cost of the canvass, the revision and the rent of the polling places, which easily amounts to another $150,000. And Chicago has one, two and sometimes three registration days a year.

It has also been proven in the states where permanent registration has been established for a number of years that besides being a means for saving the taxpayers' money it also prevents much fraudulent voting, for the identity of the voter is established by signature, just as it is in banks.

We taxpayers should demand of the senate that it pass this bill. It will not deprive the ward committeemen of all their patronage at the polls; there will still be the election days.

A TAXPAYER.

BEER LICENSES.

Chicago, May 24.—Under the present license law the biggest hotel in the city selling 50 barrels of beer per day pays no more for a license than the poor little fellow who operates a small restaurant or hot dog stand in a neighborhood where there is a sale for about one barrel per week. They are cheating the city out of money which could be realized had the law been made so the city gets so much per barrel or per case.

DEMOCRATIC INSIDERS.

Chicago, May 26.—The time is quite ripe, I believe, to brand as a capital lie the oft repeated, almost historic Democratic charge that the Republican party and Wall street, alias the house of Morgan, are political and economic associates. For those who are still victims of this vicious propaganda I suggest a close scrutiny of the recently published list of insiders in the Morgan debacle. At least 60 per cent are Democrats. Nor would I have these victims overlook the fact that the Democratic party was equally well represented on the Insull list of insiders.

"Angel's" Plot Fits Rules and Cast Is Superb

Lenore Ulric's Figure Has New Lusciousness.

"ANGEL."

A play by Wilson Collison, with Lenore Ulric as star, given at the Grand Opera house May 29, 1933, under the management of Arch Selwyn.

THE CAST.

Joe Martin.....Paul Kelly
Laura Roland.....Jessie Royce Landis
Bob Geldiss.....Ian Keith
Phil Roland.....Henry Daniell
Miss Fischer.....Jane Ferrell
Angel Carson.....Lenore Ulric

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Here is a new play to fit into the World's Fair picture—a specimen of dramatic plotting according to the good old rules of the game, with a first rate cast to make it plausible. It reaches this city early in its history, thus giving you an opportunity to say with an air of sophistication after it has reached Broadway: "O, yes; Lenore Ulric in 'Angel'—I saw it in Chicago." Such events should be enjoyed, if possible, with playgoing determination, for they are becoming scarce in this region.

Miss Ulric has been the prettiest of the major stars of the drama for more than a few years, and she still holds that championship. She may be carrying a few extra pounds this spring, but the effect is to add a certain lusciousness to the trim Ulrician figure. She is a vivid picture of the feminine allurements that belong to the Carmen legend; and she is also an excellent actress in scenes of melodrama with a carnal background. Highbrow criticism has always been inclined to snub Miss Ulric as an artist, but in her vein of flamboyant little pagans with tongues of brass she is always highly effective.

In "Angel," Miss Ulric has a character who might easily be the good-natured daughter of the famous Sadie Thompson of "Rain." She dresses like an Apache dancer; she talks freely about her predilection for sin; she challenges every male in sight with merry invitations to misbehavior. However, to clear up the general doubt about her professional classification, she finally identifies herself as a singer in second-rate night clubs. That, of course, excuses everything and gives her a clean bill of virtue when she consents to wed an airplane pilot at the final curtain.

This pilot is an important fellow in the plot. En route from Los Angeles to San Francisco he has made a forced landing on a lonely mountainside and found shelter for his passengers in a deserted cabin. The group contains Miss Ulric, a missionary lady to be shocked by her conduct and to increase the resemblance to "Rain," and a triangle of upper-class folk—man, wife, and best friend with a sex tragedy staring them in the face.

Miss Ulric's business, at first, is to keep this group of castaway air-riders cheerful in their storm-bound plight. She is as blithe as Robert Browning's Pippa, but somewhat more vulgar; she teases the missionary woman, wisecracks with the upper classes, and drinks a quart of gin [her own] with the hard-boiled pilot. These are scenes of comedy, in which the Ulrician touch has never been particularly deft. But then the plot marches on to melodrama, which is her special field, and she becomes extremely effective.

Upper Class Man No. 1 is in a quiet, bitter mood of jealousy, for he has sensed the fact that his wife is in love with his best friend—Upper Class Man No. 2. Miss Ulric, being wise in the ways of possessive males, knows intuitively that a tragedy is brewing, and tries to avert it, first by friendly advice to the husband and then by cutting admonitions to the wife. But the shooting begins, nevertheless—and then who should step into the line of fire and get the bullet that the husband intended for his wife but Miss Angel herself, true to melodramatic tradition for good bad girls?

Miss Ulric survives, of course, to pair off with her pal, the pilot. The husband removes himself from the problem by suicide; the illicit lovers learn the error of their ways; and the missionary lady, who has had nothing to do all night but register acute discomfort, departs to her duty among the heathen Chinese.

Paul Kelly as the pilot, Henry Daniell as the deadly husband, Ian Keith as the other man, Jessie Royce Landis as the nagging, hysterical wife, and Jane Ferrell as the petulant missionary—these make an excellent company for Miss Ulric's support. "Angel" will remain at the Grand Opera house for the next two or three weeks.

Idle Business Girls of N. Y. Begin Opening Sidewalk Book Shops

New York, May 29.—(AP)—The Hop Light Ladies hopped their first full hop today to gather momentum for the big hurdle over depressing days. They opened a second hand book mart on the sidewalk at Madison Square.

The pretty blue stand, matching the blue smocks and hats with black trim which constitute the Hop Light uniform, had no more than been rolled into place when a kind old lady bought "The Time Spirit," by Julian Snaigh.

Two Hop Light Ladies manned the mart—their by-laws forbid the mention of names—and what they take in at 25 cents a copy will go into an iron pot to be distributed on a pro rata basis according to the number of days worked. The books are furnished by second hand book stores on consignment.

Other marts are to be opened as fast as the stands can be manufactured. The ladies, numbering nearly a thousand and increasing daily, will also mind babies, do paint jobs, and accept any employment that isn't competitive.

All of them are business and professional girls out of jobs. Everybody gets the same in the prorating, including their executives.

It's their own idea.

Swank New Attire for Summer Sports

Shirley Grey models a bathing suit of blue and white knit. She designed it herself.

'Uncle Tom' Comes Back to Broadway

Otis Skinner Plays Title Role in Revival.

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—They brought "Uncle Tom's Cabin" back to Broadway tonight—lock, stock, and barrel. But they polished up some of the scenes and much of the wordage so that the performance was more in tune with modern times.

However, most of all, the old mellow-drammer was there and the audience took it all very kindly, probably because of the finished and scholarly performance given by the members of one of the most distinguished casts ever assembled on Broadway.

It was those amiable philosophers, the Players, who left their cloistered niche in the sun of Gramercy park and came up north to the lights of Broadway with the revival. Duly they mounted it at the Alvin, with customs and settings from the decade that preceded the civil war, and with Otis Skinner to feel the cruel lash of Simon Legree.

Tonight's first audience apparently expected that it would see the noted gaslit drama played wistfully with tongue in cheek, but in that it was doomed to disappointment. The Players gave to the latest addition to the honor rôle of the Tom show what it had in the early days of its prosperity—a serious affection. Some of the cynics hissed the entrance of Mister Legree. But they were the young ones, and so were out of order.

The play is exceptionally well acted. Mr. Skinner in the rôle of Uncle Tom carries it through truthfully to the end, bearing the burden of the Players' ideal. And perhaps the greatest of all the collected performances of the lordly group on the stage was given by Fay Bainter. She appears as Topsy. She is properly flighty and duly wicked, and in the famous scene of the slave auction she jigs and snaps her fingers with abandon.

Well chosen and well directed likewise is the rest of the cast. Pedro De Cordoba appears as George Harris and Elizabeth Risdon as Eliza. Cecilia Loftus is present, too, as Aunt Chloe, and Edward MacNamara as Phineas Fletcher. John Daly Murphy, carrying the umbrella of tradition and the cards, plays the part of Lawyer Marks, and Lois Shore is Eva. And, finally, to Thomas Chalmers has gone the devilish rôle of Simon Legree. He it was whose name and not his playing was hissed by those who knew their villains, or knew them when they saw the black snake whip.

There are, in the Tom show of the Players, real dogs. They came from the Litchfield Country club, up in Connecticut, and were lent by Owen Culbertson, artist.

The revival is largely a matter of love of the theater and charity. All the actors are contributing their services, and the proceeds—after the stage hands and electricians are paid—will be divided between the Actors fund and the John Drew fund. It was intended to run the play only one week, but there were opinions expressed tonight that the success of the opening portends a longer run.

The text of the Harriet Beecher Stowe novel was revised for the present play by A. E. Thomas. The staging was by Earle Boothe. Uncle Tom was first presented in 1852, and scarcely a year has passed without some sort of a revival here or elsewhere.

Paris Provides New Surprises in Summer Hats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

No matter how many times you are carefully and most confidentially smuggled in behind the scenes to preview new hats, the same old excitement steams in your blood. You never know what these French designers will do and, thank goodness, they never disappoint. This summer is as usual. A new collection of French originals has arrived and some of them have been copied and all the shoppers will soon be able to wear the newest ideas.

Generally, the hats are in the two well known divisions, brimmed and brimless, and the brims are wide, tremendously flattering and just what you want for summer days. Agnes, that super hat maker, sends a brimmed creation that will stop traffic. It is made of burnt ivory baku, with a high crown that is much higher in back than it is in front. Inch wide lacquered black ribbon is stretched around the crown, and at the side back is a waving tuft of black glycerined ostrich.

Then for a brimless model this same genius sends a small skull tight creation of soft novelty weave cotton fabric that is nothing more or less than fourteen strips of material sewed together and then deftly swirled into a round top knot. It's the best looking small hat in the collection.

Monsieur Patou, with his tongue in his cheek, designed a daring cap hat shaped like a jockey cap. You pull it on over your close cropped curls and wear the visor listing down over the right eye and well to the side. It is made of the newest cotton fabric, white rib cord, and can be copied in any fabric you may desire.

Reboux sponsors a feminine version of a man's fedora, creased, tailored and trimmed with a grosgrain ribbon, and a white bengaline silk hat that looks like an upturned funnel, with a conical formation that ends in a blunted point. It is stitched in black and marvelously becoming and dashing on the right head.

Chanel has resisted the masculine tailored manner most successfully by sending a fetching trifle of sheer white organdy. It is rather flat, with a shallow crown planted close to the narrow brim. Descending from the crown to the edge of the brim are three finely fluted ruffles with a val lace edge and across the back of the hat is a very precise bow of organdy. This same hat could be copied and a bow of color used instead of the organdy.

Silk and cotton crêpe hats in white are cool as well as smart, but Patou has scooped the town with the first shiny black satin hat. It is a brimmed affair with a stitched brim and a shallow crown, trimmed with two white gardenias and a clever bit of ruffling in the back brim that turns down about the left ear.

Bride and Her Party to Sail for Wedding Ceremony in England

Baltimore, Md., May 29.—(AP)—Reversing the usual order of things, Miss Dorothea Dutro Harrison of Westover, Va., and a party of seven young women sail this week for England, where Miss Harrison is to wed.

The prospective bridegroom is Lieut. Robert E. Van Meter, from Oklahoma City, a graduate of the naval academy and for the last three years a Rhodes scholar at Oxford.

Part of the bridal party is to embark on the City of Hamburg here Wednesday, while Miss Harrison and two attendants are to embark on the same vessel at Norfolk, Va., the following morning.

Miss Elizabeth Tryon of Haverford, Pa.; Miss Helen B. Houston and Miss Margaret Sims Leffingwell of New York, members of the wedding party, and Miss Elizabeth Pratt of New Bedford, Mass., and Miss Julia M. Marye of Bryn Mawr, Pa., who are making the trip to witness the ceremony, leave from Baltimore.

With Miss Harrison boarding the boat at Norfolk will be Miss Mary Currie Battle of Richmond, also a member of the wedding party, and Miss Margaret Green of Richmond, another of Miss Harrison's friends to witness the ceremony.

They will be joined in England by three other bridesmaids—Miss Sue Thompson of Philadelphia and Paris and two whose homes are in England, Miss Evelyn Hollis of West Byfleet and Miss Ruth Tovey of Cirencester.

The wedding is to take place in the parish church of St. John, Cirencester, with a reception to follow at Miss Tovey's home.

"The Messiah" Goes to Goodman; New Rehearsals Add Smoothness

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"The Messiah" in dramatic form, given a single performance at the Auditorium some weeks ago, has been moved over to the Goodman, where, beginning last night, it will be presented nightly up to and including Friday.

It is much the same performance as before, but, having had the advantage of further rehearsals, moves much more smoothly.

The dramatization was made by Sophia Swanstrom Young. The stage is in charge of Alfred Stury, and Carl Craven is the musical director. A different cast of principals appears each night. That of last night consisted of Flora Waalkes, Kathleen Strain, Ralph Niehaus, and William Phillips, all entirely competent and in several cases better than that. The solo of the angel is divided during the week between Agatha Lewis, who sang it last night, and Zelma Padula. The chorus sings excellently.

A program of war songs will be presented this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the court of the Hall of Science by the Chicago Friends of Music in coöperation with A Century of Progress and under the direction of Anne Faulkner Oberndorfer. Groups from the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, under the direction of Mrs. William T. Pigott, state chairman of music, assisted by men's choruses from the Rotary clubs of metropolitan Chicago under the direction of Frank Bennett, will sing songs of the civil war during the first part. In the second part the American Legion '33 chorus, directed by Samuel Burkholder, will present songs of the world war. Helen Protheroe, soprano, will sing the solos, and Marx E. Oberndorfer will be at the piano. There will be a community sing.

Country Clubs, Opening Today, Give Members Holiday in Open

Most Golf Courses Reserved for Men Until Late Afternoon; Play for Three Cups at Onwentsia.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A DAY in the country after a hectic week-end and a Monday that was truly a blue one because every one was so tired after the week-end is welcomed by all, and country club members are planning to spend the holiday at their clubs, most of which are having their formal openings today. Golf courses in most cases are reserved for men until after 4 o'clock, so ladies who must exercise today will have to take to tennis or swimming or horseback riding.

Although Tuesday is ladies' day at the Onwentsia regularly, they are not to be permitted to tee off until 4 this afternoon, but they probably will be on hand earlier to watch husbands and brothers start off to gain one of the three cups to be played for, the George Alexander McKinlock Memorial cup, the President's cup, and the Onwentsia goblet. Luncheon and dinner will be served today, but there will be no dancing until the regular Thursday night buffet supper dances start June 9.

The Exmoor club follows much the same program as its neighbor to the north, with various golfing events for men and no women allowed on the fairways. The first Saturday night dinner-dance at this popular Highland Park club will be on June 17.

Buffet Luncheon at Indian Hill

The Indian Hill club, which has reserved its golf course for the men, has shown an interest in the woman members to the extent of serving them a buffet luncheon, after which tables for bridge will be set up in the sunny western living rooms—or perhaps on the lovely outside terrace. Maj. Roy B. Nordheimer has arranged a ride for the ladies of the Indian Hill Riding club which starts at 11 in the morning and includes lunching at some quaint spot.

Glenview is not allowing women's golf, either, but there are tournaments from dawn until dusk for the members, with attractive prizes. The regular dinner dances will be given Thursdays this summer, although the first date has not been set. However, tonight is the opening dinner dance of the season, and as is usual for these popular affairs, the reservations have been sent in thick and fast, among them those of Mrs. Frank R. Elliott, Mrs. Scott Brown, Mrs. Cecil F. Elmes, Mrs. David A. Noyes, and Mrs. Janet Hibbard Henneberry. Mrs. Ira J. Couch is giving her usual Memorial day luncheon for a group of women of the club.

Shoreacres is allowing the ladies to play golf and is serving a buffet luncheon. There is to be no regular dancing there this summer—just for special parties.

Saddle and Cycle Will Open Today

Members of the Saddle and Cycle club who do not wish to go to the country will find this quiet club a haven, for today marks its opening in full, swimming pool and tennis courts, and there will be a baseball game among the regulars of Thursdays and Saturdays, among them Ballard Moore, Darrow Fulton, Cyrus Hill, Preston Boyden, John Wentworth, Dr. O. E. Van Alyea, Don Erskine and George Stevenson. There will be no regular dancing at the club this summer.

The Chicago Golf club in Wheaton has a full day of golf for the men—with seven prizes—everything from low net to blind bogey and a choice score 36 hole handicap. A 36-hole putting tournament on the difficult nine-hole putting course is open to women at 3 o'clock, and tonight is the opening dinner dance of the season.

Men will play for the Greens trophy at Knollwood, and the club and pool are open for full service. The first dinner dance will be June 10, and women's golf does not open until Friday of this week.

Flossmoor is serving luncheon and dinner, and is offering a prize to the winner in each class of the 18 hole medal play full handicap tournament. Ladies may play after 3 o'clock. The Memorial Day dance was held last Saturday and there will be dancing on holidays throughout the summer.

The Evanston Golf club also had its opening last Saturday. It is serving a special dinner tonight following the three golf events for men—for the Memorial Day trophy, Memorial Day handicap, and handicap against par. Ladies may play after 2:30.

The South Shore Country club has a full day of golf for the men, with prizes for winners in the usual tournaments and blind bogeys.

The Midlothian Country club has barred ladies and given the entire day to the men's golf events, which include playing for the Ettinger cup and the Board of Directors trophy. There will be an informal dinner dance tonight. Tomorrow is a big day for ladies' golf, and hereafter ladies' day will be Wednesday.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah, who considers him just a hick. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for both of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is grabbed by strong arms. She shoots. Jane reappears. She rushes Dinah away from the scene of their work lying in a pool of blood. Next morning the papers carry the story of the murder of Philip Divine, Broadway playboy, and said there were two bullet wounds. Jane and Dinah saw a tall, dark man with a mustache as they left Philip Divine's house. Jane recognizes Jack Fiske's sterling qualities and tries to bring Dinah and him together. Jane admits to Dinah that she knew Philip Divine before and that she also shot him. Jane goes to the theater with Jack after Dinah refuses him. Dinah has a caller. He introduces himself as Pierre Baron. He is the tall, dark man with the mustache. Dinah promises to have dinner with him next evening. Baron tells Dinah that Divine was secretly married to Jane. Dinah resents his hatred of Jane and doesn't trust Baron. She tells him it was she who shot Divine. Jane confesses to Fiske that she shot Divine and that she'd brought Dinah to his home. Jane's efforts to shield Dinah win Jack's admiration. Jane leaves, not telling Dinah or Jack where she is going. Baron's sister, Jerry, a dancer, calls in search of Jane. She claims to have been married to Divine. She expects to frighten Jane into supporting her claim. Divine's widow will collect an inheritance. She moves in with Dinah.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

BEARING HER DREAD ALONE.

Dinah put on her dressing gown and hurried down the hall to the bathroom. But she was too late this morning. She had to wait until the leisurely Miss Drew had finished her bath, and then she had to dress in great haste. It was a hot morning. Her cold shower left her unrefreshed, she was flushed and nervous.

When at last she was ready, she stood with her hand on the doorknob and called to Jerry in a threatening, unsteady voice:

"You'd better get up!"

But she did not even expect an answer, and got none. Closing the door behind her, she ran down the stairs to the dining room, and there, alone at his table, she saw Jack Fiske.

He rose at the sight of her and came towards her.

"Dinah!" he said, very low. "Hadn't we better——?"

"Don't talk to me?" she answered in a fierce whisper. "It's all your fault!"

"But—what is?"

"You were—just an idiot about that—creature! You were absolutely taken in. You encouraged her!"

"I didn't dare to do anything else."

"There's no use pretending you did not believe her!"

"I never believed one damned word she said," he retorted.

It was the first time she had ever heard him swear and the first time she had even seen him look as he did now—grim, austere, almost haggard.

"Then why didn't you help me to get rid of her?" she demanded.

"Because I thought that, on Jane's account, it was better to let her stay—let her have her own way."

"But what about me?" asked Dinah. "If you knew what a night I'd had with that—wild cat. . . . And I don't know how long she's going to stay or what she's going to do——"

"I'm sorry," said Fiske, and she believed him. He was looking at her with genuine compassion. But it was a brotherly compassion, and when he went on she knew it was for Jane that he was chiefly concerned.

"How much do you think that girl—knows?" he asked.

"Everything," Dinah answered briefly. "She even knows what I was wearing. I don't know whether she saw us—or whether Pierre Baron told her."

"She knows him?"

"He's her brother!"

Fiske was silent for a moment.

"That makes it a little more complicated," he said presently. "But I thought, from the start, that she knew—altogether too much. The way I work it out is this. She knew what happened, and she thought that if she claimed to be Divine's wife Jane wouldn't dare to deny it. I guess she thought she could even blackmail Jane into supporting her claim. Of course, she wouldn't have succeeded."

"Why?" asked Dinah.

"Because Jane's not like that," he said, and the absolute simplicity of his trust brought tears to Dinah's eyes.

"I'd give anything in the world if any one could ever feel like that about me," she thought.

"You see," he went on, "I'd been talking to Jane before you came home. She told me then that she'd married that—fellow. She never said one word against him, but I could see. . . . She told me she'd made up her mind—before this—this thing happened—that if she could help it the marriage was never going to be made known. She realized she'd made a mistake. That's the way she put it. But you could see, from what little she said, that she'd tried—to make a success of the thing—and couldn't. She was sorry, very sorry, that Divine was dead. But she'd stopped caring for him long before that." He paused a moment. "And when you read in the paper what sort of fellow he was——!" he cried. "And when you realize what she is. . . . How fastidious and honorable and fine she is——"

He stopped as Mrs. Cotter came into the room.

"Good morning, Mr. Fiske!" said she. "Good morning, Miss Allen! I was wondering where on earth Miss Rosslyn was. I didn't see her come down—and it's late. I do hope she's not ill."

Without the least preparation Dinah found herself ready with a plausible and fluent answer.

"She asked me to tell you, Mrs. Cotter. She had a message last night from a friend out of town who'd had a bad motoring accident and wanted Jane to go out there. And this friend's younger sister's come here for a while. With a trained nurse in the house, there wasn't room for her."

"Come here?" said Mrs. Cotter. "Well, I suppose she'll be down to breakfast in a few moments."

"I don't think so," said Dinah. "You see, she's on the stage—" Mrs. Cotter's face changed; she did not like that. "And she doesn't have to get up early."

"My girl's got to get her work done, just the same," said Mrs. Cotter. "She's supposed to do your room at ten o'clock."

Then it occurred to Dinah that, although she was obliged to endure more than enough from that pantherine girl, there was no need to make things easy for her.

"I really don't know much about her," she said, with one of her innocent looks. "Jane doesn't, either. It was just to oblige this friend of Jane's that we let her come here. I don't even remember what name she uses——"

"Why doesn't she use her right name?" Mrs. Cotter demanded.

"It wouldn't do on the stage," said Dinah, and was surely inspired. "You see, her real name is—Bowzenbock. Gussie Bowzenbock."

"Bowzenbock. . . ." Mrs. Cotter repeated. "Very well!"

As she moved toward her table Dinah looked back over her shoulder at Fiske. He had heard her conversation with Mrs. Cotter and now, as their eyes met, he could not suppress a wide grin.

She had no time for a decent breakfast; as it was, she was late in reaching the office.

"If any one says one single word to me about it——!" she thought. "When it's the first time in months—and after the night I had—and all that's tormenting me. . . ."

It was fortunate that no one reproached her, for she was ready to make a furious retort. Patience was a virtue she had not yet learned; her anxiety and misery galled her, as the first touch of the bridle galls an unbroken horse. She wanted to fling them off, to trample on them; she could do anything but passively endure.

She had never suffered before, and now it was as if all possible emotions had come together to oppress and confuse her. Chief among them was her remorse and sorrow for the death of Philip Divine. From what she had read in the newspapers, from what Baron had said, from Jane's few words, she was forced to see him as a man without steadfastness, a waster, a profligate. But that made no difference to her. Her moral code was right, yet Divine was to be forgiven everything because he had been young and had died dreadfully.

With her remorse and grief went a continual fear of arrest and questioning, of prison, public disgrace. And it was a hundredfold worse now because she had to bear all her dread alone. Jane, her faithful friend, had gone. Young Fiske, who might have helped her so much, had, in effect, deserted her. She was sure that he would do anything she asked of him, but he would do it either for Jane's sake or because he was kind hearted and chivalrous and ready to help any woman in distress. And though that was surely admirable, it was chilly comfort for one like Dinah.

Her thoughts went back again and again to Pierre Baron.

"Of course, he didn't mean one single thing he said," she thought. "He was just as false and deceitful as any one could be. He must have sent Jerry to blackmail Jane. He's her brother—and that's enough. No one but a cruel, underhand—beast could be the brother of that devil."

Strawberries, Crackers Make Luscious Pie

BY MARY MEADE.

According to Indian traditions, strawberries started in as peacemakers about the time that the first man and woman had the first official tiff. The Great Spirit, so goes the tale, in a final attempt to get the lady to stay with her man, planted some luscious clusters of red berries beneath her incensed nose. Before she knew it she was wondering just how the first man would like them for breakfast. She stooped and picked some for him, whereupon they made up and lived happily ever after!

Perhaps that is stretching the point a bit, but certainly unless the Best Man is practically a hopeless case a great juicy wedge of crispy crust and fat red berries with whipped cream on top will make up for all the sorrows of life.

But—here comes the rub! How many pies have never been made because of the cook's favorite inhibition—pie crust? And so lest another great inspiration give way to apple sauce may I suggest something not new, but still too little known about—graham cracker pie crust? And into it we will turn something "quite other."

MAGIC STRAWBERRY PIE.

Crust.

1 dozen large size graham crackers
1 tablespoon sugar
5 level tablespoons softened butter

Filling.

1 can sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup sliced red strawberries
½ cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Crush the crackers to fine crumbs with a rolling pin and then mix thoroughly with the sugar and softened butter. Pat into a buttered pie plate against the sides and bottom and bake for ten minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees F.). Let cool. Meanwhile combine the condensed milk and the lemon juice. The acid will disguise the condensed flavor and will almost immediately thicken the milk. Fold in the sliced strawberries and turn into the waiting cracker crust. Chill till firm. Just before serving whip the cream, add the powdered sugar and vanilla, and spread over the pie. Serve in wedges. It's great!

But if your soul yearns for small tartlets as retainers for your strawberries, try this manner of presenting them:

FRESH STRAWBERRY TARTLETS.

1 cup sugar
4 cups washed and hulled strawberries
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup boiling water
8 individual tart shells

Here you have enough tart filling to take care of company. So if there are less of you, better cut it down a bit. Simply add the sugar to the strawberries and let them stand in it for an hour. Meanwhile prepare, bake, and cool the shells. Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water. At the end of the hour pour the dissolved gelatin over the strawberries and chill till partially thickened, stirring often. Now whip the cream and add to it four or five tablespoons of the gelatin mixture, beating this in well. Spread a layer of this in the bottom of each shell. Add next a layer of the strawberries lifted out of the gelatin. Top each tart with some of the remaining gelatin mixture and a final swirl of the whipped cream mixture. Chill half an hour longer and serve with one large red strawberry mounted on top of each tart.

Mothering Your Mate's Unwise, States Writer

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Better not go around talking or acting as if your husband were just a big boy needing a mamma to look after him! Not in Mary Borden's presence, anyway. Mrs. Borden is a well known writer whose views on marriage are being presented in a current monthly, and what she thinks about the mothering wife would require an S in front of the mothering to describe. Smothering, in other words.

That's going to hurt the feelings of a number of wives who love to mother, and talk about it! Personally, we're not in full accord with Mrs. Borden. We've seen them mothered pretty successfully for the wife.

It's because he is such a baby—a very big, bony, hairy baby, as Mrs. Borden calls hers—that the business of babying the man is all wrong.

Well, there is the danger that said husband will cease resembling a husband and take on the aspect of one more child in the family. If the man is to be kept as husband, master, lover, or friend he can't be babied. O, when he is ill you may indulge the mothering instinct all you want. But if he's to remain an upright and stalwart male let him remain planted solidly on his own two dignified feet, is Mrs. Borden's advice.

The danger of the mothering process lies in the encouragement of weaknesses the male may possess. Also, too much indulgence only serves to bring out the man's worst qualities.

sung by Mme. Claire Dux, the brilliant climax of the three day Brahms festival, there won't be a more interested or enthusiastic couple than Prof. and Mrs. Hans Kaulbach. Mrs. Kaulbach is a sister of Mme. Dux [Mrs. Charles H. Swift in private life], and a most enthusiastic admirer of her artistic talent.

After the program Prof. and Mrs. Kaulbach will move on to the reception that Dr. and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins are giving for Mrs. Swift at their Midway home. More than 200 invitations ahve been issued for this party.

Prof. and Mrs. Kaulbach have come to Chicago from Vienna to see the Fair. They will be here for several weeks and then will tour this country before returning to Austria, where Prof. Kaulbach teaches philosophy at the University of Vienna.

Julie Forgan's Marriage Speeded for Business Trip.

A sudden business trip was responsible for the unexpected marriage of Miss Julie Forgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Forgan, of Rye, N. Y., to William Sayer Woodhull Jr., son of the William S. Woodhulls of West Orange, N. Y., May 20 in Rye.

"Mr. Woodhull was called away on business," Mrs. James B. Forgan, Julie's grandmother, and one of our most charming dowagers, explained yesterday, "so Julie decided to make her wedding a very quick and quiet affair."

Only the immediate families heard the service read in the long drawing room of the Forgans' Dogwood Lane home, but among them were Julie's three Chicago cousins—Miss Betty Forgan, daughter of the Robert D. Forgans of Highland Park; Miss Louise Forgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan of Lake Forest, who is now a student at Farmington, and Miss Dorothy Ott, whose father is John Nash Ott of Winnetka.

The new Mrs. Woodhull, it will be remembered, was presented to Chicago society Christmas eve of 1931 at a dinner dance given by her grandmother, the senior Mrs. James B. Forgan, at the Casino.

Mrs. Forgan hopes soon to see her granddaughter and her new grandson, for she is leaving late in June to spend the summer at Harbor Point. With her during the hot months will be another granddaughter and her husband and their baby, the Thomas Kemps of Cambridge, Mass. Mr. Kemp is a student in the Harvard law school.

The junior Mrs. James Forgan left Lake Forest last Saturday for a short visit in the east. She will return in a fortnight with Louise and her other daughter, Mary, who is at Miss Wheeler's school.

Thomas G. Winters Arrive Tomorrow on Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton L. Ames are anticipating the arrival tomorrow of Mrs. Ames' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Pasadena. It has been years since Mr. and Mrs. Winter have been east, so the Ameses are looking forward to the visit as a real reunion.

Mrs. Winter, a past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is coming especially to open the Century of Progress program of the Chicago Woman's club Friday in the court of honor of the Hall of Science. At 11 o'clock she is to speak on "Women in the Movies," after which Judith Waller will discuss "Women and the Radio."

At a luncheon given by Mrs. Ozora S. Davis, the new president of the Chicago club, following the lectures, Mrs. Winter, Mrs. Ames, and Miss Waller are to be special guests. This party will be held in the dining room of the club on East 11th street.

Young Lake Foresters Rehearsing for Play.

Richard Taylor, the young son of the Wayne Chatfield Taylors, is spending hours every day drilling before his mirror with a gun that is almost twice as big as himself. He is one of the important members of the cast of the children's play, "Mahltable and Rags," which is to be produced Friday by the pupils of the Bell school in Lake Forest.

Margaret Joyce Heiss, who teaches the second grade at the school, is the author of the play, which combines humor and sophistication so delightfully that adults as well as juniors are going to enjoy the performance. Ermont Wilson is responsible for the music.

Anne Porter, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III., Sheila Kelley, daughter of the L. Thomas Kelleys, and Marian Peter, daughter of the William F. Peters, share honors in the leading rôles. Then there is John Jelke, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jelke Jr., who makes an impress... captain of the tin soldier unit, and David Hotz, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hotz, and Young Alexander Revell, who might easily be mistaken for West Pointers in miniature. Others who help to make up a formidable and well drilled army are David Jaicks, Pierce McCreary, Larry Smith, Don Strotz, Jack Wheeler, Taylor Strawn, Childs Pullman, Nelson Morris, Phelps Swift, George Manierre, Berto Niblack, and David Armour.

The feminine chorus of future Junior League players is composed of Nancy Buchanan, Ginevra Mitchell, Marion Phelps, Sandra Strotz, Mary Clare Seaverns, Marguerite Norris, Mary Evans, Elizabeth Hubbard, Jere Manierre, Lillian Montogomery, Barbara, Strawn, Lucia Winston, and Louise Young.

Joseph P. Nash, the school art director, is responsible for the scenery as well as the soldier uniforms of canary yellow and black.

Three Chicago Girls Wellesley Superlatives

Three Chicago students at Wellesley were voted superlative yesterday in the senior class balloting for the best in studies, personality, and various campus activities. To Miss Anne Steinbrecher goes the distinction of being judged the "most literary" in the eyes of her classmates. The vote classed Miss Elizabeth Peltzsch as the "best dancer," and Miss Margaret Bromell as the senior who will make the "best wife and mother." Miss Jane Griswold of Coatesville, Pa., the senior class president, was voted the most gracious and typical Wellesley senior, while Miss Elsberth Reuter of Milwaukee was named the "most sophisticated." Commencement exercises are to be held at Wellesley June 19.

Two young Evanston attorneys are receiving congratulations these days on the future barristers who have arrived in their households. One of them is John R. Montgomery Jr., the proud father of William Adam Montgomery, born May 22. The other, Bernard A. Schroeder, who became the father of a nine and a half pound son May 25. Both of the babies and their mothers are doing nicely.

Mrs. Bertram Winston Coming Home June 1.

Mrs. Bertram Winston and her daughter, Miss Muriel Winston, who spent the winter in Miami and are now in New York, will arrive at home Thursday or Friday.

Gone for a whole year will be Mrs. Winterbotham Buchanan and her two children, Katharine and Thompson Jr., when they sail for Europe next month. They will motor through southern France and perhaps Italy during the summer and in September they will go to England, where Katharine will enter Cheltenham college, a boarding school for girls, and Thompson will attend a day school. Mrs. Buchanan will take a house in London or the country for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon have arrived home from Arizona and are staying in their town apartment until the Francis Peabody Butlers move out of their Lake Forest house, which they have been occupying in the McCutcheons' absence.

Before James Minotto could return to Arizona he was taken quite ill and has been in Billings Memorial hospital, where he will remain for the next two weeks. Then he will have to recuperate a bit before the long journey to the Minotto ranch at Kirkland, Ariz., so he will be in town until the middle of June. When he returns from the ranch Aug. 1 for the rodeo, Mrs. Minotto and the children, "Mitri" and Idamay, will be with him and they will all stay in Lake Forest while here.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Miller and Miss Lucy Miller moved out to the cottage they have taken for the summer on the grounds of the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Heap, Mr. and Mrs. Loring W. Coleman, Arthur Meeker Jr., and Miss Emily Larned are a few of those who are planning to attend and to entertain guests at the Cellophane ball being given at the Drake tomorrow night for Miss Lillian Anderson, the Queen of the World's Fair, and her fifty maids of honor. Silver and blue is the color scheme for the decorations of what promises to be one of the most spectacular affairs of the early World's Fair season.

Face Masks Are Back Again in Women's Favor

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Funny how we're delving away back into the past for some of our most popular beauty remedies. In nothing is this so marked of recent days as in the revival of face masks and packs as a boudoir occupation. Heaven only knows when women first began digging clay, with mineral salts, for a facial treatment—but it was long before your time, or my time, and Cleopatra's, if you believe what's written into the records.

Maybe Eve, between bites, was rooting around at the foot of the apple tree for some of the stuff of which masks are made. Any way, it was eons ago that women got the habit of thus revamping themselves for a religious ceremony or decorative occasion. The cosmetic value of certain pastes applied to the skin in time became household lore.

*

I might explain that there is no difference between a face mask and a face pack. They represent practically the same product.

Dr. Walter Langer, well known skin authority, tells in a current trade periodical the purpose of a face mask. "The purpose of a face mask," says the physician, "is to cause an increase of blood circulation, removal of superfluous oily skin secretions, reduction of the strained activities of the sebaceous glands, and contraction of the pores. The masks must be easy to apply and easy to remove. The effect of the mask is a cleaner, rosier, revived, refined skin, reduced pores, a well groomed skin and a refreshing sensation."

*

Dr. Langer sees in the face mask the advantage of eliminating any kind of manipulation. He argues that massage is inadvisable when performed without the knowledge of the facial structure. A good mask, he believes, should reduce the pores.

Glycerine, he contends, should never be used in a face mask, nor oils, except for a very small percentage. Petrolatum, gums, or alkalies should be absent, also caustic astringents such as zinc chloride must not appear in a face mask product.

The "tingling" sensation experienced after the mask has been on for a time indicates increased circulation and as the tingling wears off the tightening sensation increases.

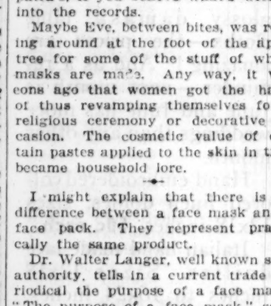
"Tulip Wreath" New but Popular Quilt Pattern



Tulip Wreath.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Tulip Wreath" is relatively a newcomer to the tulip family and growing in popularity daily. It is an appliqued design and an easy one to make. Its charm lies in its originality and simplicity, and in the opportunity it presents for clever color combinations.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Ham and Eggs Served at First Fair Luncheon

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick Tells Kitchen Secrets.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Luncheon, believes Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, can be simple, inexpensive, within calory confines and yet attractive and appetizing. She proved her idea yesterday when she was hostess at the first of a series of A Century of Progress luncheons in the cool, restful basement restaurant of the Art institute.

Wearing a blue and white chrysanthemum print dress that was as fresh as the table over which she presided, Mrs. McCormick received her guests at 12:30. She was delighted at their promptness, for this, in her estimation, is one of the secrets of a successful luncheon or dinner party. Then they proceeded to enjoy scrambled eggs, deviled ham, and hot muffins from the house of McCormick and discuss World's Fair highlights.

"The idea back of these luncheons is hospitality," Mrs. McCormick volunteered. "We want all of the city's World's Fair visitors to see the history making art exhibit that has been assembled here in the institute and we want them to enjoy this dining room, too."

The wives of the institute trustees and officers intend to make the luncheons in the Mather hall restaurant so attractive that visitors cannot resist them. And they have voted to do it three times a week by assembling a distinguished array of guests and offering a menu that includes favorite dishes from their own households. Then, too, they are adding the new South Sea island murals done by institute students.

Yesterday Mr. McCormick was so intrigued with the luncheon idea that he came to be one of his wife's seven guests. The others at the long gingham checked table in the center of the dining room were Mr. and Mrs. F. Louis Slade, just arrived from New York [Mrs. Slade is Mrs. McCormick's sister], Shepard Vogelgesang, the director of lighting for A Century of Progress Exposition; Lloyd Griffin, an official broadcaster for the Fair; Dudley Crafts Watson, and Mrs. Donald B. Ryerson, who was assisting Mrs. McCormick as hostess.

*

Highlight of the menu was the serving dish of scrambled eggs and deviled ham. It is one of Mr. McCormick's favorite dishes, that is when prepared according to the McCormick recipe. This calls for 3 eggs, ¼ cup of milk, 2 tablespoons of butter, ½ teaspoon of salt, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper, and a heaping teaspoon of deviled Virginia ham. It must be Virginia.

"Beat the eggs slightly," said Mrs. McCormick when her guests asked her for seconds yesterday. "Be sure to use a silver fork. Then add the salt, pepper and milk. Heat the pan, put in the butter and when melted put in the egg mixture. Cook until a creamy consistency, stirring and scraping from the sides and bottom of the pan. Finally stir in the Virginia ham."

Mrs. McCormick supplemented the dish yesterday with a tomato juice cocktail, a combination salad, muffins, and iced coffee. On Wednesday when Mrs. John Paul Welling assists Mrs. McCormick the menu will be Art institute salad, which is served religiously at the Wheaton country house of the McCormick, lamb chops, and currant jelly. And on Friday of this week with Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., Mrs. McCormick will offer her guests lake trout sauté with creole sauce. This is one of her very special dishes.

Other wives of institute trustees and officers who are testing their recipes for service one of these days soon are Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, and Mrs. Frank G. Logan.

Breasted Trip Bares Aqueduct of Stone Age Era

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Prof. James H. Breasted, head of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago, returned today on the Europa from a ten-week tour of the near east. His trip included a 5,000-mile flight over Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Persia, and the sites of ancient ruins in western Asia, where the institute is conducting excavations that have resulted in the discovery of valuable antiquities, including thousands of cuneiform tablets in the Elamite language.

"The latest discovery," said Prof. Breasted, "which I do not think has been mentioned in the dispatches to America, is the unearthing of the aqueduct near Nineveh that supplied Persepolis, the ancient capital of Persia, with water in the time of the emperors Darius and Xerxes, nearly 800 years before Christ.

"The water comes from a spring near the top of the hill that was used by the people who lived there in the stone age of 50000 B. C.

"The aqueduct is about eighty feet wide and built of limestone. It was carried a thousand feet across a river on pillars on which were sculptured interesting information concerning early Assyrian history."

The aqueduct was found by Dr. T. Jacobsen.

Good Morning!

Tch! Tch! Tch! Such a title!

Well, the picture's not so bad. Has several unusual plot situations and some capable acting, and is entertaining as a whole.

The hero is a newspaper man who detects better than he reports. For a wonder, the producers do not wish perpetual inebriation on this news hound. They content themselves with merely making him an utter cad—and Gertie James, who wrote the story, conceived the bright idea of having the gentleman try to pin a crime upon the heroine instead of helping the lady. Reason? Why, the gal had turned him down. Honorable marriage he'd offered her, too! Upon her refusal he had snarled words to the effect that he, Lawson Rolt, like unto the parrot and the elephant, never forgot an affront. And so, to the dirty work. . . .

The heroine has a twin, to complicate matters.

Rolfe Harolde does the reporter skillfully. He has a sort of Mephistophelian phiz that goes well with the rôle. Thelma Todd, looking charming, plays pleasantly but unremarkably her double rôle of sister and sister. Milton Wallis is interesting as a night club manager and theatrical agent of sorts, and it was nice to see Inez Courtney and Mae Busch again. Miss Courtney has a most intriguing personality—she always makes me think of Sally Eilers. Can't understand why she hasn't gone ahead faster.

Photography and staging are all right. Dialogue could have been snappier. But "Cheating Blondes" really gets by in pretty fair shape. Title's its black eye.

See you soon.

Tells Low Cost of Smart Togs Society Wears

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

"That stunning tweed coat is a $17.50 one and that lovely brown silk suit is a $12.75 model," said our companion at Mrs. Ford Rodman Carter's gala fashion showing at the Pabst Blue Ribbon Casino yesterday afternoon, but she wasn't speaking of any of the stunning clothes displayed by the pulchritudinous young ladies on the runway, but of the coat worn by Mrs. R—— of Lake Forest and of the suit of Mrs. T—— of Lake Shore drive.

Needless to say, our companion is interested in clothes in a professional way and we were more interested to hear her comments on the costumes of the society women in the audience than those she made about the fashion showing.

*

The showing, however, was stunning and was received enthusiastically by the large crowd assembled to see it, and afterward Mrs. Carter was besieged by her friends offering congratulations on the success of her venture. About half the audience were men and it looked as if many La Salle street brokers had adjourned to the Casino after the close of the Stock exchange, but we won't publish the names of the men who were there without their wives!

Some of the many socialites who visited the Fair yesterday to see Mrs. Carter's showing, which included not only modern styles but those for a bride, her bridesmaids and her mother in 1899, were Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. William A. Yager, Mrs. Hayden B. Harris and her guest, Mrs. William Breckinridge of Pasadena; Mrs. E. Harris Brewer and her daughter, Mrs. Herbert McLaughlin; Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., Mrs. Frank Hibbard, and Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin, smart in an aquamarine wool outfit, gown, and short cape, and a felt hat the same color.

*

Others were Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. Perry H. Kenly, Mrs. James Norris, Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. Stuart Logan, Miss Ann Small, and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, perfectly groomed as always in a white linen suit with a pale blue blouse and a fairly wide brimmed leghorn hat with a blue velvet ribbon band.

The fashion shows are to be given daily at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., with two shows nightly.

Various Phases of Childhood Quickly Pass

Maturity Comes in Its Own Time.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We were talking yesterday about the changes that come in children's behavior and how we must get used to the idea and accommodate our handling of them to each new phase. That is, we must be flexible and not expect such things as baby docility to last forever.

Now, in contrast to the mother who frets because her child changes and behaves less obediently and uses big, rough words, is the mother [and father, too] who worries because her or his child doesn't change.

This impatience for changes in behavior usually occurs when the boys and girls are older.

"He's still crazy about electric trains," said a mother the other day, "but his friend has no interest in his any more. My son seems so little boyish about it, so immature."

She need not worry. Some winter, quite suddenly, she'll find that he'll even forget he has electric trains. He will have outgrown them in his turn.

*

We need to wait—for nature. All boys and girls don't grow up at an equal pace. Some mature faster than others. But some parents can't wait for nature.

Take this matter of pride in their appearance. When are they going to care about their looks—their fingernails—the shine on their shoes? Mothers long for this change to come. It will—if they'll only wait.

And there's silliness—at least, what we call silliness.

"When is the silly phase ever going to pass?" This is another fret of many parents. And some even go so far as to look with distaste upon the faces and antics of their half grown children not knowing, if this is their only child, that he will change soon enough.

*

Anyhow, and this is a parenthesis, I think parents should be much more tolerant of silliness at any age in children. I once saw a little girl come into a room where a lot of men and women were laughing and full of nonsense. She stood and looked and looked—evidently puzzled. She saw nothing to laugh at. For a flash I thought, "Perhaps we look silly to her. We aren't, really. When we call children silly, they aren't really silly, either. Silliness is just a point of view."

What we call silliness is all part of the picture. Let's accept the changing panorama of behavior, wait for nature to bring about changes, and adapt our management to the children's needs and to the changes when they do come.

Our "Patience" booklet deals with this subject. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE HUNTING TRAGEDY.

"Here's what I've learned so far, Prof. Fordney," said Sheriff Williams. "James Rolph, Robert Smith, and J. L. Weatherby, three well known business men, were on a hunting trip in an isolated part of the county. Smith says that after hunting together yesterday morning, without much luck, the three separated shortly before noon. Smith claimed he started alone for the lodge where they were staying, around 3 p. m., and about a hundred yards from it stumbled across the dead body of Rolph lying a few yards off the path—a knife in his heart! He further claims that he partly pulled the knife from the wound before realizing he shouldn't disturb the body.

"Weatherby confirms Smith's statement about the time the three men separated and declares that as he approached the lodge about four o'clock, by a different route, he saw Smith bending over Rolph's body. He told me that Rolph had several times recently threatened to commit suicide.

"The coroner's physician," continued the sheriff, "says the man probably died between one and two o'clock."

"Do you feel confident, from your investigations, that Rolph was killed where his body was found?" interrupted Fordney.

"All indications point that way."

"No fingerprints on the knife, I suppose?"

"O, yes—Smith's were. No others."

"What about the alibis of Smith and Weatherby?" inquired the professor, after a pause.

"Impossible to check them," was the reply.

"H'm-m-m. Well, sheriff, suicide, I think, you can rule out!"

WHY DID FORDNEY BELIEVE ROLPH HAD BEEN MURDERED?

500 MILE AUTO DERBY TODAY: 42 TO START

SIMMONS INCREASES LEAD OVER RUTH IN POLL

BABE TRAILS IN FIRST RETURNS FROM NEW YORK

Urge M'Graw, Mack to Pilot Teams.

BY ARCH WARD.

Al Simmons is pulling away from Babe Ruth as the American league's outstanding fielder. More than 50,000 votes have been cast in the nationwide poll to determine the league's lineup for the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6, and the White Sox star has a lead of 1,557.

JOHN McGRAW.

Today's standings include early returns from New York, which showed Simmons running slightly ahead of the great Babe in the latter's home territory. Votes from Detroit, which also appear for the first time in today's poll, give Simmons an edge. Boston, the city where Ruth got his start in major league baseball, went for the Babe by a slim margin.

Grove Pronounced Favorite.

Lefty Grove of the Athletics is a pronounced favorite among American league pitchers. Gomez of the Yankees is running second and Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland has passed his teammate, Oral Hildebrand, for third place. Ted Lyons of the White Sox is fifth. Aside from Grove, the vote is so close that it will be impossible to tell who will be the league's three pitchers for several days.

Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox is holding his early lead for the third base job. His closest rival is Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics, who also is in second place for first base. Charles Gehringer of Detroit has managed to keep in front of Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees. Neither Dykes nor Gehringer is a certainty.

Coast Returns Awaited.

Today's standings are based on returns from the east, south, and central states. We still have to hear from the far west, where newspapers in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Spokane, Phoenix, and other cities are conducting ballots.

The suggestion from George Gibson, manager of the Pirates, that Connie Mack and John McGraw be drafted to manage the teams which will play in the greatest game of all time is gaining momentum daily.

William Harridge, president of the American league, has received numerous requests for the appointment of Mack. THE TRIBUNE has received hundreds of letters bearing the same message. Mr. Harridge probably will not make a selection for two or three weeks.

National Picks Leader June 20.

President Heydler will take up the matter of a National league manager at the league's regular meeting in New York June 20. Several men influential in baseball, among them Charles Stoneham of the Giants, have urged Heydler to appoint McGraw.

McGraw, for a quarter of a century the most dynamic leader in baseball, resigned as manager of the Giants last summer in favor of Bill Terry, the present pilot. He still is vice president of the New York club.

McGraw and Mack are the most successful managers in baseball history, at least in popular estimation. The game at Comiskey park on July 6 will be by its very nature the greatest attraction the sport has known. It would be only fitting that the two leaders who are universally rated baseball's greatest should direct the teams.

A'S DECIDE TO USE GROVE ONLY IN RELIEF ROLE

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—(AP)—Lefty Grove, Athletics' star, is going to be used solely as a relief pitcher. For the immediate future, at least, Grove's duties will consist only of holding the opposition in the closing innings. He won't get a chance to start a game.

Announcement of this surprise plan was made today by Manager Connie Mack.

"We only have pitchers who can go six or seven innings, so we'll have to have somebody who can go in and hold the other fellows for the last few innings," Mack explained.

"It's the only way I know that we can stay up in the race.

"Until the rest of the pitchers prove to me they can go the full distance I'm going to hold Grove back and shoot him in there to save games for us."

Grove finished six of the last eight games played by the Athletics, winning three and saving the other three. The two games he did not participate in the team lost.

SOX, CLEVELAND PLAY TWIN BILL; SULLIVAN AT 1ST

Fonseca Drops Out to Rest Injured Leg.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox will show a slight alteration this afternoon when they return to their own back yard in a double header with the Cleveland Indians, but the change will not be the result of any bruises received while the Yanks were mauling them in the week-end series at New York.

Manager Lew Fonseca has decided that the leg injury which up to about a week ago had kept him in idleness for a month requires additional rest. He'll start getting it this afternoon, meanwhile leaving the first base duties to Billy Sullivan of the 1933 Notre Dame law class. The budding barrister played there at various times last season.

Billy Jr. reported only last Saturday making the trip to New York and back for nothing more extensive than one appearance as a pinch hitter, but he put in a month of work with the Notre Dame candidates, so is physically able to take over a regular job.

Lew Has to Give Up.

Fonseca, after playing a week, discovered that about six innings was all he could take without being overcome by that tired feeling. Despite this, he staggered through four full games. However, in the first half of the unhappy double header at New York Sunday the tired feeling turned to pain, and the pain was still present when the team rolled back into town yesterday afternoon. Hence the decision to confine himself to master-minding on the bench for a few days at least.

The Indians, who should be a bit punch drunk from the beatings they assimilated down east, will have to look at Paul Gregory and Ed Durham in today's holiday bill. Gregory was the only member of the staff able to win two games during the jaunt through the eastern half of the circuit. He whipped both the Senators and Yankees, although Red Faber had to assist him in the latter achievement. Durham registered one win, his victims being the Athletics. Faber also acted as rescuer in this affair. Wes Ferrell and George Connally are expected to be the Indian starters.

It Could Have Been Worse.

The eastern trip, although given a black eye by the loss of the last three of a four game series with the Yankees, was satisfactory to all except those who expected too much. Had the Sox broken even with the world champions they would have had a record of six wins and five losses. It would have been that way if it hadn't been for the succession of unlucky happenings that let 12 Yanks score in the eighth inning last Saturday when the Sox had an eight run lead. To break even with the four eastern clubs, three of which are powerful on their own grounds, requires skill.

What makes the situation look promising for the Sox, at least so far as the first division is concerned, is that their pitching should improve.

Today's first game will start at 1:30 o'clock.

How They're Voting on American League Stars

The baseball fans of the nation will decide who will play in the game of the century at Comiskey park July 6. Fifty-five newspapers in all sections of the United States have invited fans to help pick the National and American leagues' greatest players.

The Tribune is offering $500 in cash prizes to the fans who come closest to naming the teams. The first award of $250 will go to the person who comes closest to naming the starting lineups [batting order] and the three pitchers for each team in the order they work. The fan who selects the National league's starting lineup with starting pitcher will receive $100. A similar prize will be presented for the American league team. Fifty $1 prizes will be distributed among the fans who can name the six pitchers.

In case more than the allotted number qualify for the awards, the prizes will go to those whose selections reach The Tribune first.

Dan O'Leary, Long Distance Walker, Dies at Age of 92

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Dan O'Leary, who gained world renown as a pedestrian, has walked the last mile of the way. He died at a little hotel here today, a month short of ninety-two years. Life ebbed away as he said it would.

"When the time comes," O'Leary often told friends, "the works will just wear out and that will be all."

He had expected to live to be 120 years old. Doctors said he died of hardening of the arteries.

Lived in Chicago.

O'Leary, who spent the greater part of his life in Chicago, made walking his life vocation. He first commanded international attention in 1875 when he defeated Edward Payson Weston, then recognized world's champion, in a six day race at Chicago.

His distance was 503 miles, against 451½ for the champion. Later they met again in London, with O'Leary increasing his distance to 520 miles, against 500 for Weston. Three years ago Weston died.

O'Leary's greatest goal had not been reached when he died. It was his ambition in later years to walk to each state capitol and receive the seal from the governor. He had collected forty-one of these seals. North and South Dakota, North and South Carolina, Oregon, Washington and Montana were not included on the list.

Born in Ireland.

Born in Cork, Ireland, June 29, 1841, he came to the United States in 1864 and made Chicago his home. In later years he spent his winters in southern California.

The veteran pedestrian estimated he had walked more than 350,000 miles when he retired from the sport in 1932 because of a tumor on one hip. From 1875 to that time he had celebrated each birthday anniversary with a hundred mile hike.

He used to pick up money at baseball games in southern California, heeling and toeing it around the bases six times in less than five minutes.

"I used to do twelve in ten minutes," he would say, "and I'll have you know I'm walking six times around because the price of everything has gone up and I'm selling my product in small packages. I could do twelve now if I wanted to."

O'Leary believed in a simple mode of living. He ate breakfast at 5 a. m., luncheon at 10 a. m., and supper at 5:30 p. m. He never retired later than nine o'clock. His diet was simple, with apples and grapes his luxury. He said he never took medicine.

LIGHTNING KILLS FRESHMAN BALL PLAYER; STUNS 2

State College, Pa., May 29.—(AP)—A bolt of lightning today killed one member of the Pennsylvania State college freshman baseball team and stunned two as they were warming up for a game.

Charles Edward Lee, 18, of Lock Haven, was killed. Penrose R. Miller of Manchester and Harvey A. Larson of Wilcox, the other victims, were reported tonight to be resting comfortably at the college infirmary.

The men were in the outfield preparing for a practice game with the varsity.

MR. BARTELSTEIN WHISPERS 'RUN!' HIS HORSES DO

Cog-Air Wins, Then Along Comes Cold Check.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Abraham Bartelstein of Chicago's great west side stood about 9,000 racegoers on their heads at Washington Park yesterday when he turned a few of his California trained steeds loose, whispered in their ears, and told them to run fast and far.

That's what they did.

Cog-Air was the first one. He got up to beat Gibby's Choice and Sad Knight in a thrilling neck and neck finish. Cog-Air paid $8.66.

Fires Again in Fifth Race.

But Mr. Bartelstein had not started firing with both barrels. He waited until the running of the Cottage Grove purse, which came fifth on the program, to discharge the big blast.

He sent a nag called Cold Check into the race in which Sobieha was a red hot favorite and in which Portcodine and Mad Wind were also heavily backed. The folks at the track looked over the program, and only because Cold Check's name was printed there did they know there was such a horse living.

But Mr. Abraham Bartelstein knew differently. He backed his steed with considerable confidence, although he was at tall odds in the wagering.

Came the start.

Cold Check Off Slowly.

Sobieha popped out in front, Portcodine was running second, Rubio was chasing along in third place. The despised long shot and outsider Cold Check was way back in tenth place in the ten horse race.

On the turn the positions had not changed materially, although that horse Cold Check began to run like a scared jack rabbit from Kansas. He was eating up the ground and running past horses so fast he had 'em all dizzy.

The roar of Mr. Bartelstein's gun could be heard by this time. Cold Check came on and on. He had 'em all whipped but Rubio forty strides from the finish.

Then he dashed on up with Rubio, fought him a stubborn battle for twenty strides, and had his nose in front when it came time to pay off.

Just Read Payoff Figures!

Cold Check ran the six furlongs in 1:13 3-5. It was fast time for this kind of horses. Next came the big news, the news that sent Mr. Abraham Bartelstein cake walking over across the infield to caress each of his noble colorbearers, for Cold Check in the mutuels had paid $112.66 to win, $30.68 to place, and $21.45 to show. Rubio's place price was $6.84 and he was at $6.00 to show. Chokoloskee, which finished third, paid $10.50 to show.

The long shot players were in their glee, for this was the longest priced horse to win since the Washington Park season opened. Mr. Bartelstein and his friends from the west side still were celebrating at a late hour last night. And why shouldn't they?

Polydorus Just Misses.

The same Bartelstein nearly made it a triple victory for the afternoon when his aged sprinter, Polydorus, was beaten only a nose and a head for all the money in the Century of Progress purse, which was the best race on the program.

It was Jack Howard's Lady Ebony which was up there to win the six furlong sprint by a nose from Mr. Joe, with Polydorus running faster than any of them right at the finish. Lady Ebony also came from far back. She was next to last in the early stages, didn't really start running until the field hit the stretch, and just did manage to get the verdict over Mr. Joe. With a stronger ride Mr. Joe could not have lost the race, but Jockey W. Wright was no help to him whatever in the run down the stretch.

Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stable silks were carried to victory for the first time during the Chicago season in the first race by the speedy Dustina, a daughter of Pompey-Elvina.

TWO IN A ROW?

Fred Frame, winner of the 500 mile automobile race at Indianapolis, will attempt to make it two in a row in today's long grind over the speedway bricks. The race starts at 11 a. m., Chicago daylight savings time.

McLarnin New Champ; Wins in First Round

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—The world's welterweight championship, which has passed from hand to hand frequently in the last few years, found new lodgement with Jimmy McLarnin, Irish Canadian, in the first round of baby-faced Jimmy's fight against Champion Young Corbett III. [Rafael Giordino] tonight.

Twenty-three thousand saw the Vancouver youth jolt the Fresno, Cal., Italian into the titular discard in 2 minutes and 35 seconds of the first round at Wrigley field.

Right Smash Starts Downfall.

McLarnin landed only four accurate blows in the fight, one of them being a left tap to Corbett's head, while the latter was pumping hooks to Jimmy's neck and ear. Suddenly Jimmy, who had been on the receiving end, shot a right smash to Corbett's chin, and the boy who had only been on the canvas once in 142 fights was catapulted in distress to the resin in his own corner.

Referee George Blake counted nine while Jimmy waited nonchalantly. As the champion wavered to his feet Jimmy was upon him with another right smash to the head. Corbett spun to the floor again. His mind too befogged to take a full count, he wavered to his feet, but was hardly erect before McLarnin was at him a third time. Jimmy's third paralyzing right landed on the side of Corbett's neck while the faltering champion's back was still half turned toward McLarnin. Corbett slumped again to the canvas and Blake raised the hand of a new champion.

Jimmy Weighs 145½.

McLarnin weighed 145½ this afternoon and Corbett weighed 146. Corbett received $35,000 guarantee and McLarnin took 22½ per cent of the gate, which would have had to exceed $100,000 for Promoter Jack Doyle to break even—but didn't.

Eddie Ran, Polish-American 148 pounder, was awarded a verdict on a foul in the third round of his bout with Ceferino Garcia, Filipino, in the semi-windup when Referee Larry McGrath decided Garcia, who had Ran defenseless with a shower of jolting rights and lefts to the chin, had struck Ran several times while the latter's right elbow was draped over the second rope.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Forty-two daredevil drivers and their mechanics tuned up forty-two high powered motor cars tonight in final preparation for one of the most dangerous contests in the entire field of sport. Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock daylight savings time these machines will roar across the starting line to begin the 500 mile race around the Indianapolis speedway.

Some of these motor cars will finish the long and hazardous run, others will break down before the end, and it is possible that one or more may become a twisted, smoking mass of wreckage before the day is over. Two deaths and two injuries already have cast a shadow upon tomorrow's race, these accidents having occurred in qualifying trials.

Four Seek to Repeat.

The 500 mile Indianapolis event is to auto racing what the Kentucky Derby is to horse racing. Victory in this long run is the goal of every pilot. Tomorrow will mark the twenty-first time this race has been run. Among the starters will be four drivers who piloted their cars to triumph in previous years.

Fred Frame, last season's winner, will be back again with the same car. Louis Meyer and Louis Schneider, victors in 1928 and 1931 respectively, will try to repeat, and one of the old timers, L. L. Corum, who won in 1924, will also be among the starters. The only driver to win twice has been Tommy Milton, who turned the trick in 1921 and 1923.

The qualifying trials were made particularly severe this year, a test run of 25 miles being required instead of 10, as formerly was the case. A minimum speed of 100 miles an hour was set as the qualifying mark, and forty-four drivers did better than that. However, the lowest two were forced out, inasmuch as the field is limited to forty-two.

Cummings Best in Trials.

The qualifying tests indicated that tomorrow's race will be on a par with the great events of former years, and many experts are looking for a new record if good weather prevails.

Bill Cummings made the best speed in the trials, averaging 118.521 miles per hour, and will have No. 1 post position. He turned one of the two and one-half mile laps at 120.01 miles an hour. The record in the qualifying trials is a lap of 124.018 miles an hour made in 1928 by Leon Duray in a one man car.

Speedway officials have announced that tomorrow's race will not be broadcast.

Motorists from surrounding states began arsiving in Indianapolis tonight and many more will drive in tomorrow morning.

The only driver to earn a place among the starters in today's trials was Phil Shafer of Des Moines, Ia., who sent his car around the course at an average of 107.792 miles per hour.

Hepburn Ruled Out.

Ralph Hepburn, Los Angeles veteran, was eliminated from the starting field tonight by a decision of Edward Edenburn, chief steward of the American Automobile association. Edinburn upheld a protest filed by Gene Haustein of Detroit, who will replace Hepburn in the lineup. Haustein protested because Hepburn, whose first attempt to qualify was hampered by rain, was allowed another trial this morning in which he averaged 110.001 miles an hour. This crowded out Haustein, who qualified several days ago at 107.603 miles an hour.

The race will start tomorrow at 11 o'clock Chicago daylight saving time, the field of forty-two being sent away in fourteen rows of three cars each.

Protest on Oil Rejected.

The contest board of the American Automobile association rejected a protest by thirty-five drivers against the limitation of six gallons on the amount of oil consumption permitted each racer.

The complaint was presented at the drivers' meeting by Leon Duray of Los Angeles, who is in charge of the car to be driven by Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis. It asked that each racer be allowed an additional two gallons.

Col E. V. Rickenbacker, president of the Indianapolis motor speedway, ruled it was a matter for the contest board to decide. The petition was referred to the board and rejected.

Milwaukee Driver Worried.

Contest board officials explained the only way for a change in the rule would be for it to have the unanimous consent of the forty-two drivers in the race. Pilots pointed out this was impossible, since some of the drivers, particularly those with part stock speedsters, are satisfied with the present restriction.

Duray, in presenting the protest, said one of the drivers who feared he would be unable to complete the 500 miles with the present ration of oil was Frank Brisko, Milwaukee.

ELEVEN TO FACE BARRIER TODAY IN $30,000 WITHERS

Kerry Patch, at 3 to 1, Is Belmont Favorite.

New York, May 29.—(AP)—C. V. Whitney's, The Darb, and James F. Johnson's Repaid, for which big things were predicted early in the season, will get their first important test tomorrow when they match strides with nine other high class three year old colts in the 38th running of the $30,000 Withers mile at Belmont park.

The Darb and Repaid were headed for the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but the Whitney colt became ill and Repaid failed in preparatory races. The Darb was sent back to Whitney's farm at Redbank, N. J., to recover and Repaid was given a short rest.

Kerry Patch Probable Favorite.

Although the two colts rated high among the juveniles last year, neither probably will face Starter George Cassidy as the favorite. The honor is expected to fall to Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, which turned in a winning six furlong race in 1:11 2-5 on the day Mr. Khayyam beat Head Play in the Wood Memorial. That was Kerry Patch's first victory since capturing the $100,000 Futurity at Belmont last fall.

With the advantage of having Silvio Coucci, one of the turf's best jockeys, in the saddle, Kerry Patch was quoted at 3 to 1. The Darb, noted for his mud running ability, was held at 4 to 1. Repaid was quoted at 8 to 1 despite his recent workout of one mile in 1:38 1-5.

Track Is Heavy.

The Belmont track was heavy today and there was every indication there would be no change before post time. The skies were overcast and appeared ready to give the course another soaking.

The Withers also has drawn the H. C. Phipps-Wheatley stable entry of De Valera and Utopian, trained by Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons. De Valera outstepped Head Play in running second in the Wood Memorial while Utopian closed strong in the stretch to take third behind Head Play and Ladysman in the Preakness.

Ladysman Not Nominated.

W. R. Cole failed to name Ladysman, the only important eligible which will be absent.

E. R. Bradley selected Bollermaker, which was declared for the Derby, to carry his green and white silks. He was quoted at 12 to 1.

The remainder of the field will be composed of Joseph E. Widener's Golden Way, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Poppyman, M. L. Schwartz's Clarify, Adolphe Pons' Projectile and W. S. Kilmer's Dark Winter.

24 to Start Tomorrow in English Derby

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 29.—All England's turf followers today were headed for this quaint village where Wednesday the 150th running of the Derby will be held. A field of 24 of the country's best 3 year olds, including three American owned horses, are slated to face the barrier.

The advance guard of an expected crowd of 250,000 today swept into this hamlet by train, omnibus, automobile, carriage, cart, airplane, bicycle or on foot. Despite hard times, the crowd is expected to exceed that of former years when the huge grandstand and the adjacent standing room on the hillside have been packed to capacity.

The Derby course stretches a mile and a half across the downs, first uphill, then on the level, and finally down again to the finish line. The course provides one of the greatest tests of stamina in horse racing. The track is shaped like an elongated horseshoe. The start is made at the shank of the shoe, nearly 800 yards from the grandstand. The finish is in front of the royal box, from which the king and queen are expected to watch the race.

Three Entries Are Favored.

Three horses today ruled favorites in the betting. They included Lord Woolavington's Manitoba, regarded as England's best 2 year old last year, at 6 to 1; Lord Derby's Hyperion, second choice at 21 to 2, and Sir Alfred Butt's Young Lover, at 100 to 9.

America's hopes for victory rest on three horses, of which Statesman, owned by Victor Emanuel, is regarded as having the best chance. The others are John McCormack's Franz Hals and W. M. G. Singer's Myostis. Statesman is at 18 to 1 in the betting, as compared to 45 to 1 for Franz Hals and 50 to 1 for the Singer entry.

Sansovino last won the race for Lord Derby in 1924. The race was founded by his ancestors in 1780. The Derby has been won four times by Americans. The victors were Pierre Lorillard's Iroquois in 1882, W. C. Whitney's Volodyvski in 1901, Richard Croker's Orby in 1907, and H. B. Duryear's Durbard in 1914.

Two Horses Are Scratched.

The scratching of J. A. Dewar's Lochiel and of the French hope, Rodosto, winner of the Two Thousand Guineas, reduced the field to 24. Both horses went lame after workouts Saturday. Odds quoted on other entrants were:

King Salmon, 100-8; Scarlet Tiger, 13-1; Light Sussex, 100-7; Felicitation, 100-6; Happy Call, 18-1; Gino, 28-1; Interlace and Harinero, 33-1; Melfort, Caymanus, and Raymond, 40-1; Madagascar and Trapston, 50-1; Lover's Walk, Solar Boy and Blue Grass, 66-1; Tuppence, 125-1, and Coroado, 150-1.

Indiana Central Nine Conquers De Pauw, 4-3

Greencastle, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Indiana Central Teachers college defeated De Pauw university, 4 to 3, in their final baseball game of the season today. It was Central's thirteenth straight victory and gave it a clean record for the year. The winners bunched four hits in the fifth to score two runs and take the lead.

Time, :23 3-5, :48 3-5, 1:02 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dustina, $3.18 straight, $2.80 place, $2.38 show; Long Bit, $3.10 place, $2.70 show; Amscray, $5.48 show. Winner trained by D. E. Stewart. Went to post at 2:19. At post 3½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

DUSTINA took command with a rush, easily increased her advantage approaching the final quarter, and weakened after a half mile, but lasted. LONG BIT, probably best and away fast, but unable to keep up, moved up steadily after reaching stretch, swerved repeatedly under punishment in final quarter, and finished on inside and in close quarters. AMSCRAY, away slowly and far back for three-eighths, closed fast.

Winner trained by H. Unna. Went to post at 2:40½. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

COG-AIR, well ridden and rated close to the pace, responded well when called upon, slowly wore down SAD KNIGHT and, holding on gamely, outstayed GIBBY'S CHOICE. Latter, rated off the pace and on outside the final half mile, stood strong riding gamely and was wearing down the winner. SAD KNIGHT easily raced HIS LAST into submission, saved ground the final three-eighths, and weakened in final eighth.

Winner trained by M. Grimer. Went to post at 3:17. At post 4 minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

BEA M., away fast and under mild restraint for three-eighths, took command with a rush, maintained speed gamely, and had something left. FIELD GOAL, away slowly, began moving up after going to outside at the turn, did not threaten winner, and weakened near end, but outstayed PANTALOONS. Latter came up gradually after reaching final three-eighths and held on well in the drive. VOLWOOD began sluggishly and closed well.

BRUSTIGERT, away fast, but unable to keep up, saved much ground at the turn, responded to strong riding in final quarter and, coming to outside in last eighth, wore down the leaders. MARIANA had fine speed, drew away into a long lead, but weakened, yet outstayed DOUBLE NUGGET. Latter saved much ground, was in hot contention the first three-eighths, failed to rally when urged hard, and also weakened in late stages.

COLD CHECK, fractious at post and beginning slowly, began improving his position after three-eighths, withstood strong hand riding the entire final three-sixteenths, and was up in last stride. RUBIO had speed from start, overcame interference from SOBIEHA and, holding on gamely, barely failed to last. CHOKOLOSKEE moved up fast in first quarter, lost ground much of the trip, and held on well in the drive.

EBONY LADY, favored by light weight and going in her best form, began slowly, responded to light pressure after reaching the final quarter, came through the field when moving up rapidly, and was up in final strides. MR. JOE, under light restraint for a half mile and brought to outside in stretch, stood pressure gamely and set up front, but failed to last. POLYDORUS, lucky, began slowly, slipped through along rail in stretch, and fought it out gamely.

BOLANDS MEET RANGERS TODAY IN GAELIC GAME

The Harry Bolands, five times champions of the Gaelic league, will meet the Kingdom Rangers in a Gaelic football game which will headline a sports carnival at Normal Park stadium, 61st street and Racine avenue, today. Risko, Perroni to Battle in Cleveland June 15

Star Juveniles to Race Today at Homewood

Most of the leading 2 year olds in the west are included in the field of 12 named for the Curran Memorial stakes which is to feature the holiday racing program at Washington Park this afternoon.

It shapes up as a most open race. Last night New Deal, Speedy Skippy, and Swiftsport, all Kentucky juveniles, were about equal first choices. Warren Wright's entry of Hermie Roy and Sir Ten was coming in for considerable support. The Audley Farm also will be represented by an entry—Le Miserable and Cloud d'Or.

The stake was first run in 1929 when Caruso defeated Morsel. Schooner won it in 1930, Proteus in 1931, and Projectile last year. It is a dash at 5½ furlongs with an added value this year of $2,500.

A big division of Col. Edward R. Bradley's stable arrived at Washington Park yesterday. It was shipped here from Maryland. Among the Bradley horses unloaded were Broad Meadows, Bert John, Battling Knight, Algeria, Blessed Event, Bobbing, Boy Crazy, Broad Bill, Brown Molasses, Boof, Busted, and Bit-a-Bit. Jockey Jimmy Smith came along with the shipment.

The Derby trial at a mile scheduled to be run this afternoon failed to fill. The owners of the western Derby candidates came to the conclusion their charges didn't need a race. A seven furlong race for 3 year olds and upward carrying the claiming clause was substituted.

Latest training moves of some of the Derby candidates were Head Play, mile and one-eighth in 1:57 2-5, and Charley O., seven-eighths in 1:27 4-5. Jockey Lee Humphreys was in the saddle on Head Play and the colt was hard held all the way. Charley O.'s move was impressive. He was fighting for his head throughout.

A new American Derby threat bobbed up yesterday when Track Superintendent Tom Young was advised that Gold Basis was being shipped here from New York for the race. The colt is owned by A. C. Schwartz of New York and is trained by Maxie Hirsch. It was the same Schwartz-Hirsch confederacy which sent Gusto out from New York to win both the American Derby and Arlington Classic last season.

George Woolf, contract jockey for the Northway stable, joined the riding colony at Washington Park yesterday. Woolf is one of the best riders on the Pacific coast.

TRIBUNE'S GOLF SCHOOL GOES ON DESPITE HOLIDAY

Exhibitions by Experts Add to Interest.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

THE TRIBUNE Golf school goes on at the 27 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association despite the fact that today is a holiday. A number of clubs will hold the regularly scheduled Tuesday men's class this morning and tonight, while others have shifted this division to tomorrow night, Thursday, Friday, and in some instances next Monday.

Four of the clubs which will hold their men's classes today or tonight are Techny Fields, Golfmoor, Glenbard, and Chicago Meadows. A number of courses have not yet announced their plans for disposing of the men's class, and pupils attending these are advised to communicate with the club at which they are enrolled to learn when they may take this week's class.

Pros Play Exhibitions.

In order to sustain interest in the school three of the courses, all of which have been instructing large classes, have scheduled exhibition matches for today. At Evergreen Don Gardner and Al Megeff will meet Ray Hutchison and Joe Takasch in an 18 hole match starting at 4 p. m.

At the same hour Mid-City will bring together four of its professionals, Norman Faunce, Joe Tivnan, Frank Springer, and Eddie Gayer, and Chicago Meadows will start a match at 11 a. m. Pupils attending these clubs are invited, as points brought out in last week's lessons will be explained during the round.

Look Over This List.

The list of courses which have announced their plans for holding the men's class this week follow:

Glenbard—Tonight: women, tomorrow: boys and girls Thursday.
Techny Fields—Tonight.

The American Ryder cup team, which will meet Britain's best at Southport, Eng., on June 26 and 27, will be guests of honor at a luncheon of the Rotary club of Chicago next Tuesday noon at the Sherman hotel. The luncheon will be a special testimonial to Horton Smith of Oak Park, the only local professional on the team. The luncheon will start at 12:15, so that members of the team can leave not later than 1:30 to get in a practice round at North Shore, where the national open will start two days later. Other members of the team are Capt. Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Ed Dudley, Craig Wood, Paul Runyan, Denny Shute, Olin Dutra, and Leo Diegel. A tenth place has been reserved for the winner of the open, provided he is American born and is not among the nine already chosen.

The lowly southpaw who swings from the wrong side is about to have his inning in golf, if the plans of Everett G. Livesay, president of the American Left Handers' Golf association, materialize. Livesay, a resident of Columbus, O., and the only portsider to qualify for the national open this year, will arrive here June 5 to help Walter Wright of Olympic, another southpaw, organize the Illinois Left Handers' association.

Officers of the association include Babe Ruth, probably the best golfer in major league baseball, as honorary president. Those interested in the organization are advised to communicate with Mr. Wright at 865 North Wells street.

MRS. THEVENOW WON'T DISCUSS SUICIDE REPORT

Madison, Ind., May 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Helen Hargitt Thevenow, wife of Tommy Thevenow, Pittsburgh Pirate infielder, who was believed to have committed suicide in Pittsburgh last week, arrived with her father, the Rev. Victor B. Hargitt, this morning. The Rev. Mr. Hargitt said he met his daughter in Cincinnati this morning and drove her to his home here.

They refused to discuss her disappearance from a Pittsburgh hotel last Wednesday. Police dragged the Monongahela river in Pittsburgh when they found a purse and a coat which they believed belonged to Mrs. Thevenow.

A Century of Progress Exposition this season affords local sailors an opportunity to demonstrate their talents on a special course to be outlined off the World's Fair grounds. An exhibition by Gar Wood will feature the impressive schedule of power boat races planned this season on the lagoon in the grounds.

Among the important events to be held on the lake off the Fair grounds are the start of the annual Michigan City race of the Columbia Yacht club on June 17; the Chicago Yacht club's Virginia trophy series June 23, 24 and 25; the start of the Mackinac race on July 15; the Lipton and Nutting cup series on Aug. 10, 11 and 12; the Columbia club's race to the eight mile gas buoy on Aug. 20; the start of the Jackson Park Yacht club's Michigan City race on Sept. 3; the Lutz trophy races on Sept. 8, 9 and 10.

The racing season proper will begin today at 11 a. m. off Jackson park and at 2:30 p. m. over the Belmont harbor, Columbia, and Sheridan Shore courses. William J. Moore, chairman of the Jackson Park club's regatta committee, will start the south siders away, while Judge Charles E. In the WAKE of the NEWS

500-MILE RACE.

TWO important changes in the interests of safety have been adopted for the running of the 500-mile race, annual Memorial day event at the Indianapolis speedway today. These changes concern fuel and oil.

Formerly cars carried fuel tanks of 45-50 gallon capacity, sufficient to last more than half the race so usually only one stop was necessary for refueling. Frequently it was accomplished in feverish haste in one and one-half minutes.

Gasoline weighs approximately 7½ pounds to the gallon. Hence, as the race progressed, weight was reduced in the rear end of the cars where the gas tank was located. As drivers tired this change in weight and balance was a constant source of danger.

Fifteen gallons of fuel is the maximum allowed to be carried today. This means that probably three stops will be necessary for fuel alone. This pit activity always is a source of interest to spectators. So a double purpose of greater interest and greater safety has been accomplished.

Even more radical is the limit on oil. Only six gallons will be permitted. This must be in the car at the start of the race. No oil supply may be taken on during the race itself. Thus the track will be dry later in the race as compared with the years when some of the cars poured 12 to 25 gallons on the track during the event. What effect this conservation of oil may have on the racing itself may be better judged tonight.

Incidentally, this is the last race in which Steve Hannagan, publicity artist de luxe, will be associated with the event which he long has directed. Hannagan, who conducted Miami Beach publicity during the Florida boom and since, also that of Hialeah race track, has accepted a position with a Chicago advertising agency.

A Baseball Fan.

It matters not if the day is hot
Or cold as the polar regions;
It thrills you more than the girl next door
Or a tale of Cæsar's legions.

If you're in the bleachers among the screechers,
Or you have a seat of the best;
If it's a strike or ball, or over the wall,
Lou yell along with the rest.

At the crack of the bat you grab your hat,
You laugh as they kick your shins;
You fail to groan—they can have all you own
Just so the home team wins.

Big C Society to Solicit Athletes for California

Berkeley, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Open proselyting of high school athletes was announced today as its future policy by the Big C society of the University of California.

No comment from any Pacific coast conference official was immediately available. Conference rules provide no members of athletic staffs or employés of a member institution shall solicit high school athletes. This would not strictly apply to the "Big C."

"The society believes success in college athletics should go hand in hand with worthy standards," said the Big C announcement, appearing today in the California alumni monthly. "It is interested in keeping the athletic traditions of the university on a high plane.

"We propose, therefore, to appoint a representative of this society, whose business it shall be to present to secondary school boys interested in sports the appeal of California as a place of clean athletics combined with high scholastic standards.

"We do not want athletes who are not also students, nor do we wish anyone to come to California for athletics only."

The announcement concluded with a request to "members and friends of the society" for financial support of the plan.

IRA COUCH FIRST TO FILE AN ENTRY IN AMATEUR GOLF

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Ira L. Couch, Wheaton, Ill., and Gene Homans, Englewood, N. J., were the first two golfers to enter the national amateur golf tournament today. Entries will close July 20. The tournament will be held on the Kenwood Country club course in Cincinnati, O., Sept. 11 to 16.

The sectional qualifying rounds will be held in 22 districts Aug. 8. More than 600 golfers are expected to battle for 150 places. C. Ross Somerville, London, Ont., who won last year, is exempt from the trials. Nashville and Honolulu have been added to the sectional lists.

Benny Leonard Sues for $1,000 in Taxicab Crash

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—A damage action for $1,000 by Benny Leonard, in which the former lightweight champion alleged he suffered permanent injuries in a collision of two taxicabs, was filed today in the Municipal court. The defendants are the owners and drivers of the two taxicabs, in one of which Leonard was a passenger when the machines crashed on Dec. 11.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29.—Lloyd Scott, a star with Colgate university's football team fifteen years ago and former backfield coach at Marquette university, died today after an operation. Recently Scott served as an official in the National Professional Football league. He is survived by the widow and two children.

Star Stanford Athletes Here for U. S. Meet

Attention of the star athletes of the country will center on the National Collegiate meet at Soldiers' field, June 16 and 17. The entry of practically every outstanding college track man in the country has been assured.

Three of Stanford's athletes are already here for the meet, having been left in Chicago last night when Coach Dink Templeton and his squad continued on their trip to the coast. Bill Miller, Olympic pole vault champion; August Meier, who was second in the I. C. 4-A high hurdles and fourth in the low hurdles, and Henri J. Laborde, winner of the eastern intercollegiate discus event, remained.

This trio of Stanford men completed their college work for the year before coming east. Coach Templeton said he hoped to send three or four others to the national meet. Ben Eastman, quarter and half mile runner, who is just recovering from a pulled muscle, probably will compete, as will Gordon Dunn, second in both the shot and discus at the eastern games. Eastman placed fourth in the half mile at Cambridge but was timed in 1:54, and Templeton thinks his star will be in real condition for the national meet.

Southern California intends to make a bid for the undisputed track championship of the country by adding the national title to its victory in the eastern intercollegiates. Michigan, Big Ten champion, which was unable to go east, and Indiana, which finished second to the Wolverines, will be among the strongest opponents of Southern California.

ADD TO U. S. C. TOTAL

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Southern California, winner of the I. C. A. A. A. A. track meet Saturday at Harvard stadium, gained two points in a revision of team standings made today after officials had viewed motion pictures of the 100 meter dash final.

Dick Hardy of Cornell, winner of the event, was not affected, but other places were changed. The movies showed Hardy the victor by six inches, with two Southern Californians, Les Ball and Charley Parsons, tied for second, Alfred Maskrey of Pensylvania, fourth, and Don Johnson, Princeton, fifth.

The judges had placed Johnson third Saturday and Parsons fifth.

The revised totals gave Southern California 47 points instead of 45. Princeton's total dropped from 13 to 11.

Referee Gustavus T. Kirby said the 100 meter finish was one of the closest he had ever seen and that it would have been impossible to place the men correctly without the aid of the camera.

Max Davidson Named Maroon Tennis Captain

Max Davidson, a junior at the University of Chicago, yesterday was elected captain of next year's tennis team. Davidson played on the doubles team which won the Big Ten conference championship at Champaign last week. He also was runner up in the singles.

Karl Ogren, Kid Leonard Meet Tonight

Karl Ogren, Swedish middleweight, and Kid Leonard of East Moline, Ill., will meet tonight in the eight round windup of a boxing show which will inaugurate the outdoor season at Western stadium, Devon and Western avenues.

Leonard is a rugged right hand puncher and has boxed Gorilla Jones, Young Stuhley, My Sullivan, Eddie Eller, Frankie O'Brien, Jock Malone, and others.

In the six round semi-windup Jackie Sharkey of Minneapolis will battle Jackie Schweitzer of New York.

Freddy Hawkette of the north side is paired with Nick Serondis of Moline in what is expected to be the feature preliminary. Other bouts:

Little Pal vs. Joie Haines [4].
Freddy Hawkette vs. Nick Serondis [4].
Bill Reardon vs. Freddy Dolph [4].
Phil Pernice vs. Leo Raneri [4].
Benny Barrich vs. Sammy Morales [4].

During a workout yesterday King Levinsky revealed why Tuffy Griffith may beat him for the second time when they meet in a 10 round bout Friday at Mills stadium. Roy Williams and Ed Wills, light heavyweight sparring partners opposed him.

Williams made Levinsky look bad at times in their three round drill. He was the aggressor most of the way and stayed in close, trading punches freely. He countered sharply with both hands whenever Levinsky missed, which was frequently. Roy demonstrated that when an opponent leads to Levinsky, King loses his balance and becomes bewildered.

A professional show will be presented tonight at the Johnny Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street. The card:

Eddie Smith vs. Paddy Walthier [5]. Larry Dayton vs. Ossie Jefferson [4]. Oreo Miller vs. Kid Pancho [4]. Freddy Gravelle vs. Art Mitchell [4]. Ted Carney vs. Johnny Reba [4]. Ralph Ransoni vs. George Jonasen [wrestling].

The following show is to be offered tomorrow at Northwest stadium:

Bud Saltis vs. Bob Groshek [6]; Young Scotty vs. Eddie Stiezal [4]; Tony Muscarello vs. California Joe Rivers [4]; Harry Booker vs. Tod Kelly [4]; Mickey O'Shea vs. Einar Hedquist [4]; Tony Hajdich vs. George Kogut [wrestling].

Tony Cancela will face Clem Miller, Cleveland, O., heavyweight, at Mills stadium Friday. . . . Ed Prante, Philadelphia heavyweight, arrived yesterday. . . . Roy Williams left last night for Shreveport, La., to attend the funeral of his older brother, Ambrose, Thursday. . . . Pal Moore, former Memphis, Tenn., bantamweight, has been appointed an Illinois Athletic commission inspector. . . . Buck Everett, Gary heavyweight, is training at Kid Howard's gymnasium for a match with Steve Trojach at Winnipeg, Can., June 6.

Dick Daniels, Minneapolis, Minn., heavyweight, left here last night for Minneapolis to meet Otto Von Porat Thursday. . . . Wrestling shows will be presented at Warwick hall, 547 East 47th street, June 5, and at the Marigold Gardens on June 7. . . . Cards are scheduled at Sparta stadium, June 9, 16 and 30.

Beginning Thursday night, weekly amateur boxing shows will be presented at the Belle Plaine outdoor arena, 2550 Irving Park boulevard. Among the boxers who will compete are Armond Morel, Paul Rogers, Bud Seiler, John Mirabal, Nick Musk, Earl Mandell, Charles McConnell, Dan Villa, Charles and Ray Wozniak, Hank Kett, Charles McCabe, Oscar Freeman, Henry Parry and Alfonso Esamille.

Johnny Phagan will begin training today for his eight round fight with Bucky Lawless of Syracuse, N. Y., at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, on June 9. Lawless, a veteran welterweight, whipped Young Jack Thompson and Gorilla Jones at the Chicago stadium several years ago. Phagan recently conquered Jackie Purvis.

Jackie Davis, north side lightweight, and Danny Delmont will meet in the six round semi-windup. Paul Dazzo of the west side and Johnny Fitzpatrick are scheduled in another six rounder.

Dempsey Coaches Baer for Battle with Schmeling

Atlantic City, N. J., May 29.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey added another job today to the multitude of duties he has undertaken in promoting a fifteen round heavyweight bout between Max Schmeling and Max Baer in the Yankee stadium June 8.

For the last two days he has sparred with each of his hirelings. In between times he has raced from camp to camp, shaking thousands of hands, selling tickets, appearing at everything from horse shows to amateur fight cards. Today he took over the job of coaching Baer.

For five rounds, as the youngster banged away at his sparring partners, Dempsey stood alone on a platform beside the ring and directed every punch Baer threw.

"Underneath," he barked in his shrill voice. "Keep your head down Left to the body, now right. Now left. Keep puunching. Keep moving in. Don't ever stop or this German will knock your brains out."

For the first time since Baer started his workouts here several weeks ago, there was order and definite purpose in his training. So far, though Baer is down to 212 pounds and in perfect physical condition, his work has been hampered by his clownish attitude.

"Get in there, you big clown," Dempsey howled at Baer. "Fight. Punch. Keep slugging to the body. You take one backward step against Schmeling and you'll land right on your shoulder blades."

SCHMELING TAPERS OFF.

Lake Swannanga, N. J., May 29.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, already in excellent physical condition for his 15 round bout with Max Baer at the Yankee stadium June 8, will begin to taper off his training tomorrow. With just enough work scheduled to keep him on edge, the German heavyweight is expected to go six rounds against his sparring partners, working for sped and a defense against Baer's left hook. Today's workout was called off.

Hans Kampfer threw Lou Sun Jennings in 15:50 with a cross body hold, while Bronko Nagurski won a 30 minute decision over Abe Kashey. Everett Marshall threw Darna Ostopovich with a body slam in 25:53 and Dr. Karl Sarpolis beat Wee Willie Davis with a body slam in 13:40 in other supporting bouts.

Cubs Play 2 Games Today with Pirates

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs will arrive in Pittsburgh this morning and go directly to Forbes field to prepare for a morning meeting with the league leading Pirates. They will eat lightly in the clubhouse at luncheon time and will square away in the afternoon endeavor shortly thereafter.

The 1932 champs will launch their Pittsburgh activity, a matter of three games, in possession of a five game winning streak and a record of two victories out of three in their season's encounters with the Pirates. They are eager for the task, but full of the realization that their tasks for the next two weeks are plenty severe.

From now until June 18 they will be playing the first place Pirates and the second place Cardinals except for five games which they will play with the Reds, who boast a record of five wins in six games played against the Cubs, including three decisions over Lon Warneke, who has won at least one game from every other team in the league and has lost to none other.

Begin to Click.

The situation is not especially awesome, for the Cubs now feel that they have started to click with regularity and that the breaks of luck at least have been equally distributed in recent encounters. They won 9 out of 13 against the eastern invaders and looked very good in eight of the wins, but pretty terrible in some of the defeats and even in one of the victories.

Malone seems to have rounded it to shape and Root his last time out shook off the several jinxes that have been gnawing at him. Bush has been a bit off form, but will get better with the coming of hot days. Grimes, with plenty of rest, is all right and Bud Tinning looked good in the first game Sunday. Warneke's seven victories are the clew to his prospects.

Cuyler Ready June 18.

Kiki Cuyler will not be available for service against the western clubs, but says he expects to be in the eastern opener against the Giants on June 18. Stephenson, the other outfield cripple, is about ready for daily service. He played the ninth inning of the second game Sunday and his stone bruise didn't fret him much.

The wrist injury which sent Bush out of the first game Sunday is said not to be serious.

SUPERHIGHWAY PROJECT URGED BY MOTOR CLUB

City Held Entitled to U. S. Public Works Aid.

BY HAL FOUST.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, yesterday joined those who urge that a west side elevated highway be included in President Roosevelt's $3,300,000,000 public works program for relief of the idle. He advocated the creation of this federal project as a government obligation to the second largest city in America and as an obligation to the motoring public.

"Without debating the merits of spending three billions for public works," Mr. Hayes said, "let's see that Chicago and the automobile owners of this area get their share of the benefits from such expenditure, if and when the appropriation is authorized.

Cites Big Projects Elsewhere.

"The west has received the $165,000,000 Bouder dam. The south is getting a project equally as extensive in the Tennessee river development. The east has the nation's capital and heavy harbor appropriations. Chicago helps to pay for these federal improvements, and in return all the motor club is suggesting is that the government help finance a $20,000,000 highway.

"The government has spent millions in aiding the farmers and is spending millions more for the growers. The elevated highway would be giving something to urban residents who help pay for the farm relief directly through taxation and indirectly through higher prices for foodstuffs. Engineers have estimated that 27,000 jobs would be created in the construction.

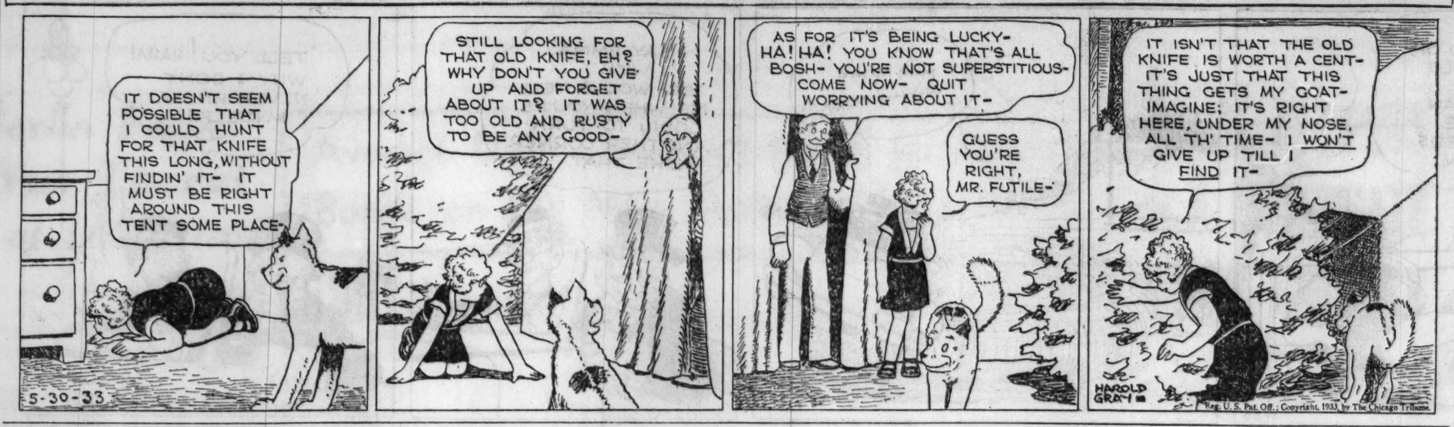
"The superhighway would be of special benefit to automobile owners, but they are entitled to such special consideration. The proposal before the house ways and means committee to increase the federal tax on gasoline three-fourths of a cent would add $92,000,000 a year to the nation's motoring bill.

Gas Pays 200 Millions Tax.

"With the 1 cent tax now being collected the government would collect $207,000,000 a year on its motor fuel excise. This is enough by itself to provide interest and sinking fund for the entire $3,300,000,000 public works program. However, it is proposed to allot but $400,000,000 for road work."

George A. Devenean, secretary of a committee preparing a list of Illinois projects for possible inclusion in the Roosevelt program, has said that a west side elevated highway would be a likely job to qualify for federal aid, should all red tape be cut so that actual construction could be started promptly. The means of cutting this red tape are in the hands of Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly and President Whealan of the Cook county board.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She's Stubborn



COMMITTEE CONSIDERS FIVE CANDIDATES FOR U. OF ILL. PRESIDENCY

Champaign, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—As the committee chosen to select a new president of the University of Illinois prepared to meet this week in Chicago, campus rumors named four local staff members and one outsider as among those under consideration for the post. The selection of a president was made necessary by the resignation of Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase to accept the chancellorship of New York university.

ARTHUR G. CRANE.

A. J. Harno, dean of the college of law and now university provost; Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson, university counsel and professor of law; Herbert W. Mumford, dean of the college of agriculture, and Charles Manfred Thompson, dean of the college of commerce, are the faculty members said to be under consideration. The outsider is said to be Arthur Griswold Crane, president of the University of Wyoming since 1922.

It is believed, however, by those close to the situation, that one of the local men, likely Dean Harno, will be chosen to act as president until the first of the year and then will be replaced by some educator called from some outside post.

In choosing President Chase the committee members are said to have hesitated for some time before passing over Dr. Crane of Wyoming, and for this reason look with favor on him at the present time.

JELKE DIVORCE CASE DECISION DUE THIS WEEK

Broker Answers Wife's Mystery Charges.

Newport, R. I., May 29.—[Special.]—The Jelke divorce case approached a decision today.

Both sides having completed their testimony, court was adjourned until Wednesday morning. Then closing arguments will be heard. Late Wednesday or on Thursday morning Superior Judge Charles A. Walsh is expected to render a verdict as to whether E. Frazier Jelke, wealthy broker of New York and Chicago, deserves a divorce, or whether the decision should go to his twenty-seven year old wife, the former Eugenia Woodward of Birmingham, Ala.

Tried Without Jury.

Trial of the double suit has proceeded for the last fortnight in Superior court here without a jury. The broker, almost twice the age of his wife, charges misconduct, cruelty, and desertion. His wife, niece of the late United States Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, alleges cruelty and nonsupport.

It was learned today Mrs. Jelke had made a charge that the court had kept secret. Jelke, in rebuttal, made answer by saying: "These conditions were imposed by Mrs. Jelke."

The broker's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Bartholomy Jelke, said Mrs. Eugenia Jelke had told her at Newport, "I wouldn't want a baby unless I loved its father."

Detectives Aid Wife.

Mrs. Ethel Hartman, who earlier had flatly denied Jelke's charges that his wife had visited a Birmingham apartment house operated by Mrs. Hartman with a man identified only as the "major," did not resume the stand to finish her story.

Depositions of three Birmingham detectives also were introduced by Mrs. Jelke's counsel to refute her husband's charges of misconduct there.

He was 62 years old and lived at 3100 Sheridan road.

He supervised the company's fills on the lake front to for mthe site for the World's Fair, and the construction of foundations and anchorages for the Sky Ride towers. Projects which he supervised in past years included Navy pier, the Michigan avenue bridge, and the river straightening project.

He was unusually active in his work, members of his family said, and recently had complained of spells of dizziness. He was driving to inspect a construction job on the south side when he was stricken.

COTTON, RAILS, COPPER SHARE BUSINESS GAINS

Big Western Lines Overtake 1932.

Cotton and copper, refrigerators and automobiles, railroads, coal and the building industry contributed yesterday to the swelling volume of cheerful business news.

Improved traffic was reported by several railroads, including the big western systems. The Milwaukee road made the notable showing when compared with a year ago. With weather allowing heavier grain loadings and the beer shipments holding up, the loadings of the system for last week ran approximately 9 per cent ahead of a year ago. The road hauled 22,174 cars as compared with 21,638 in the comparable period last year. The Santa Fe loaded 21,395 cars against 21,664 in the preceding week and 21,970 last year, a considerably better showing than in the recent past.

The Chesapeake & Ohio reported loadings of 25,534 cars for the week ended Saturday as compared with 25,033 in the preceding week and 23,131 in the same period last year. Prime factor in the increase was said to be in the better demand for bituminous resulting from the expanding industrial activity in the central manufacturing district.

North Western Gains.

Loadings on the Chicago and North Western reached the best figure of the year last week, topping the previous high week ended May 6 by 26 cars. All classes of freight, with the exception of live stock and merchandise, were ahead of last year, with grain making the best showing. The aggregate loadings were 21,425 cars, against 19,724 in the same week a year ago, an increase of 1,701 cars. The gain over the preceding week was 726 cars.

Grain loading amounted to 2,056 cars, against 808 last year. Meat and packing house products accounted for 635 cars, as compared with 539 last year. Coal increased to 967 cars from 725, and lumber gained from 422 to 650 cars. Live stock loadings amounted to 1,506, as compared with 1,591 last year.

Auto Sales Advance.

R. L. Polk & Co. announced that April sales of new passenger cars were 119,909 or 52.3 per cent ahead of March and less than 1 per cent below April last year.

H. G. Moock, general sales manager, announced that sales of Plymouth cars for the third week continue to break all previous records. For the week ended May 20 sales were 5,733, or 51.7 per cent ahead of last year, he said. This was the seventh consecutive weekly increase.

J. W. Frazer, general sales manager of Chrysler, announced that sales of both Chrysler and Plymouth cars for May will exceed any month since August, 1931.

Reflecting the better demand from various industries, copper sold at the highest price in more than a year in New York. Domestic copper brought 7½ cents a pound, ¼ of a cent above last week's final quotation.

Wage Increases Reported.

The American Smelting and Refining company advanced the price of lead from 3.75 to 3.90 cents a pound.

Wage increases were reported by concern in two industries. The Indian Head mills at Cordova, Ala., reported that the wage scale of 1,900 workers has been increased 10 per cent. Production will be stepped up to a 24 hour basis from the present 16 hour schedule, with additions to the present force, officials said.

In accordance with a recommendation of Appalachian Coals, Inc., the Harlan County Coal Operators association in Kentucky voted to raise wage scales 10 to 15 per cent. The decision affects 8,000 workers in forty-two mines. The present wages are from $2.10 to $3.80 a day, according to the type of work.

From Booth, W. Va., came news that the River Seam Coal company has increased wages of 300 miners 10 per cent.

F. W. Dodge & Co. reported that construction awards of all kinds in Chicago for the first half of May totaled $4,380,300 as compared with $4,059,700 in the first half of April.

Refrigerator Sales Gain.

George W. Mason, president of the Kelvinator corporation, announced that refrigerator shipments for the first 23 days of May were greater than any preceding full month this year.

After a month's shutdown the Indiana Harbor plant of the Universal Atlas Cement company, U. S. Steel subsidiary, will reopen next Thursday at 20 per cent of capacity. The plant closed down May 1 when the state of Illinois quit buying. Between 300 and 400 men are expected to be employed. The company's plants at Duluth and Pittsburgh will also resume operations. The Duluth plant has been closed a month and the Pittsburgh plant has been inactive for several months. About 225 men will be put on the pay roll at Duluth and 250 at Pittsburgh.

69 Roads Report April Net Income of $18,128,000

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Sixty-nine railroads, reporting for April, show aggregate net operating income of $18,128,000, a decrease of 10.2 per cent from the same month last year when the amount was $20,202,000. For the first four months of 1933 the total was $39,593,000, or 53.2 per cent under the $84,734,000 reported for the same period of 1932.

Berlin Faces New Threat of Inflation

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—A threat of German inflation was flashed by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, over the head of 40 world bankers and creditors of Germany assembled today in Berlin. They are here to study the transfer problem and seek means to enable Germany to pay her foreign obligations without destroying her currency.

DR. HJALMAR SCHACHT.

Albert H. Wiggin, John Foster Dulles, Shepard Morgan, James H. Gannon and Frank Downey were the American listeners when Dr. Schacht outlined recent financial history and described the financial calamity threatening Germany and her creditors unless a compromise is reached.

He declared "the German gold reserve has dwindled down to $71,000,000—coverage of currency has dropped to 8 per cent. If we allow this development to continue the Reichsbank will not be able to prevent the sale of German marks in foreign countries and the result will be a new depreciation of the German mark which would represent a still greater catastrophe than the inflation of 1923, a catastrophe which the Reichsbank is determined to prevent at all costs."

Has Repaid $288,000,000.

Dr. Schacht told the world bankers how Germany took up loans to pay "reparations," how since October, 1929, Germany has repaid $288,000,000 to her creditors and how she prevented sagging of her currency through drastic measures which prevented inflation but made business shrink.

Numerous plans were suggested to provide Germany's creditors with partial payment of sums due them. Normal methods of international exchange of goods are made impracticable by international high tariff walls and fluctuating currencies.

Germany believes that the figures of her trade returns, coupled with those of her financial obligations in foreign countries, show eloquently why she needs a transfer moratorium, or preferably a drastic cut in her payments of interest and amortization of her foreign loans.

Huge Foreign Debt.

Germany's foreign debt at present aggregates $4,760,000,000, half of which Germany says was contracted to pay reparations.

Interest and amortization service on this debt total $310,000,000 for 1933. This should be paid in foreign currency with Germany's surplus of exports over imports. But this surplus is dwindling all the time. Her exports shriveled, Germany has cut down her imports to a minimum painful to the countries from which she bought in former years. Despite "strangulation of imports," the German trade surplus amounted to only $41,000,000 for the first four months of the year, as compared to almost $100,000,000 in the same period last year.

Germany does not expect her exports to rise in the near future. No country wants to nor can afford to buy her goods in big quantities, what with world depression, the competition of inflated currencies, and high tariff walls.

Puts Faith on London Parley.

Germany will ask the world bankers for a reduction of interest rates, and a partial temporary moratorium, but her financiers and politicians set their greatest hopes on the world economic conference in London.

The main plan under discussion now is a mark bond issue to be guaranteed by state and German debtors. These mark bonds would be paid creditors instead of interest and amortization.

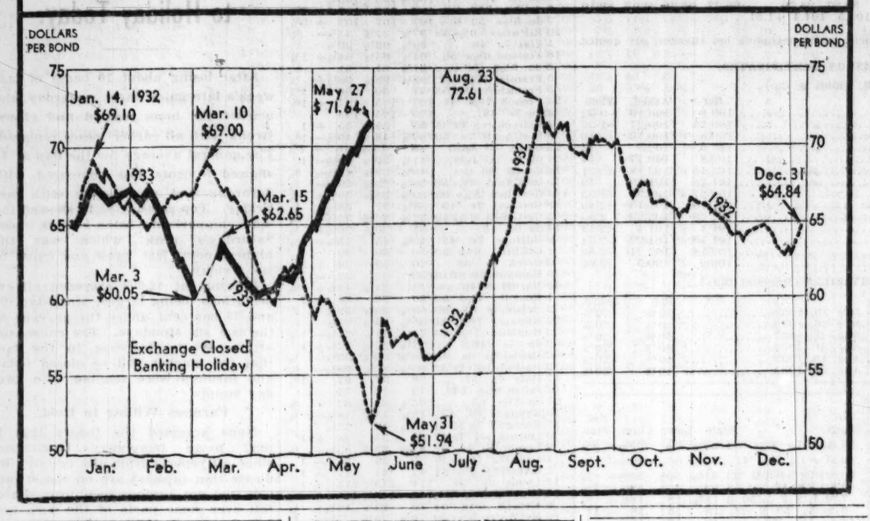
Average Daily Closing Prices of 40 Leading Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange



Brokers Now Find Offices Are Too Small

Some of La Salle street's biggest brokers have been as nearsighted in their rental plans during the last few months as their dumbest clients are in playing the market. As big banking houses like to be considered infallible we can't give any names in these comments. Several of America's best known houses, however, in considering office changes several weeks ago rented new quarters from 50 to 60 per cent smaller than their former quarters.

Building managers tried to argue that the stock market wasn't always going to be dead and that they'd be wise to plan an office layout with provision for expansion.

"Our advice wasn't welcomed" said a building manager of a modern La Salle street skyscraper. "They knew how to run their affairs and several of our best known firms now find they've run things into a stone wall so far as expansion is concerned.

"The present activity in Wall street has caught them unawares. They've called back clerks, bookkeepers, board boys and other employes who have been laid off for months and there's no room for 'em. Thousands have been spent in putting in private wires and they can't just move to larger quarters on the next floor as other concerns can.

"Of course, some have got to move, cost or no cost and I'll tell the world it's going to cost 'em a bunch of money to do just what we urged them to do in the first place. Apparently they're so close to the market they were the last to see the good times coming."

The mystery surrounding the construction of Michigan avenue's smallest structure has been solved. The five sided one story building perched on top of an old oil tank once used by the Kirk Soap company, at the intersection of East North Water and East Austin avenue, just south of Tribune Tower, is to be a doll's house. Inside, so it's said, miniature figures will whirl about to the strains of music. This unique project will advertise two leading dance halls.

"When bankers are driven out of the basement and are obliged to transact their business in daylight, then, and only then, can mistakes of the past be rectified."

The above quotation is not from the speech of a radical senator, but an excerpt from a telegram sent to President Roosevelt by J. M. Nichols, president of the First National bank of Englewood, protesting against the bank guarantee law.

"Guarantees, laws and bank examiners are helpless so long as the banking business is conducted behind the walls of secrecy set up through the conventional form of statement as used by the banking fraternity today," the Chicago banker told the President.

Chief Markets, Banks Will Be Closed Today

Principal American commodity and security markets including the Chicago Board of Trade and the New York Stock exchange will be closed today, Memorial day. Banks will also observe the holiday. The New York commodity markets will also close, as will the Chicago live stock market. Foreign exchanges and the New York Cotton exchange will carry on operations as usual. All markets will resume business tomorrow.

British Fail in Effort to HoldDollarUp

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—The dollar fell to within a small fraction of its record low today. Despite the efforts of the British exchange equalization fund to resist the cheapening of the dollar, the pound sterling rose to $4, as against the year's high of $4.05, and closed at $3.99, up 1¾ cents.

France's gold currency, unchecked by the official restraint which was laid upon sterling, advanced to 4.74½ cents or within one-half point of its record high, made on May 5. At this level the dollar had an indicated gold value of 82.6 cents. The final price for francs was 4.72 cents, up 5¾ points net.

Other Currencies Strong.

Other gold standard currencies were equally strong and all advanced to within easy striking distance of their record highs. Guilders sold at 48.30 cents, compared with the year's high of 48.45 cents, and closed at 48.25 cents, up 60 points. Swiss francs reached 23.25 cents, against a high of 23.35 cents earlier this month, and closed at 23.20 cents, up 40 points net. Belgas reached 16.60 cents, or within 15 points of their record high, and closed at 16.55 cents, up 16 points.

At its high for the day the French franc was at a premium of 21 per cent over parity and the other gold standard exchanges were correspondingly above their normal relationship with the dollar.

German marks lagged somewhat behind the other exchanges in appreciating in dollar value, but showed a net gain of 5 points at 27.80 cents. Italian lire were up 7 points at 6.22 cents. Canadian dollars improved to 11⅞ per cent discount, against 11⅞ per cent discount on Saturday.

Paris Sees Dollar Battle.

Advices from Paris reaching Wall street, referring to the efforts of the British control to combat the fall in the dollar by selling sterling and purchasing dollars, foresaw in the movement the opening of a war for currency depreciation between this country and Britain.

Bankers here said, however, that this government had not yet entered the arena as an active combatant since thus far nothing had occurred which called for official intervention by the authorities here in the foreign exchange market. The view is that so long as the dollar is falling the authorities here will be content but that they will only have occasion to intervene when and if the dollar starts to rally.

OHIO OUTPUT OF STEEL SET FOR 50% THIS WEEK

Youngstown, O., May 29.—(AP)—Steel production in the Youngstown district is expected to reach 50 per cent of capacity by midweek, steel operators said today.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company is rushing repairs on two more open hearth furnaces, raising the number of active furnaces to 45 out of 83 as compared with 43 operating today. Preparations also are being made to increase the number of open hearth furnaces at the Carnegie Steel company's Farrell plant.

Orders were received today by the Newcastle works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company to prepare 12 of its 20 tin plate mills for immediate resumption. With Republic Steel corporation operating 19 mills at its Warren plant, more than 100 tin plate mills, the largest number in more than three years, will be operating in the Youngstown district.

Cuba Suspends Payments of Gold on Foreign Debts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, May 29.—Starting June 30 and until further notice Cuba will pay no foreign loans in Cuban metallic or American gold coin, Secretary of Treasury Octavio Averhoff announced today.

Will Appeal to Public on New U.S. Issue

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The treasury department will make a determined effort to sell a large block of the 750 million dollars or more worth of securities, which it plans to float on June 15, to the general public, despite the fact that security markets already have been groomed to absorb much of the issue, it was learned today.

Plan to Create Strong Market.

In addition to planning for popular sales the administration has taken three steps to create a strong government security market in anticipation of the forthcoming financing. The reserve banks have begun their open market operations, the discount rates at New York and Chicago have been cut, and President Roosevelt has announced that postal savings banks will take 100 million dollars' worth of governments.

Financial circles here look for the treasury to offer about 750 million dollars or more of bonds, and the formal announcement is expected a week from today. This sum would allow the treasury 376 million dollars of new money above its refinancing requirements, which amount to 374 millions.

Bond Issue Predicted.

Bonds are predicted because of the unwieldy size of the short term debt, which already amounts to more than seven billion dollars and which constitutes more than a third of the entire outstanding debt. It would be the first bond issue since September, 1931.

Just what devices will be used to foster their popular sales is not revealed. The last attempt at general sales, made a month ago, did not bring promising results, but Secretary Woodin is understood to believe that the appeal was not handled correctly.

N. Y. CENTRAL HAS $13,326,550 DEFICIT REPORT SHOWS

New York, May 29.—(AP)—A sharp decrease in traffic, rigid control over expenditures, and increased bank loans characterized last year's operations of the New York Central railroad, revealed in the pamphlet report of the company for 1932.

The road showed a deficit, after all deductions, amounting to $18,326,550, as compared with a surplus for 1931 of $2,309,254. Operating expenses were cut 26.02 per cent, to $227,176,620, for the year, while gross revenues fell to $293,636,140. Bank and other loans stood at $67,900,000, an increase during the year of $9,400,000. The operating ratio was 77.37 per cent, as compared with 80.34 per cent in 1931.

Of the decrease in operating expenses, explained by F. E. Williamson, president, $20,105,604 was in charges for maintenance of way and structures, a saving of 41.55 per cent as compared with the previous year.

The report reviewed the loan of $20,499,000 which was authorized by the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and pointed out that $15,600,000 was advanced during the year. On Dec. 27, 1932, the company borrowed $2,000,000 from the Railroad Credit corporation.

The freight surcharges provided the road with additional revenue amounting to $6,073,751, of which $5,932,644 was deposited with the Railroad Credit corporation under the marshalling and distributing plan.

A profit of $5,056,753 on property sold is shown in the report. Most of this was apparently realized from the sale of the building at Lexington avenue and 45th street to the government for a postoffice.

Gen. Motors Current Assets Are Nearly 258 Millions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—The pamphlet report of the General Motors corporation for the quarter ended March 31 shows that current assets on the latter date totaled $257,946,908, against $283,258,874 on Dec. 31, 1932. The total included an investment of $12,500,000 in the capital stock of the National Bank of Detroit, but did not include cash balances in closed banks, which totaled $13,943,878 on April 25.

Midland National Bank Pays 32% to Depositors

ROOSEVELT PUTS O. K. ON PRIVATE BANK INQUIRY

Kuhn, Loeb Next on Pecora List.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The Pecora committee's inquiry into the house of Morgan culminated today in half a dozen different places in the capital.

SENATOR CARTER GLASS.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], who vigorously has criticized the methods of investigation of Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, revealed that he had received several letters threatening his life and numerous letters and telegrams assailing him.

The threats he defied, declaring that he was not to be moved by "blackguard tactics." The letters were unsigned, and the Virginia senator's comment was that "that kind of cattle never signs letters."

Roosevelt Favors Inquiry.

At the same time President Roosevelt communicated to members of the committee of investigation his desire that the inquiry into J. P. Morgan & Co. and other private banking houses be pushed forward vigorously.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], joining Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] in a senate plea for action on the St. Lawrence treaty, in order that the seaway construction work might be included in the administration's public works program, used the committee's disclosures as ammunition against opponents of the seaway.

The treaty, he said, was being delayed with the support of the Morgan firm and the eastern railroads and public utilities under Morgan control. The Wisconsin senator charged that the New York Chamber of Commerce, which has been prominently opposed to the treaty, was dominated by the Morgans and their allies. Members of that chamber of commerce, he said, were on the Morgan's "preferred lists" of stock subscribers and received "a gratuity of $5,130,760."

Names Pecora's Accuser.

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], one of Attorney Pecora's most ardent defenders, revealed the name of J. C. Hackett, former secretary of Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright of New York, as author of certain charges made to the senator last week against Mr. Pecora. Senator Couzens said he had called on Mr. Hackett to prove his statements. The senator promised that he would make an issue of what he called "a subtle campaign" to discredit the committee's counsel.

In the house, Representative George H. Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] introduced a resolution calling for a full inquiry into the connections between Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador at large, and the Morgans.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] introduced in the senate a resolution demanding a full report from the treasury on the income taxes paid by former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and by numerous corporations associated with the Mellon interests and any refunds of taxes. The resolution also demanded a report on the taxes paid by former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, personally and as executor of his father's estate, as well as any refunds.

Mr. Davis was revealed last week as one of the bank directors who had borrowed from the Morgan firm, and his name was also on one of the lists of "close friends" to whom opportunity was given to purchase "cut rate" shares. Davis was defended by Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.] on the house floor.

Will Trace Security Sales.

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—The senate investigation of banking houses is "going into the general method by which bankers marketed general securities they were interested in, and will trace those securities from their inception." So Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the senate committee on banking and currency, declared his intentions to reporters this afternoon at the committee's office here.

Several more days will be devoted to the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. Mr. Morgan himself will be back on the witness stand before Mr. Pecora is through with that firm, and six more of the twenty Morgan partners will be called after the hearing resume on Wednesday.

After he is through with the Morgans Mr. Pecora will start on the firms of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Dillon, Read & Co.

Mr. Pecora revealed that the late Senator Thomas Walsh of Montana, who was President Roosevelt's first selection as attorney general, had approached him with an offer of the post of assistant United States attorney general in charge of the criminal prosecution division of the department of justice. Senator Walsh died on his way to Washington.

Senate Group Probes Stock Yard Charges

An investigation into the charges imposed by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company for services rendered in handling livestock was opened yesterday by a committee of the state senate at a hearing in the Morrison hotel. Three officials of the company were questioned before the committee by its counsel, John F. Higgins.

The committee was created under a resolution introduced in the senate last February by Senator Charles W. Baker of Rockford. Other members are George M. Maypole, chairman; Frank Huchins and P. J. Carroll of Chicago, and Simon Lantz of Congerville.

Asked to Show Profits.

At the time the resolution was introduced corn was selling on farms at 12½ cents a bushel and hay at $9 and $10 a ton. At the yards, Senator Baker said, corn for feeding hogs was being charged at 95 cents a bushel and hay at $33 a ton. At present the price of corn is 45 cents.

Officials were asked to explain their charges in view of the low price of the produce on farms and to produce books showing their profits on corn and hay. They were also questioned about charges for unloading and boarding livestock.

A. G. Leonard, president of the company; Orvis T. Henkle, vice president and general manager, and G. L. Gladdon, counsel for the company, were the witnesses before the committee. All declared that carrying charges and services rendered by the company accounted for the difference in the price of hay and corn on the farm and that charged at the yards.

Unable to Produce Records.

Mr. Leonard said he was unable to produce records of the profits made by the company as the charges were not segregated from other profits. He said he would attempt to produce records through an accounting of the company's books.

The charges, he said, were fixed through approval by the secretary of agriculture. Under questioning he declared that the secretary had never refused a request to increase the charges and probably would not object to a decrease.

If corn advances beyond 50 cents a bushel approval will be asked for a charge of $1.05 a bushel at the yards, he said.

The committee adjourned after the three witnesses were examined. Members will meet next week at the stockyards. The date of the next hearing is to be set by Chairman Maypole.

SUGGESTS PLAN TO GET RAILWAYS TO REPAY LOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation has hit upon a novel plan for expediting the repayment of the corporation's loans to railroad's, now amounting to some $337,000,000. It provides for a reduction in interest rates on railroad loans, the amount of the reduction to be impounded in a special fund which would be returned to the carriers when all such loans have been repaid.

Railroads borrowing from the corporation now pay a uniform interest rate of 5½ per cent on corporate loans as distinguished from the so-called work loans. It is the proposal of Chairman Jones to reduce the rate, on paper, to four per cent and place the difference between the new and old rate in a fund to be redistributed among the carriers pro rata when all outstanding loans have been repaid. The railroads borrowing from the corporation would continue, in other words, to pay the present rate of 5½ per cent on their outstanding balances until all have been repaid, and the special fund created by the reduced rate would not be distributed until that time.

Mr. Jones said the proposed reduction and resulting fund might be considered as a "persuader" in bringing about repayment.

LIVING COST OFF 9.3% IN A YEAR; 27.9 UNDER 1929

The cost of living in April averaged 9.3 per cent below April last year, and 27.9 per cent below April, 1929, according to the compilation made by the national industrial conference board. Using 1923 as 100, the purchasing price of the dollar last month was $1.399, according to the board's calculations.

The board finds that food prices acquired comparative stability in the last two months. While aggregate living costs declined 0.4 per cent last month from March, the decline was due to seasonal reductions in rents, coal prices, and clothing prices. There was practically no change in average food price from March to April.

STOCKS MOUNT TO NEW PEAKS IN FAST TRADE

Coppers, Oils Lead; 6,950,000 Shares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—Paced by copper and oil issues, the movement for the rise in the stock market was resumed in impressive fashion shortly after noon today. Earlier in the day the list had been churned around in erratic fashion at the whim of traders anxious to take profits from the week-end advance.

The afternoon advance carried many leaders from losses ranging up to 4 points to new highs for the year. Advanced positions were maintained fairly well to the end, leaving a comfortable majority of net gains of from fractions to about 3 points.

The list, however, was interspersed with a few small recessions in issues which appeared to be in temporary disfavor with the bull element and which were not given the full play that others received.

Volume Near 7,000,000 Shares.

Continuation of the fast trading pace of recent sessions lifted volume to 6,950,000 shares. At times the ticker lagged as much as fifteen minutes behind floor transactions, harrassing brokerage offices and handicapping efforts of the public to trade. To cope with the difficulty, prices of leading shares were printed at intervals on the general news tickers.

The most important market factor continued to be the belief that the administration's policy of raising commodity prices through controlled inflation would be pursued vigorously. Hand in hand with news to that effect from Washington came further reports of business improvement, particularly in the steel industry.

With the rise in raw copper value traders played shares of companies in the industry for all they were worth. The highest prices in more than a year were attained by Anaconda, Kennecott, and American Smelting. Other coppers were relatively strong.

Oil Shares Given Push.

Also enjoying bull favoritism were the oils, top gains of 1 to 3 points being made in a number of the leaders. Atlantic Refining was up more than 2 points at times to the best quotation since 1930, and Standard of California approached its 1932 peak.

Neglected for a long time, motion picture issues rose sharply under the leadership of Loews, which appreciated more than 2 points. Others in this group advanced in unison.

United Aircraft and Aviation corporation were twin features of a generally strong aviation section.

Railroad shares had their share of attention and at the highs were up a point or so. Reading high lighted the carrier division with a maximum gain of more than 6 points. Union Pacific, however, was not given enough support to balance an early slump and closed off well over a point.

Hudson Motors in Favor.

Among the motors Hudson was given a run for a gain on the day in excess of one point, with Chrysler and General Motors unchanged.

American Telephone hit a new year's peak at 120½, but failed to hold this advantage and ended with a small recession. Other utilities, notably Consolidated Gas and Public Service, were good.

Pivotal industrials tended to lag behind the rest of the market. American Can and Westinghouse Electric closed moderately higher, together with a handful of the others. United States Steel closed without change, while Du Pont was off almost a point.

The slowness of wheat to follow other commodities higher hurt J. I. Case and International Harvester in late trading, but mail order shares looked strong.

There was a distinct reaction in the lately rocketing "repeal" shares, Cwens Glass, National Distillers, and Industrial Alcohol dipping rather sharply.

RESERVE BANKS GET GOLD FREED BY U. S. TREASURY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—The large gains in gold holdings shown by the federal reserve system in the last two weeks have been something of a mystery. The system's gold reserves have risen $57,000,000 to a record high at $3,499,000,000, although there have been no imports to speak of and the "dehoarding" movement seems to have passed its peak.

The explanation of the movement, it developed yesterday, is that the gold has come from the treasury. The Thomas amendment to the farm relief bill, which made all coin and currency legal tender, made it possible for the treasury to substitute other forms of currency for some of the gold it had held as reserves against national bank notes and other treasury currency.

Upon making the substitution the treasury deposited gold certificates with the federal reserve banks. This accounts for the fact that government deposits and treasury currency adjusted have both been rising concurrently with the advance in the reserve system's gold.

GOLD PRODUCTION AND HOLDINGS form the subjects of several of the 121 important charts which first appeared in the financial pages of the Chicago Tribune between July 1, 1932, and March 3, 1933, and which are now available in book form. Supreme Court Orders Inquiry on Pay of Am. Tobacco Heads

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—An inquiry to determine whether President George W. Hill of the American Tobacco company—who in 1930 received more than $1,000,000 in salary and profits—has been getting more than his share of the firm's enormous earnings was ordered today by the Supreme court. The inquiry would include also the share of earnings received by the firm's vice presidents.

The high court's ruling was a partial victory for Richard Reid Rogers of New York, stockholder in the American Tobacco, who recently lost another case, the central theme of which also centered upon whether the officials were getting too much and the stockholders too little.

In ordering the investigation into the money accruing to Hill and the vice presidents through the company by-law adopted in 1912, giving them a percentage of surplus profits, the court upheld the legality of the by-law itself.

Raises Question Of.

Nevertheless, Justice Butler, who delivered the opinion, said the "rule prescribed by it cannot, against the protest of a stockholder, be used to justify payments of sums so large as in substance and effect to amount to spoliation or waste of coöperative property."

"The facts alleged by the plaintiff," Butler continued, "are sufficient to require that the District court, upon a consideration of all the relevant facts brought forward by the parties, determine whether and to what extent payment to the individual defendants under the by-laws constitutes misuse and waste of the money of the corporation."

Under the 1912 by-law, Hill, as president, received 2½ per cent of profits after all dividends and expenses had been paid. The vice presidents get 1½ per cent. Hill received $842,507 from the profits clause in 1930. He got cash credit of $273,470 and salary of $168,000. Vice President Heiley received more than $400,000 under the by-laws, $89,945 in cash credits, and $50,000 in salary. Vice President Riggio received an almost identical sum.

Lower Courts Reversed.

The decision today reversed both the Circuit Court of Appeals and the federal District court for the southern district of New York. The latter was directed to make an inquiry.

A dissenting opinion was filed today by Justice Stone. The stockholders had assailed a stock issue which the directors alloted themselves and other officers. The court did not pass on the merits of the case, but Stone said he felt the court should go to the bottom of the matter.

He recited that there was 56,712 shares of common stock being made available to directors and other company officials at a price of $25 a share when the marketprice of the stock was $112. On that basis, he said, Hill's profit from that transaction alone was $1,169,280, exclusive of the more than $1,000,000 in profit, salary and cash credit.

New York, May 29.—Heavy trading in bonds today kept price currents irregular. Some of the issues fell back sharply, but the main body held its ground. The market appeared to gain strength from the belief that the federal administration's policy of raising commodity prices will be adhered to and extended.

Speculative bonds, which will benefit decidedly from commodity price improvement, rose from 1 to 4 points, while high grade issues were steady in most cases.

United States government securities were irregular on uncertainty over the rate of purchases of governments by the reserve banks.

German government and corporation bonds moved uncertainly as holders anxiously awaited word of the conference held in Berlin today to consider an adjustment of service on reich external dollar obligations.

Further gains in domestic bonds centered in the railroad group. Advances included Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, Illinois Central 4s and others.

Industrial bonds were higher in such instances as Warner Brothers Picture 6s and Skelly Oil 5½s.

Some rail bonds relapsed sharply in early trading. Losses up to 4 points occurred in Rock Island convertible 4½s and issues of Chicago and North Western.

Pittsburgh United Corp.

Investors' Guide: A company by the name of Pittsburgh United corporation has been called to my attention. Will you please give me some data on its preferred stock?—T. V. M.

Answer—Pittsburgh United corporation was originally incorporated as Oil Well Supply company, a manufacturer of equipment for drilling and operating gas and oil wells. In September, 1930, it sold all its assets to a subsidiary of United States Steel corporation for 108,402 shares of United States Steel common stock. This stock, except for a nominal amount of cash, now represents its only asset. Liabilities consist solely of $1,940,000 secured notes payable.

Pittsburgh United has outstanding 35,821,000 of 7 per cent $100 par convertible preferred and $9,749,075 of $25 par common. There is no funded debt.

Thus, when United States Steel common sells at $50, Pittsburgh United preferred has a liquidating value of about $75.24; when Steel sells at $45 liquidating value of Pittsburgh United preferred is $65.93, and when Steel sells at $40, Pittsburgh United preferred has a liquidating value of $56.62.

No dividends have been paid on the preferred since Nov. 1, 1931. Accumulations now total $10.50 a share. Dividends of $4 a year on Steel common stock would provide the company with more than enough income to pay preferred dividends.

The company has enough cash on hand to service its bank loan through the current year.

Should United States Steel common sell at $70 a share, net worth of Pittsburgh United would be in excess of its bank loans and the liquidating value [$110] of the preferred.

Security Analysis.

Can you advise me what qualifications make a stock or bond either high grade, medium, or speculative?—M. C. W.

There is no specific formula for determining the investment position of a security. Any such determination is essentially a matter of opinion.

Some of the more important factors to be considered in arriving at such an opinion are position of the industry in which the company operates, position of the company in the industry, current position, earnings, trend of earnings, caliber of the management, position of the security in relation to other securities of the same company and type of company [holding company, operating company, etc.].

Not only must each factor be considered separately and in relation to the other factors, but the degree of importance of each varies with different companies.

BROKERS MAKING MONEY AS STOCK MARKET REVIVES

La Salle Street Recalls Workers Idle Years.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Brokers are making money again. If you don't think that's news ask any broker who went through the market calm of 1932.

So abrupt has been the increase in the volume of trading on the security markets that many brokers have been caught short handed. Yesterday's 7,000,000 share day came on the heels of a record breaking turnover Saturday. La Salle street commission houses yesterday were calling back employes who have been off the pay rolls two and three years, and some firms were reported to have difficulty in getting experienced workers.

On the Chicago exchange yesterday the volume of trading reached the highest level since Dec. 19, 1931. Employes were drafted from other departments to assist the force on the trading floor. The employment service conducted by the exchange filled positions with several member houses, according to Sidney L. Parry, assistant secretary of the exchange.

Several Houses Pay Bonuses.

Perhaps the best evidence that the brokers are prosperous again is the fact that several Chicago houses paid bonuses to their employes last week. The bonuses come as a reward to the clerical workers who put in long hours last week in attempting to keep abreast of the market. The bonuses in several instances amounted to a week's salary. At several houses bookkeepers and clerks reported for work Sunday to catch up on work that had piled up during the week.

Two firms have announced wage increases and others are reported to be considering raises.

Many of the floor traders on the Chicago exchange are making a living for the first time in a year or more. Last year when the volume of trading fell as low as 10,000 shares on some days many floor traders were not making enough to cover their luncheon checks.

Small Intake Last Year.

The volume of trading averaged about 59,000 shares a day last year, or $2,500 in commissions at the maximum floor trader's commission of $2.50 per hundred share lot. This was an average gross daily income of $25 for the 100 active members on the floor of the exchange. But this business wasn't distributed evenly and some traders were making less than $1 a day gross.

LARGER RUN OF HOGS MAKES LARD DECLINE

Commission house selling due to larger hog receipts than expected 42,000, with prices 5 to 10 cents lower, was reflected in selling of lard, although there was a rally in prices toward the close with net losses of 5 to 7½ cents. Spot lard was off 15 cents at $6.55 for regular, loose lost 5 cents at $5.97½, and leaf held steady at $6.00. Liverpool lard was 3 to 6d higher. Export clearances of 395,425 pounds of lard and 15,500 pounds of bacon. Little attention was given the belly trade for future delivery. September remained unchanged at $7.75 and cash lots at $7.37½. GRAINS LAG IN INFLATION RISE; TRADERS DIFFER

Easterners Buy Wheat; Others Take Profits.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The rising tide of inflation, so strongly reflected in stocks and cotton, failed to materially affect the grain markets yesterday. Heavy buying of wheat credited to the east was met with equally free selling by traders who had good profits, and prices fluctuated in an erratic fashion within a range of 1⅜ to 2¼ cents with the distant deliveries showing the most strength. According to trade gossip, the bulk of the selling was by the professional element who failed to enthuse over the inflation talk.

Grain traders, especially those who operate largely in wheat, have highly diversified views as to the immediate trend of the market. Many of the professional element, who are accustomed to assume that supply and demand determines the price, are talking somewhat lower prices.

Basis for Varying Opinions.

Bearish traders base their views on the favorable outlook for the spring wheat crop in American and Canadian northwest, lack of export demand, and prospects that the world's carry-over at the end of the current crop year will establish a new high record. The department of agriculture estimates the probable surplus on July 1, at 665,000,000 bushels, or 9,000,000 bushels in excess of a year ago.

The other side of the picture was summarized in the following message which was sent by the head of a leading local commission house to a customer: "The government is definitely committed to inflation. Washington is in control. Factors which normally influence the grain markets are submerged now. Higher prices are the declared objective."

Closing Prices Irregular.

The bulk of the new speculative trade is going into September and December wheat, and the former gained fractionally on the July during the day. The close was ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher in the local market, with May finishing at 72⅞ cents, while July was 74⅜ to 74½ cents; September, 76⅛ to 76¼ cents, and December, 78¾ cents.

The close on corn was unchanged to ⅞ cents lower, with the nearby futures leading the decline. May was 44 cents at the last, with July, 46¾ cents; September, 48⅝ to 48¾ cents, and December, 51¼ to 51¼ cents.

The visible supply of corn increased 810,000 bushels in the last week, and during the last month showed a gain of 4,717,000 bushels, the first time since 1895 there has been an increase during May. Total stocks are 34,907,000 bushels, against 19,818,000 bushels last year.

Profit taking developed on the minor advances in oats, rye and barley. Oats closed unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Rye was ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher. Barley was ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Early advances on European buying were followed by partial reactions under commission house liquidation in coffee today. The steadier tone was attributed to the reported decision of the national coffee department of Brazil to purchase at sacrifice prices 40 per cent of the 1933-34 coffee crop. Of the remaining 60 per cent half was to be sold freely and the other half retained for gradual release. Santos opened 5 to 11 points higher and closed unchanged to 5 points higher on 10,000 bags. No. 7 opened 8 to 20 points higher and closed 3 to 11 points higher. Sales, 7,000 bags. Closin quotations: Santos, July, 8.22c; September, 7.88c; December, 7.70c; March, 7.61c; May, 7.57c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Cotton goods were very firm today with most selling agents declining business or withdrawing offerings until more is known of the form industrial control is to take. Finished goods buyers are showing more interest in goods for later delivery. Wool goods trading was quiet as many agencies were closed until after the holiday. Silks are very quiet most of the business being done on sheer or printed silks for immediate use. Rayon yarns are very firm with little business being booked until after the holiday. Burlaps are strong on the highest price levels of the year.
